$7.5 Million Water Bond Due On Ballot

Only Single Stage Of Plan To Be Considered

By PAT ANGLE

Voters in the Marin Municipal Water District will be offered a $7.5 million bond issue for water supply in November, a considerably smaller project than the $23.5 million package approved last week by the district board. (Another water district story, page 5.)

In a reversal of its earlier position, the board agreed yesterday to ask voters to approve only one stage of the four-stage project after Marin County supervisors appeared at the meeting to plead for a smaller bond issue.

With one dissenting vote, the board decided that the only part of the proposed Russian River water supply project to go on the ballot will be a pipeline from Hamilton Air Force Base to Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda and pumps and storage facilities.

The pipeline, along with the North Marin intertie, already approved by voters, will provide the district with an additional 8,000 acre-feet of water a year.

Directors also agreed that stage three, a $16 million pipeline from Novato to Cotati (which will make the system capable of bringing in 13,400 acre feet a year) will be presented to voters in a bond issue next April.

(The move was a change from the board's decision last Wednesday to put both stages two and three on the November ballot.)

Director Ronald T. Stafford voted against the smaller bond issue and accused his fellow directors of "playing the grossest type of politics under political pressure" by going for the less expensive project.

Stafford said the board was deceiving the voters by presenting only one part of the total system, estimated to cost approximately $45 million at accelerated prices.

He charged that stage two and the intertie could be expanded to bring in "a far greater supply than the voters

SACRAMENTO — State officials moved with unbureaucratic swiftness yesterday to help jobless Californians whose unemployment insurance payments were fouled up by a computer.

The state's Human Resources Development Department said it is drafting orders to all the unemployment insurance field offices to honor immediately the punch-card drafts produced by the erring computer, even though the payment orders may be wrong.

Corrections will be made as fast as they can be recomputed, according to William Lawson, public information chief for the state office.

Formerly, the jobless claimant would have had to wait weeks for his or her money until the mistaken payment order had been turned in to the nearest field office, sent back to Sacramento and returned via a corrected card.

Complaints by a Marin County woman, investigated by the Independent-Journal, brought the admission Tuesday that the state's computer was making up to 1,200 errors a week on payment orders.

Lawson said yesterday that the emergency action to assure at least partial payments to eligible persons resulted from the I-J inquiry.

Marion Skoss, manager of the unemployment office branch in San Rafael, said she received a telephone message from Sacramento, relaying the new policy in advance of written instructions that are being distributed statewide.

She said that if the Marin residents whose payment orders were botched by the computer will contact her, she will give them special attention.

The mistakes — 1,198 statewide in the week ending Aug. 11 alone — were found to be the result of "undetected bus" in the computer, Lawson said. The computer was fed its first unemployment insurance records this spring, on wages reported by employers for the final quarter of 1972, Lawson explained. That quarter is the base period being used by the unemployment insurance office in computing current payments, Lawson explained.

In the computer are earnings and insurance records of eight million workers, reported by 450,000 employers, Lawson explained. Statewide, the computer processes 200,000 claims a week, and it's supposed to verify about 1,660 claims by jobless persons in Marin eligible for payments totalling $100,500 a week.

To track down the errors, the claims computation staff in the Sacramento headquarters is being kept at full strength. It hasn't suffered the 10 per cent staff cutback ordered throughout the rest of the department as a result of a budget pinch, Lawson added.

He said the recomputation of the erroneous claims "may take weeks," but meanwhile the claimants will not be without funds.

Financier Pollock Owes Investors $66.9 Million

A Marin Superior Court judge ruled yesterday that Black Point financier Robert W. Pollock owes $66,900,000 to 20,000 foreign investors who poured money into his financial empire.

Judge E. Warren McGuire's intended decision in a suit brought by four European investors also requires Pollock to pay $6,690,000 in exemplary damages.

McGuire previously had ruled Pollock, 40, had to repay the persons who invested in more than 100 companies he controlled, but the exact amount had not been set.

The judge called Pollock's skein of interlocking companies a fraud and said he knew their image of "financial stability and trustworthiness" was false.

Agnew Successor In Maryland Is Indicted In Extortion Counts

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The federal grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland today indicted Dale Anderson, who succeeded Spiro T. Agnew as top executive of Baltimore County, on charges of extorting $46,400 from contractors.

The indictment named a former county administrator, William E. Fornoff, who worked under Agnew when he was county executive, as a "coconspirator" but not a defendant in the case. Fornoff is expected to testify for the prosecution.

Anderson, a Democrat, succeeded Agnew as executive of the sprawling suburban county that surrounds Baltimore in 1966 when Agnew was elected governor.

The indictment charged Anderson with extortion and "causing, aiding and abetting extortion by Fornoff and others of specific sums of cash from specific companies."

The indictment said "the money was obtained by Fornoff as agent for N. Dale Anderson."

The indictment charged that since 1966, eight contractors made 31 payments to Fornoff totaling $46,400.

Anderson was charged with one count of conspiracy, 31 counts of extortion and seven of interstate travel to facilitate bribery and extortion.

Maximum penalty for conviction of extortion is 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

The architectural, engineering, surveying and consultant firms named in the indictment were:

Gaudreau Inc., George W. Stephens Jr. and Associates Inc.; John B. Funk Associates Inc.; General Engineering Consultants Inc.; James Petrica and Associates Inc.; Whiteford, Falk and Mask Inc.; Greiner Environmental Services Inc. and Matz, Child Associates Inc.

The Greiner firm is headed by Jerome B. Wolff, a former assistant to Agnew while he was vice president, governor of Maryland and Baltimore county executive. Published reports have said Wolff has told federal prosecutors that Agnew was involved in the alleged extortion and bribery conspiracy.

Condition Of King Said 'Very Serious'

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden, who underwent surgery two days ago for intestinal bleeding, has contracted pneumonia and his physician today termed the complication "very serious."

A hospital communique signed by Prof. Gunnar Bioerck, the king's personal doctor, said the 90-year-old Swedish monarch was put back in a respirator last night when "it became difficult for the king to breathe and he showed signs of exhaustion."

Suit Blocking San Rafael Redevelopment Is Dropped

By GEORGE NEVIN

The final legal barrier to San Rafael's ambitious redevelopment scheme was removed yesterday as Joaquin P. Gallardo dropped a lawsuit challenging the $6 million project.

The settlement came during the first day of trial on the suit brought by Gallardo, 32-year-old chairman of La Familia, a group of Spanish-speaking citizens.

Gallardo's attorney, Marilyn Berger, said the City of San Rafael forced the settlement when redevelopment attorney Steven Goldfarb mentioned Gallardo could be liable for thousands of dollars of court costs if he lost.

Gallardo had been under the impression he could be charged only $500, an amount Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best fixed last week, but Best confirmed the cost could be more, and Gallardo was forced to drop the suit, Mrs. Berger said.

Goldfarb, who polled three members of the San Rafael City Council by telephone before agreeing to the settlement, pledged the city will proceed "full speed ahead" on the controversial project.

In exchange for dismissal of the suit, the city agreed to three concessions, chief among them that Gallardo will be named to a citizens advisory committee on redevelopment.

The city also will mail notices of hearings on displacement of

Mileage Information Is Asked On New Automobiles This Fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) asked U.S. automakers today to tell new car buyers this fall how many miles the cars should get on a gallon of gasoline.

"In the midst of a national energy crisis and rising fuel costs, American cannot afford to waste billions of gallons of gasoline," Robert L. Sansom, the assistant EPA administrator for air and water programs, told a news conference in announcing the proposed mileage program.

"This program will let consumers know what they are buying in terms of gasoline consumption and what they are paying in terms of out-of-pocket operating costs," Sansom said.

If the automakers cooperate in the voluntary plan, the 1974 models going on sale next month would have window labels posted beside the price sticker explaining the expected gas mileage in city driving.

The labels also would point out that driving habits and conditions vary and that other factors may influence the estimated mileage and fuel cost figures.

The "big three" U.S. automakers — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — contend there is no adequate measurement of gas mileage because of these factors.

Under the voluntary program, all 1974 and later model cars and light trucks would contain the labels, which are based on EPA tests that simulate commuter-type driving.

Sansom said the program is designed to encourage consumers to buy cars with good fuel economy and the automakers to produce such vehicles.

In the 1974 model year, automakers could choose between two types of labels — one providing specific gasoline mileage per gallon and the other grouping automobiles by weight and showing comparative gas mileage rates for each class.

Bridges Poses A Threat To New Ferry Terminal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Longshore leader Harry Bridges said yesterday the Golden Gate Bridge District must come to some sort of an accommodation with his union before a new ferry terminal is constructed.

Bridges, speaking as a member of the San Francisco Port Commission, threatened to disrupt the district's commuter ferry runs between San Francisco and Marin County unless all labor problems were settled beforehand.

The veteran labor leader objected to granting a 66-year lease to the district for construction of a new terminal above the Bay Area Rapid Transit subway tube near the Ferry Building. The commission voted to give the bridge district only a temporary lease pending settlement of the labor controversy.

"Your union problem is that we (the ILWU) expect to man that terminal and not some seagoing craft," said Bridges. "I'm talking about crews of these boats coming ashore and trying to do some of this (shoreside) work."

When Leonoudakis said the 66-year lease should be granted and that the labor problems could be settled before the terminal was ready, Bridges replied:

"You're not going to have that terminal operating until we settle the problem."

Leonoudakis and Dale Luehring, general manager of the bridge district, said hesitancy on the part of the port commission might delay federal approval of a grant to finance two-thirds of the proposed $1 million ferry terminal.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Cure For VD

The new drug, a combination of ampicillin and probenecid, was found 90 per cent effective last year by the Public Health Service, but so far only one company, Bristol Laboratories of Syracuse, N.Y., has received Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval to sell the prescription drink.

Harold Snyder, president of the competing Biocraft Laboratories of Elmwood Park, N.J., has complained that the FDA is dawdling in letting his company sell the drug.

Snyder has asked Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to investigate the FDA's delay in approving his company's product.

Water Shortage

TOKYO (UPI) — Tokyo imposed water rationing for the second day today, and officials warned that key reservoirs, depleted by a record heat wave in the history of the world's largest city, could run dry in 16 days.

Attack On Hue

SAIGON (UPI) — Communists fired hundreds of mortar rounds at government troops guarding Hue and tried to storm one of the outposts ringing the former imperial capital, it was reported today.

The South Vietnamese command said the guerrillas fired 337 mortar rounds at five government positions around Hue yesterday, killing four Saigon soldiers and wounding six. It was the seventh day in a row of shellings against the city's defenders.

Orchestra Plans Tour Of China

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Eugene Ormandy will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra in the western premiere of "The Yellow River Concerto" Saturday night as a prelude to the orchestra's China tour and a final note to the summer season at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The new score was presented to the orchestra by the People's Republic of China with the request that it be played during the Philadelphians' fall tour of China.

Daniel Epstein, a young pianist who has attempted to unite his interests in music and orientalia, was given the score by the Chinese Mission to the United Nations and will join the orchestra for the performance.

The concerto for piano and orchestra was written by the Central Orchestral Committee of the People's Republic. It tells the story of the war between the Chinese and Japanese in the 1940s when Chairman Mao was leading his troops down from the mountains.

Montoya Says Mail Favors Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, says 83 per cent of his mail has urged continuation of the panel hearings.

Of the 511 letters his office has received since President Nixon made his Aug. 15 speech in which he called for turning over the entire case to the courts, Montoya said 422 have asked "that we continue, as opposed to the 89 which supported the President's request."

Indian Uprising

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Ten armed members of the American Indian Movement took over the State Department of Public Instruction offices yesterday but surrendered peacefully and were arrested after law enforcement officers threatened a showdown.

The Indians occupied the offices on the second floor of the Grimes State Office Building for more than two and one-half hours before scrapping plans for a confrontation with officers.

Officers seized six .22-caliber rifles, one .30-caliber carbine, a black powder pistol and between 400 and 500 rounds of ammunition.

Mexican Flood

IRAPUATO, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria yesterday toured flood-ravaged Irapuato where thousands of homes were wiped out and an estimated 300 persons died when a dam burst, sending a seven-foot-high wall of water crashing into the city.

A cameraman who flew over the scene said it looked "really bad — like Managua after the Dec. 23, 1972 earthquake. At least 40,000 houses were destroyed."

Larger buildings remained standing but most of the town's adobe houses were washed away.

Allende Rapped

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The Chamber of Deputies accused President Salvador Allende of violating the constitution last night and called on the armed forces to make sure his Marxist government obeys the law.

The 81-47 vote, coming near the end of a 48-hour strike by hundreds of thousands of Chileans protesting Allende's labor policies, condemned the government for "constant trampling of the guarantees and fundamental rights established in the constitution."

The resolution was pushed through the lower house after legislators shelved an even tougher motion declaring the Allende government "illegal and illegitimate."

Irish Murder

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen in the border town of Newry tore a young man from the arms of his girlfriend as he was kissing her good night early today, killed him and dumped his body on the outskirts of town, police said.

The British army said troops arrested a top leader of a militant Northern Ireland Protestant organization.

The young man was the 868th person killed in four years of violence among majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and security forces in Northern Ireland.

Wheat Exports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With commercial wheat exports booming and prices riding at record levels, the United States may cut wheat shipments under the Food for Peace program to the lowest level since the program began in 1955, officials indicated today.

Exports under the long-term credit phase of the program, which reached a peak of about 500 million bushels annually during the 1960's, had fallen to 194.5 million bushels in the 1970-71 marketing season, 174.1 million in 1971-72, and then dropped sharply to an estimated 95 million bushels in the 1972-73 season which ended June 30.

Auto Talks

DETROIT (UPI) — Negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the Chrysler Corp. settled down today to long, hard bargaining aimed at a Sept. 15 agreement. If negotiations fail, the strike target is Chrysler, the smallest member of the "Big Three" automakers.

The negotiations resumed yesterday, less than 24 hours after the UAW leadership selected Chrysler as its strike target this year. The company is the largest employer in the Detroit area, with 94,000 of its 174,500 hourly and salaried U.S. and Canadian workers employed in and around the city.

Nixon Has Confidence In Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon offered guarded support of his vice president yesterday, praising Spiro T. Agnew's "integrity" but stopping short of declaring absolute belief in his innocence of complicity in Maryland corruption.

At his San Clemente press conference, Nixon said he had confidence in Agnew's integrity when he first picked him in 1968 and "my confidence in his integrity has not been shaken. In fact, it has been strengthened by his courageous conduct and his ability."

A spokesman for Agnew said the vice president welcomed Nixon's support—and found it unsurprising.

The spokesman, Agnew press secretary Marsh Thompson, also dismissed a story i the Chicago Sun-Times which said "vicious, Kremlin-like infighting" has broken out between Agnew on the one hand and Nixon and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson on the other.

The story was attributed only to an "associate" of Agnew not on the government payroll. The associate accused Richardson of failing to stop news leaks about the Agnew investigation because Richardson wants to be President. The associate also said the leaks serve Nixon by diverting attention from Watergate and making Nixon's impeachment remote since he would be succeeded by a tainted vice president.

Asked about the story, Thompson said: "The vice president disassociates himself from anything so critical of the President especially, and certainly of his colleague in the administration, the attorney general."

Meantime, there were indications the grand jury in Baltimore, investigating kickbacks and shakedowns since January, was close to indicting local Democrats of suburban Baltimore County.

U.S. Attorney George Beall has said the jury has heard nothing involving Agnew and nothing would be heard before Labor Day.

Before then, Richardson must decide whether information about Agnew's activities as Baltimore County executive and governor of Maryland will be presented to the grand jury.

Lone Survivor Rogers Is Now Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the last survivor of the original Nixon cabinet, has resigned and will be replaced by presidential national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

President Nixon at his news conference yesterday in San Clemente, announced that Kissinger would become secretary of state Sept. 3 while retaining his present job as a presidential assistant.

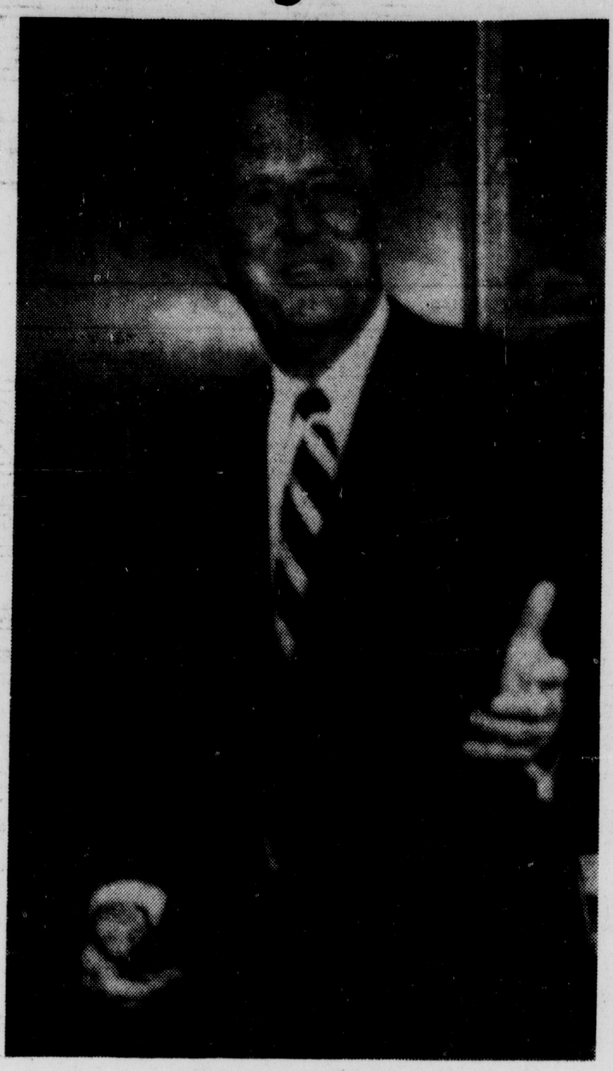
An interesting legal question arises from the fact that Kissinger, as a presidential assistant, can invoke "executive privilege" to avoid testifying before Congress on foreign policy. On the other hand, as secretary of state he does not have this immunity and is supposed to present the administration's views to Congress in public and private.

Rogers, the reluctant diplomat who never really wanted to be secretary of state, told newsmen that "I feel like the last of the whooping cranes. I'm the only one who stayed four and a half years."

George P. Shultz, labor secretary in the first Nixon Cabinet, is now secretary of the treasury but served in between Cabinet positions as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Rogers claimed that he told Nixon at the beginning he would only stay four years and tried to get out last January. He asserted, however, that unfinished business in Indochina, the Middle East, Latin America and Europe persuaded him to stay on for seven more months.

Behind the gentle humor of Rogers' remarks, newsmen who have known him for many years thought they detected considerable disillusionment with the actions of the current administration, probably ascribed to the Watergate affair.



WILLIAM P. ROGERS
Last original cabinet member

Despite the cordiality of the letters exchanged by Rogers and Nixon, it was clear that their friendship of a quarter of a century had cooled somewhat in recent months.

Rogers said during his talk with reporters yesterday that he and the President had discussed Watergate at Camp David for about two days late in April but that in the intervening four months it had not been mentioned between them.

For a man who has been credited by Nixon with being his closest adviser and comforter during his so-called "Six Crises," beginning with the 1952 political fund scandal which almost cost Nixon his spot as vice president on the Eisenhower ticket, the coolness appeared unusual.

Nixon himself has written that Rogers, who served as attorney general in the Eisenhower cabinet, and California kingmaker Murray Chotiner plotted the strategy for the "Checkers Speech," from which Nixon emerged "clean as a hound's tooth" so far as Eisenhower was concerned.

Rogers denied suggestions that he was quitting because of the Watergate scandal, which has besmirched the Nixon administration, although the secretary is one of the few who has not been touched by it.

He said: "I would have left whether there had been a Watergate or no Watergate. That doesn't mean I don't have feelings about Watergate. It does not mean that I don't think this is not a good time to make the decision. I think this is very timely."

That statement, when added to what Rogers said at a news conference Monday, seemed to belie his assertion that Watergate had nothing to do with his resignation.

On Monday he said, when asked about Watergate, "I believe that it is very important for the United States not to become so obsessed with security matters that laws are freely violated." He said specifically that national security was not sufficiently involved to warrant the burglary of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and declared: "I think one of the things that provides security for Americans is that we are a law-abiding nation, and that is protection for all individuals, and protection for indiviual rights."

Cafeteria Runs Out Of Hamburger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The beef shortage has come home to the people who make U.S. agricultural policy. The cafeteria in the Agriculture Department's headquarters building is out of hamburger.

An employee said the cafeteria ran out yesterday. He could not predict when new supplies would arrive. However, the cafeteria's sandwich line continued to offer a sandwich of thinly-sliced roast beef priced at $1.

"As a salesman, I do a lot of driving—about 50,000 miles a year. Two years ago, I was driving a 1968 Cadillac and was getting quite tired of spending so much money on gas. So I started to shop around. I looked into VW, Toyota, and Subaru. I settled on Subaru because of the front wheel drive, the mileage, and the dealer's reputation."

"I put my new Subaru on the road in April 1971 and drove it until February 1973, when I traded it in for a new Subaru 4-Door sedan. In 91,000 miles, I spent less than $20 on repairs. I've been driving 50,000 miles a year for twenty-five years and I've never had such dependable and economical transportation. I've never had a car that came close to the performance of the Subaru."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Cure For VD

The new drug, a combination of ampicillin and probenecid, was found 90 per cent effective last year by the Public Health Service, but so far only one company, Bristol Laboratories of Syracuse, N.Y., has received Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval to sell the prescription drink.

Harold Snyder, president of the competing Biocraft Laboratories of Elmwood Park, N.J., has complained that the FDA is dawdling in letting his company sell the drug.

Snyder has asked Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to investigate the FDA's delay in approving his company's product.

Water Shortage

TOKYO (UPI) — Tokyo imposed water rationing for the second day today, and officials warned that key reservoirs, depleted by a record heat wave in the history of the world's largest city, could run dry in 16 days.

Attack On Hue

SAIGON (UPI) — Communists fired hundreds of mortar rounds at government troops guarding Hue and tried to storm one of the outposts ringing the former imperial capital, it was reported today.

The South Vietnamese command said the guerrillas fired 337 mortar rounds at five government positions around Hue yesterday, killing four Saigon soldiers and wounding six. It was the seventh day in a row of shellings against the city's defenders.

Orchestra Plans Tour Of China

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Eugene Ormandy will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra in the western premiere of "The Yellow River Concerto" Saturday night as a prelude to the orchestra's China tour and a final note to the summer season at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The new score was presented to the orchestra by the People's Republic of China with the request that it be played during the Philadelphians' fall tour of China.

Daniel Epstein, a young pianist who has attempted to unite his interests in music and orientalia, was given the score by the Chinese Mission to the United Nations and will join the orchestra for the performance.

The concerto for piano and orchestra was written by the Central Orchestral Committee of the People's Republic. It tells the story of the war between the Chinese and Japanese in the 1940s when Chairman Mao was leading his troops down from the mountains.

Montoya Says Mail Favors Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, says 83 per cent of his mail has urged continuation of the panel hearings.

Of the 511 letters his office has received since President Nixon made his Aug. 15 speech in which he called for turning over the entire case to the courts, Montoya said 422 have asked "that we continue, as opposed to the 89 which supported the President's request."

Indian Uprising

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Ten armed members of the American Indian Movement took over the State Department of Public Instruction offices yesterday but surrendered peacefully and were arrested after law enforcement officers threatened a showdown.

The Indians occupied the offices on the second floor of the Grimes State Office Building for more than two and one-half hours before scrapping plans for a confrontation with officers.

Officers seized six .22-caliber rifles, one .30-caliber carbine, a black powder pistol and between 400 and 500 rounds of ammunition.

Mexican Flood

IRAPUATO, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria yesterday toured flood-ravaged Irapuato where thousands of homes were wiped out and an estimated 300 persons died when a dam burst, sending a seven-foot-high wall of water crashing into the city.

A cameraman who flew over the scene said it looked "really bad — like Managua after the Dec. 23, 1972 earthquake. At least 40,000 houses were destroyed."

Larger buildings remained standing but most of the town's adobe houses were washed away.

Allende Rapped

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The Chamber of Deputies accused President Salvador Allende of violating the constitution last night and called on the armed forces to make sure his Marxist government obeys the law.

The 81-47 vote, coming near the end of a 48-hour strike by hundreds of thousands of Chileans protesting Allende's labor policies, condemned the government for "constant trampling of the guarantees and fundamental rights established in the constitution."

$79 Million Spent During Nine Months In Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major contributions to presidential and vice presidential candidates during a nine-month period last year totaled about $79 million, the General Accounting Office announced today, clearly the largest amount ever collected for national campaigns.

A 1,900-page compilation by the GAO's Office of Federal Elections reflected contributions in excess of $100 to all candidates for President and Vice President in the form of donations, ticket sales, loans, transfers, interest, rebates and other payments for the period of April 7 - Dec. 1, 1972.

"The total of these contributions, ticket sales, loans, and other payments comes to approximately $79 million," the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, said in a statement accompanying the four-volume report.

The report was the first issued under the 1971 Federal Election Campaign Act, which requires an annual accounting of total contributions and expenditures for all presidential and vice presidential candidates and identification of all those who contributed in excess of $100 to these candidates.

Other portions of the report will be published later.

The report on contributions starts with the date the new campaign law went into effect and thus does not include contributions prior to April 7, 1972.

It has been estimated that the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President alone collected $20 million before the April 7 deadline.

The GAO report lists, in alphabetical order, transactions involving about 2,570 political committees that registered with and reported to the Office of Federal Elections under requirements of the new law.

The GAO said the report contained 71,575 entries reflecting contributions and ticket sales totaling $63.6 million and 1,750 entries reflecting loans amounting to $15.1 million. The report did not indicate if the loans had been repaid.

Since this was the first report to deal so extensively with the scope of campaign contributions for presidential and vice presidential candidates, there were no previous figures available for comparison. But political observers said there was no question that the amount reported was the biggest ever collected.

The GAO cautioned in a statement: "The length of the list, the volume of data in it, and the circumstances of compilation make it impossible to assure complete accuracy. Accordingly, data extracted from the compilation should be used as a guide and summary, and where necessary verified from the source reports."

The report covers contributions not only to the campaigns of President Nixon and his Democratic opponent, Sen. George S. McGovern, but also to those of more than a dozen hopefuls who contested the Republican and Democratic nominations for President and Vice President.

Contributions to Socialist Workers, American Independent, Communist, Prohibition and other minor party candidates also were included.

Fire Board Budget Cut $96,000

The Novato Fire Protection District board had to slice $96,000 from its 1973-74 budget last night because assessed valuation in the district didn't increase enough to cover it.

Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder said $48,000 was cut from the contingency fund and $48,000 from capital outlay, the portion earmarked toward development of another fire station.

When a preliminary budget of $869,975 was adopted in June, Kidder then said he didn't know if the increase in assessed valuation would bring in enough revenue to cover the entire budget.

Kidder said the district tax rate will be 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up one cent from last year; the increase covering only items permitted by Senate Bill 90, which governs property taxes, he said.

The board will have a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 19 to discuss the retirement program, Chief Kidder said. Director Henry V. Alvernaz was absent.

Motorcyclist's Condition Good

A Ukiah man, who apparently was thrown off an approach to the Greenbrae overpass in a motorcycle accident Monday, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Bill Ray Atteberry, who underwent surgery for a head injury, was apparently taken to the hospital about 5 a.m. by a passerby, according to Larkspur police.

Officers found his motorcycle in some brush under the overpass and theorized that he had hit a curb and gone off the eastbound feeder lane to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

A policeman who talked to Atteberry later said the man remembered nothing about the accident.

Display On Fairs Will Be Shown

The exhibit has been timed to coincide with the county fair and will run through Sept. 3 — the same as the fair.

Earliest mementos are from the Paris Exhibition of 1867 and the International Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876.

Library hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Special Day For Students

Hill Junior High School in Novato will hold its annual "introduction day" for seventh grade students at 9 a.m. Sept. 6, principal Harry J. Moore reported yesterday.

Students will attend an assembly and then move through a shortened school day, Moore said.

"The program gives the new students a chance to look over the school, their teachers and student activities for the coming year without interference from the older students," he said.

Applications For Income Offered

The San Rafael social security office is taking applications for supplemental income payments for people in financial need who are 65 or over, blind, or disabled, a spokesman said today.

Beginning in January the program will establish a cash income floor of $130 a month for one person and $195 for a couple, he said.

Marinites Seeking Queen Title

Two Corte Madera teen-agers will vie for the title of "Queen Isabella" in conjunction with the Columbus Day celebration in San Francisco beginning Sept. 30.

Sandra Petrini, 16, 310 Golden Hind Passage, and Debra Ann Moresco, 16, 525 Robin Drive, are among 20 girls aiming for the title, which include: an all-expense-paid trip for two to Hawaii.

The queen will be selected at a pageant in San Francisco Sept. 8 said Antony D. Alioto of Novato, chairman of the pageant.

Alioto said the queen will reign over a variety of events from Sept. 30 to Oct. 8 including the blessing of the fleet at Fishermans' Wharf, Columbus Day banquet, parade and the recreation of the landing of Columbus.

He said the Italian community celebration dates back over 60 years and efforts over the last two years have been to expand the celebration from a San Francisco event to a Bay Area wide gala.

Charge Reduced In Motor Theft

Two Bolinas men face only misdemeanor charges of petty theft in Marin Municipal Court in connection with the theft of an outboard motor from a Sausalito yacht.

John Edward Russell, 27, and Steven Robert Perkins, 21, originally had been charged with grand theft, but the reduced count was filed Tuesday by the Marin District Attorney's Office.

An investigation by the attorney's office showed the motor, originally valued at $300, has a value of less than $200.

Blast Ends In Arrest For Drugs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Mill Valley man has been arrested as a result of an explosion at a Monte Rio home, where sheriff's deputies said a drug laboratory caught fire.

Charles Burr Cunningham, 24, of 421 Shoreline Highway, was arrested Tuesday on suspicion of manufacturing methamphetamine. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Deputies said Cunningham was found dazed shortly after the explosion at the home near the Russian River resort area. Deputies theorized that ether used in manufacturing exploded because occupants were cooking at a nearby stove.

The four Europeans filed a class action suit against Pollock in March 1972, claiming they and other investors were not allowed to redeem investments or withdraw their funds.

The maze of 100 corporations, called an "offshore mutual fund" because most were incorporated in foreign countries to escape U.S. government control, was crippled by a recession in the securities market in 1969 and 1970 and collapsed in 1971.

McGuire's ruling means Pollock personally is liable for the difference between the present worth of his kingdom, called United Financial Group, and the amount owed creditors.

The judge held that Pollock personally directed the 100 companies in his empire and so was responsible for their false practices.

These included using investments for promotion and expansion instead of producing income; issuing false financial statements; not allowing investors to withdraw funds, and failing to follow stated investment policies.

Pollock's attorneys may challenge McGuire's intended decision and if they do, a hearing will be held to determine if the ruling will be alltered. McGuire said his decision is almost certain to be appealed.

Businessmen Promise To Clean Up

A small group of businessmen last night promised the Tamalpais Valley Task Force they will clean up and beautify businesses along the east side of Shoreline Highway.

Curry Eckelhoff, task force chairman, said the Tamalpais Valley master plan, now being reviewed by the county, calls for the businesses to be phased out over a 20-year period.

The Tamalpais Valley Businessmen's Association, lead by real estate man Jerry Barbour, told the task force that it had hired an architect to plan renovation and landscaping of the firms.

The task force then agreed to work with the businessmen, on a beautification plan to replace the proposal to do away with the businesses, which include a building supply firm, kennel, grocery store, nursery, and auto repair shop.

BOND

The district board has promised the entire Russian River project will produce only 13,400 acre-feet of water a year, the amount needed to support the limited growth proposed by the Marin Countywide General Plan.

Directors have vowed to contract for that amount — and no more — from the North Marin County Water District and Sonoma County Water Agency, which will supply the water initially.

But Stafford contended yesterday that those assurances are not enough. He said future boards could easily decide to bring in much more water through the line.

The board acted after supervisors warned that the proposed $23 million bond issue had scant chance of passing in today's economic climate.

"Without the passage of a reasonable bond issue in November, we will have a moratorium (on new water connections) in this county for a long time," said Supervisor Arnold Baptiste. "The countywide plan cannot be implemented without water."

Director Jack R. Felson, who later changed his mind and voted for the reduced project, said that the 8,000 acre-feet of water from stage two and the intertie would not be enough to avert a threatened water shortage.

He said the district was already using approximately 6,500 acre feet more than its net safe yield, the amount of water the district reservoirs can be expected to produce year in, year out.

"We need stage three if we want to allow for growth," he said.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said the smaller bond issue would assure voters that the pipeline project will not "be an excessive force for growth," but would provide sufficient water to meet the county plan's limited growth.

Wornum pointed out the third stage of the system, which would increase its capability to 13,400 acre-feet, would not be completed until 1979. "You're not going to delay one drop of water if you postpone a bond issue on stage three," he said.

Tom Thorner, the water district's attorney, warned that the board would be placing the district "in a very bad position" if the bond issue approved did not produce enough water to lift the district's connection moratorium. He said some of the lawsuits already brought against the district by developers have charged that the board is not proceeding fast enough to develop an adequate water supply.

Thorner seemed mollified, however, by the board's promise to present another bond issue next April.

Supervisors and some directors agreed that the fate of the reduced bond issue will show whether Marin residents want any kind of growth in the county.

residents and businesses in the redevelopment area to affected property owners and tenants and public the notices in the Independent-Journal.

Any person whom Gallardo decides does not read English well enough to understand the notices also will be mailed a notice translated into Spanish.

In the third concession, the city agreed not to require Gallardo to pay any of the legal expenses, estimated at more than $5,000, it has incurred in fighting the suit. The city also will pay $76 for a deposition Gallardo filed on the suit.

Gallardo agreed to surrender his right to appeal the case.

Mrs. Berger, clearly unhappy over the settlement, accused San Rafael of "using its monetary powers to squeeze out a low-income person from litigating something in the public interest.

"They used every monetary ploy they could. They played the game and won," said the Legal Aid Society attorney who represented Gallardo without cost to him.

Mrs. Berger said the outcome wasn't without its benefit to her client, however. "It showed the city that the redevelopment agency will be watched very closely in the future," with Gallardo on the advisory panel.

Gallardo, also a member of the human rights commission in Marin, became the lone plaintiff in the suit challenging the redevelopment project after the County of Marin and the Marin Community College District settled their differences with the city and backed out.

Goldfarb said the settlement "will give us a chance to do what we've been saying all along we'll do — proceed in good faith with a project that will not hurt anyone and will prove a benefit to San Rafael."

OBITUARIES

TERRY TIFFANY

Terry Donald Tiffany of Sausalito, an executive with Coca Cola Co. in San Francisco, died unexpectedly yesterday at a local hospital. He was 32.

Tiffany, of 95 Crescent Avenue, collapsed at home at 7:50 p.m. and was taken by ambulance to Marin General Hospital, where attempts to revive him failed. He had been suffering abdominal and chest pains since returning two weeks ago from a trip to Mexico, according to the Marin County Coroner's Office. An autopsy is pending.

The senior manager for the Coca Cola Company's San Francisco district, Tiffany had been a resident of Marin County since transferring from Atlanta, Ga., a year ago. He had been a market research analyst for Coca Cola there and an employee of the firm for three and one-half years.

He also had been an account executive for a New York advertising agency.

A native of Kansas City, Kans., he received bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from the University of Kansas.

Funeral arrangements were pending today.

MRS. HERSVICK

Funeral for Margaret Reet Hersvick, mother of Adolph A. Hersvick of Santa Venetia, will be at 1 p.m. Friday at C. A. Anderson Funeral Parlor, 1387 Valencia Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Hersvick died Tuesday at a local hospital at the age of 74.

A native of Estonia, she came to the U.S. in 1924 and lived in San Franciscco until two months ago, when she came to live with her son at 75 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

Burial will be in Olivet Cemetery in Colma.

ROBERT DILLON

Robert Christopher Dillon of Corte Madera, a correctional officer at San Quentin for 15 years, died yesterday in Marin General Hospital after a long illness. He was 53.

A native of New York City, Dillon moved to San Francisco about 25 years ago and lived there until he moved to Corte Madera early this year.

He had been married several times, but was single at the time of his death.

Before beginning his career as a correctionl officer, Dillon had served in the merchant marine. He had been retired for five years.

He is survived by two children, Linda Dillon of Pacifica, and Edward Dillon of Bristol, Tenn.

Family service was held today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

WILLIAM HINMAN

William C. Hinman, son of Col. and Mrs. John M. Hinman of Sausalito, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 25.

He was born in Honolulu, and came to Marin County with his family in 1964. He was active in track and football at Tamalpais High School, and later was a student at University of the Pacific and College of Marin. He had planned to return to College of Marin next month

He is survived by his father, a retired Army officer, his mother Katharine, and two brothers, John Hinman Jr. of Sacramento and Thomas Hinman of Kentfield.

The funeral will be private. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

"I sold our house myself. But I'd never try to do it again!"

"You know how it is. You hear you can save money if you sell your home yourself. Well, I tried it, and learned a painful lesson the hard way.

I ran an ad and before I knew it, my family's life was turned upside-down. Our phone rang at all hours and total strangers appeared at the door demanding to be shown through. Our flowers were trampled and one day, as we came home, people were sitting on our doorstep.

I thought I had the house sold, but problems of the escrow-impounds, closing costs, title insurance, pre-payment penalty, termite work, eliminating deed encumbrances—delayed everything. (How can this stuff be so complicated!)

Then after all this, the buyer couldn't qualify for a loan. The house was finally sold, but while we were suffering by doing it ourselves, our neighbor's house across the street was sold for 15% more than ours. And it was essentially the same house! His sale was quick, smooth and professionally handled through a Realtor, who knew the true market value of the house. Sell your own home yourself? Take my advice and use a Realtor. You'll be glad you did."

But political observers said there was no question that the amount reported was the biggest ever collected.

The GAO cautioned in a statement: "The length of the list, the volume of data in it, and the circumstances of compilation make it impossible to assure complete accuracy. Accordingly, data extracted from the compilation should be used as a guide and summary, and where necessary verified from the source reports."

The report covers contributions not only to the campaigns of President Nixon and his Democratic opponent, Sen. George S. McGovern, but also to those of more than a dozen hopefuls who contested the Republican and Democratic nominations for President and Vice President.

Contributions to Socialist Workers, American Independent, Communist, Prohibition and other minor party candidates also were included.

Fire Board Budget Cut $96,000

The Novato Fire Protection District board had to slice $96,000 from its 1973-74 budget last night because assessed valuation in the district didn't increase enough to cover it.

Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder said $48,000 was cut from the contingency fund and $48,000 from capital outlay, the portion earmarked toward development of another fire station.

When a preliminary budget of $869,975 was adopted in June, Kidder then said he didn't know if the increase in assessed valuation would bring in enough revenue to cover the entire budget.

Kidder said the district tax rate will be 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up one cent from last year; the increase covering only items permitted by Senate Bill 90, which governs property taxes, he said.

The board will have a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 19 to discuss the retirement program, Chief Kidder said. Director Henry V. Alvernaz was absent.

Motorcyclist's Condition Good

A Ukiah man, who apparently was thrown off an approach to the Greenbrae overpass in a motorcycle accident Monday, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Bill Ray Atteberry, who underwent surgery for a head injury, was apparently taken to the hospital about 5 a.m. by a passerby, according to Larkspur police.

Officers found his motorcycle in some brush under the overpass and theorized that he had hit a curb and gone off the eastbound feeder lane to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

A policeman who talked to Atteberry later said the man remembered nothing about the accident.

Display On Fairs Will Be Shown

An exhibit of photographs, lithographs, pamphlets and books of early day fairs is on display at the Civic Center branch of the Marin County Library.

The exhibit has been timed to coincide with the county fair and will run through Sept. 3 — the same as the fair.

Earliest mementos are from the Paris Exhibition of 1867 and the International Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876.

Library hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Special Day For Students

Hill Junior High School in Novato will hold its annual "introduction day" for seventh grade students at 9 a.m. Sept. 6, principal Harry J. Moore reported yesterday.

Students will attend an assembly and then move through a shortened school day, Moore said.

"The program gives the new students a chance to look over the school, their teachers and student activities for the coming year without interference from the older students," he said.

Applications For Income Offered

The San Rafael social security office is taking applications for supplemental income payments for people in financial need who are 65 or over, blind, or disabled, a spokesman said today.

Beginning in January the program will establish a cash income floor of $130 a month for one person and $195 for a couple, he said.

Marinites Seeking Queen Title

Two Corte Madera teen-agers will vie for the title of "Queen Isabella" in conjunction with the Columbus Day celebration in San Francisco beginning Sept. 30.

Sandra Petrini, 16, 310 Golden Hind Passage, and Debra Ann Moresco, 16, 525 Robin Drive, are among 20 girls aiming for the title, which include: an all-expense-paid trip for two to Hawaii.

The queen will be selected at a pageant in San Francisco Sept. 8 said Antony D. Alioto of Novato, chairman of the pageant.

Alioto said the queen will reign over a variety of events from Sept. 30 to Oct. 8 including the blessing of the fleet at Fishermans' Wharf, Columbus Day banquet, parade and the recreation of the landing of Columbus.

He said the Italian community celebration dates back over 60 years and efforts over the last two years have been to expand the celebration from a San Francisco event to a Bay Area wide gala.

Charge Reduced In Motor Theft

Two Bolinas men face only misdemeanor charges of petty theft in Marin Municipal Court in connection with the theft of an outboard motor from a Sausalito yacht.

John Edward Russell, 27, and Steven Robert Perkins, 21, originally had been charged with grand theft, but the reduced count was filed Tuesday by the Marin District Attorney's Office.

An investigation by the attorney's office showed the motor, originally valued at $300, has a value of less than $200.

Blast Ends In Arrest For Drugs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Mill Valley man has been arrested as a result of an explosion at a Monte Rio home, where sheriff's deputies said a drug laboratory caught fire.

Charles Burr Cunningham, 24, of 421 Shoreline Highway, was arrested Tuesday on suspicion of manufacturing methamphetamine. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Deputies said Cunningham was found dazed shortly after the explosion at the home near the Russian River resort area. Deputies theorized that ether used in manufacturing exploded because occupants were cooking at a nearby stove.

collapsed in 1971 and now is worth only about $10 million.

The four Europeans filed a class action suit against Pollock in March 1972, claiming they and other investors were not allowed to redeem investments or withdraw their funds.

The maze of 100 corporations, called an "offshore mutual fund" because most were incorporated in foreign countries to escape U.S. government control, was crippled by a recession in the securities market in 1969 and 1970 and collapsed in 1971.

McGuire's ruling means Pollock personally is liable for the difference between the present worth of his kingdom, called United Financial Group, and the amount owed creditors.

The judge held that Pollock personally directed the 100 companies in his empire and so was responsible for their false practices.

These included using investments for promotion and expansion instead of producing income; issuing false financial statements; not allowing investors to withdraw funds, and failing to follow stated investment policies.

Pollock's attorneys may challenge McGuire's intended decision and if they do, a hearing will be held to determine if the ruling will be alltered. McGuire said his decision is almost certain to be appealed.

Businessmen Promise To Clean Up

A small group of businessmen last night promised the Tamalpais Valley Task Force they will clean up and beautify businesses along the east side of Shoreline Highway.

Curry Eckelhoff, task force chairman, said the Tamalpais Valley master plan, now being reviewed by the county, calls for the businesses to be phased out over a 20-year period.

The Tamalpais Valley Businessmen's Association, lead by real estate man Jerry Barbour, told the task force that it had hired an architect to plan renovation and landscaping of the firms.

The task force then agreed to work with the businessmen, on a beautification plan to replace the proposal to do away with the businesses, which include a building supply firm, kennel, grocery store, nursery, and auto repair shop.

may imagine."

The district board has promised the entire Russian River project will produce only 13,400 acre-feet of water a year, the amount needed to support the limited growth proposed by the Marin Countywide General Plan.

Directors have vowed to contract for that amount — and no more — from the North Marin County Water District and Sonoma County Water Agency, which will supply the water initially.

But Stafford contended yesterday that those assurances are not enough. He said future boards could easily decide to bring in much more water through the line.

The board acted after supervisors warned that the proposed $23 million bond issue had scant chance of passing in today's economic climate.

"Without the passage of a reasonable bond issue in November, we will have a moratorium (on new water connections) in this county for a long time," said Supervisor Arnold Baptiste. "The countywide plan cannot be implemented without water."

Director Jack R. Felson, who later changed his mind and voted for the reduced project, said that the 8,000 acre-feet of water from stage two and the intertie would not be enough to avert a threatened water shortage.

He said the district was already using approximately 6,500 acre feet more than its net safe yield, the amount of water the district reservoirs can be expected to produce year in, year out.

"We need stage three if we want to allow for growth," he said.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said the smaller bond issue would assure voters that the pipeline project will not "be an excessive force for growth," but would provide sufficient water to meet the county plan's limited growth.

Wornum pointed out the third stage of the system, which would increase its capability to 13,400 acre-feet, would not be completed until 1979. "You're not going to delay one drop of water if you postpone a bond issue on stage three," he said.

Tom Thorner, the water district's attorney, warned that the board would be placing the district "in a very bad position" if the bond issue approved did not produce enough water to lift the district's connection moratorium. He said some of the lawsuits already brought against the district by developers have charged that the board is not proceeding fast enough to develop an adequate water supply.

Thorner seemed mollified, however, by the board's promise to present another bond issue next April.

Supervisors and some directors agreed that the fate of the reduced bond issue will show whether Marin residents want any kind of growth in the county.

residents and businesses in the redevelopment area to affected property owners and tenants and public the notices in the Independent-Journal.

Any person whom Gallardo decides does not read English well enough to understand the notices also will be mailed a notice translated into Spanish.

In the third concession, the city agreed not to require Gallardo to pay any of the legal expenses, estimated at more than $5,000, it has incurred in fighting the suit. The city also will pay $76 for a deposition Gallardo filed on the suit.

Gallardo agreed to surrender his right to appeal the case.

Mrs. Berger, clearly unhappy over the settlement, accused San Rafael of "using its monetary powers to squeeze out a low-income person from litigating something in the public interest.

"They used every monetary ploy they could. They played the game and won," said the Legal Aid Society attorney who represented Gallardo without cost to him.

Mrs. Berger said the outcome wasn't without its benefit to her client, however. "It showed the city that the redevelopment agency will be watched very closely in the future," with Gallardo on the advisory panel.

Gallardo, also a member of the human rights commission in Marin, became the lone plaintiff in the suit challenging the redevelopment project after the County of Marin and the Marin Community College District settled their differences with the city and backed out.

Goldfarb said the settlement "will give us a chance to do what we've been saying all along we'll do — proceed in good faith with a project that will not hurt anyone and will prove a benefit to San Rafael."

OBITUARIES

TERRY TIFFANY

Terry Donald Tiffany of Sausalito, an executive with Coca Cola Co. in San Francisco, died unexpectedly yesterday at a local hospital. He was 32.

Tiffany, of 95 Crescent Avenue, collapsed at home at 7:50 p.m. and was taken by ambulance to Marin General Hospital, where attempts to revive him failed. He had been suffering abdominal and chest pains since returning two weeks ago from a trip to Mexico, according to the Marin County Coroner's Office. An autopsy is pending.

The senior manager for the Coca Cola Company's San Francisco district, Tiffany had been a resident of Marin County since transferring from Atlanta, Ga., a year ago. He had been a market research analyst for Coca Cola there and an employee of the firm for three and one-half years.

He also had been an account executive for a New York advertising agency.

A native of Kansas City, Kans., he received bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from the University of Kansas.

Funeral arrangements were pending today.

MRS. HERSVICK

Funeral for Margaret Reet Hersvick, mother of Adolph A. Hersvick of Santa Venetia, will be at 1 p.m. Friday at C. A. Anderson Funeral Parlor, 1387 Valencia Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Hersvick died Tuesday at a local hospital at the age of 74.

A native of Estonia, she came to the U.S. in 1924 and lived in San Francisco until two months ago, when she came to live with her son at 75 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

Burial will be in Olivet Cemetery in Colma.

ROBERT DILLON

Robert Christopher Dillon of Corte Madera, a correctional officer at San Quentin for 15 years, died yesterday in Marin General Hospital after a long illness. He was 53.

A native of New York City, Dillon moved to San Francisco about 25 years ago and lived there until he moved to Corte Madera early this year.

He had been married several times, but was single at the time of his death.

Before beginning his career as a correctionl officer, Dillon had served in the merchant marine. He had been retired for five years.

He is survived by two children, Linda Dillon of Pacifica, and Edward Dillon of Bristol, Tenn.

Family service was held today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

WILLIAM HINMAN

William C. Hinman, son of Col. and Mrs. John M. Hinman of Sausalito, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 25.

He was born in Honolulu, and came to Marin County with his family in 1964. He was active in track and football at Tamalpais High School, and later was a student at University of the Pacific and College of Marin. He had planned to return to College of Marin next month

He is survived by his father, a retired Army officer, his mother Katharine, and two brothers, John Hinman Jr. of Sacramento and Thomas Hinman of Kentfield.

The funeral will be private. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

"I sold our house myself. But I'd never try to do it again!"

"You know how it is. You hear you can save money if you sell your home yourself. Well, I tried it, and learned a painful lesson the hard way.

I ran an ad and before I knew it, my family's life was turned upside-down. Our phone rang at all hours and total strangers appeared at the door demanding to be shown through. Our flowers were trampled and one day, as we came home, people were sitting on our doorstep.

I thought I had the house sold, but problems of the escrow-impounds, closing costs, title insurance, pre-payment penalty, termite work, eliminating deed encumbrances—delayed everything. (How can this stuff be so complicated!)

Then after all this, the buyer couldn't qualify for a loan. The house was finally sold, but while we were suffering by doing it ourselves, our neighbor's house across the street was sold for 15% more than ours. And it was essentially the same house! His sale was quick, smooth and professionally handled through a Realtor, who knew the true market value of the house. Sell your own home yourself? Take my advice and use a Realtor. You'll be glad you did."

HOW TO KEEP CROWDS AWAY

Taking part in an exotic dance act at Boston's Pilgrim Burlesque Theater can be tiring; so this trio, Maria Villa, Tara, and Casper, enjoyed a day of relaxing on the Boston Common yesterday. A Call For Supporting The Military

HONOLULU (UPI) — The commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific has called for the "hostile" attitude toward the military to be changed to support.

Adm. Noel Gayler told the 55th National Convention of the American Legion yesterday that the Indochina war had led many to forget why the U.S. entered the conflict, "took on the burden of free world defense and the many who gave their lives to that ideal."

The most important factor in the quality of military life, he said, "is how it is regarded by the country."

"That attitude that we soo too much of, of hostility toward the military, and toward military men and women, has got to be changed to support," he said. "The attitude of indifference has got to be changed to concern. The cheap shot that some people take against the military has got to be made costly."

The public had to realize, Gayler said, that "without dedicated people there is no quality, without quality there is no capability, and without capability there is no security."

Actress Jane Fonda, a critic of American prisoners of war returned from Indochina prison camps, came under fire at the convention.

Not 'Done In,' Just Falls Asleep

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Police received a call from a worried housewife who said she heard heavy breathing, a thud and then silence while talking on the telephone with her husband, a night watchman. She told police she feared her husband had been "done in."

But officers who went to the scene reported yesterday "Everything is okay here. While he was talking to his wife on the telephone, he fell asleep."

New Manager Of Construction For Water District Is Named

The 47-year-old Rogers was selected last night by the water district board which also appointed H. R. (Rusty) Ghilotti as deputy manager.

The new manager, who currently heads public works construction and maintenance activities in Berkeley, will replace Hector P. Puccinelli who is to retire Sept. 1.

He was chosen for the $21,100-a-year post from approximately 100 applicants.

Rogers, who has more than 20 years experience as an engineering manager, was for three years managing engineer for the 6,000-acre Kaiser Hawaii-Kai industrial-commercial-resort development in Honolulu.

Before going to work for the city of Berkeley, he was area manager and associate partner in Lyon Associates, Inc., one of the world's largest architectural firms.

A former army and air force officer, he also served as post engineer at various bases.

He attended the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Maryland, with a major in civil engineering. He is currently working toward additional credits needed for his engineering degree at the University of California at Berkeley.

Rogers is married and the father of three children.

Ghilotti, whose new job will include supervision of construction in the field, is currently supervisor of the district's construction and maintenance projects.

The 62-year-old deputy manager and his wife live at 18 Dunphries Terrace in San Rafael. The couple has three grown children.

Marin Municipal Water Directors Also:

MORATORIUM — Voted to exempt buildings and projects which would normally take more than 18 months to build from the time limitations included in the district's moratorium ordinance. The regulation had stated that the district could grant new connections (but not pipeline extensions) until Aug. 28 only to projects or buildings which could be built within 18 months of the time the ban was enacted on April 30. The board also ruled that construction of projects, which must begin within 120 days from April 30, can include preparation of the site of the development.

APARTMENT — Refused to approve a variance to the moratorium ordinance for Stanford N. Diller's 180-unit Richardson Bay Apartments, part of the Shelter Bay development near Mill Valley. Diller had sought to obtain water for the project without a pipeline extension, since extensions are no longer permitted under the ban. The board suggested that Diller seek a variance from the freeze on extensions.

SHOPPING CENTER — Turned down a request from Sutter Hill Limited to obtain water for a proposed shopping center in Mill Valley without a pipeline extension. The firm hopes to build a supermarket, drugstore, bank and a variety of shops at the corner of Lomit Drive and East Blithedale Avenue.

DEVELOPMENT — Denied a variance to Paul Sade who had also sought water without an extension for the 188-unit Crest Marin Apartments on Smith Ranch Road in San Rafael.

ROAD — Paid $8,852 to L. W. Berinhoff for land and rights of way for a planned access road to the district's Bret Harte tank in San Rafael.

ATTORNEYS — Paid $1,333 to attorney Douglas Ferguson for work done during July on lawsuits against the district and agreed to pay Tom Thorner, district counsel, $50 an hour for time he works above 45 hours a month.

More Help Needed In Policing Bay Area Fill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The chairman of the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation and the Environment said there was "serious need" for additional policing efforts to prevent illegal fill operations in San Francisco Bay.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., made his statement yesterday after taking a 200-mile helicopter ride to view the shoreline with two other members of his subcommittee. Members are making a Pacific Coast and Alaska survey of the effects of conservation legislation.

Col. James L. Lammie, San Francisco district chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, accompanied the legislators on the tour and noted that he has received 23 reports of illegal fill operations since July 1, compared to 134 villations reported in the previous fiscal year.

He pointed out fill encroachments on the bay, which included garbage, sewage waste, construction debris and earth for enlargement of an industrial plant.

He said the policing operations were being coordinated with the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the Interior Department.

HOW TO KEEP CROWDS AWAY

Taking part in an exotic dance act at Boston's Pilgrim Burlesque Theater can be tiring; so this trio, Maria Villa, Tara, and Casper, enjoyed a day of relaxing on the Boston Common yesterday. Maria is the one with the two legs, and Tara and Casper are the ones keeping other Bostonians at a distance. (UPI Telephoto)

A Call For Supporting The Military

HONOLULU (UPI) — The commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific has called for the "hostile" attitude toward the military to be changed to support.

Adm. Noel Gayler told the 55th National Convention of the American Legion yesterday that the Indochina war had led many to forget why the U.S. entered the conflict, "took on the burden of free world defense and the many who gave their lives to that ideal."

The most important factor in the quality of military life, he said, "is how it is regarded by the country."

"That attitude that we soo too much of, of hostility toward the military, and toward military men and women, has got to be changed to support," he said. "The attitude of indifference has got to be changed to concern. The cheap shot that some people take against the military has got to be made costly."

The public had to realize, Gayler said, that "without dedicated people there is no quality, without quality there is no capability, and without capability there is no security."

Actress Jane Fonda, a critic of American prisoners of war returned from Indochina prison camps, came under fire at the convention.

Not 'Done In,' Just Falls Asleep

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Police received a call from a worried housewife who said she heard heavy breathing, a thud and then silence while talking on the telephone with her husband, a night watchman. She told police she feared her husband had been "done in."

But officers who went to the scene reported yesterday "Everything is okay here. While he was talking to his wife on the telephone, he fell asleep."

New Manager Of Construction For Water District Is Named

The 47-year-old Rogers was selected last night by the water district board which also appointed H. R. (Rusty) Ghilotti as deputy manager.

The new manager, who currently heads public works construction and maintenance activities in Berkeley, will replace Hector P. Puccinelli who is to retire Sept. 1.

He was chosen for the $21,100-a-year post from approximately 100 applicants.

Rogers, who has more than 20 years experience as an engineering manager, was for three years managing engineer for the 6,000-acre Kaiser Hawaii-Kai industrial-commercial-resort development in Honolulu.

Before going to work for the city of Berkeley, he was area manager and associate partner in Lyon Associates, Inc., one of the world's largest architectural firms.

A former army and air force officer, he also served as post engineer at various bases.

He attended the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Maryland, with a major in civil engineering. He is currently working toward additional credits needed for his engineering degree at the University of California at Berkeley.

Rogers is married and the father of three children.

Ghilotti, whose new job will include supervision of construction in the field, is currently supervisor of the district's construction and maintenance projects.

The 62-year-old deputy manager and his wife live at 18 Dunphries Terrace in San Rafael. The couple has three grown children.

Marin Municipal Water Directors Also:

MORATORIUM — Voted to exempt buildings and projects which would normally take more than 18 months to build from the time limitations included in the district's moratorium ordinance. The regulation had stated that the district could grant new connections (but not pipeline extensions) until Aug. 28 only to projects or buildings which could be built within 18 months of the time the ban was enacted on April 30. The board also ruled that construction of projects, which must begin within 120 days from April 30, can include preparation of the site of the development.

APARTMENT — Refused to approve a variance to the moratorium ordinance for Stanford N. Diller's 180-unit Richardson Bay Apartments, part of the Shelter Bay development near Mill Valley. Diller had sought to obtain water for the project without a pipeline extension, since extensions are no longer permitted under the ban. The board suggested that Diller seek a variance from the freeze on extensions.

SHOPPING CENTER — Turned down a request from Sutter Hill Limited to obtain water for a proposed shopping center in Mill Valley without a pipeline extension. The firm hopes to build a supermarket, drugstore, bank and a variety of shops at the corner of Lomit Drive and East Blithedale Avenue.

DEVELOPMENT — Denied a variance to Paul Sade who had also sought water without an extension for the 188-unit Crest Marin Apartments on Smith Ranch Road in San Rafael.

ROAD — Paid $8,852 to L. W. Berinhoff for land and rights of way for a planned access road to the district's Bret Harte tank in San Rafael.

ATTORNEYS — Paid $1,333 to attorney Douglas Ferguson for work done during July on lawsuits against the district and agreed to pay Tom Thorner, district counsel, $50 an hour for time he works above 45 hours a month.

More Help Needed In Policing Bay Area Fill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The chairman of the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation and the Environment said there was "serious need" for additional policing efforts to prevent illegal fill operations in San Francisco Bay.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., made his statement yesterday after taking a 200-mile helicopter ride to view the shoreline with two other members of his subcommittee. Members are making a Pacific Coast and Alaska survey of the effects of conservation legislation.

Col. James L. Lammie, San Francisco district chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, accompanied the legislators on the tour and noted that he has received 23 reports of illegal fill operations since July 1, compared to 134 villations reported in the previous fiscal year.

He pointed out fill encroachments on the bay, which included garbage, sewage waste, construction debris and earth for enlargement of an industrial plant.

He said the policing operations were being coordinated with the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the Interior Department.

RUBADUBDUB LUNCH

Slower Food Price Rise Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Still higher food prices are ahead for Americans, but Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted today they would be smaller than some forecasters expect and that prices generally will "pretty well level off" later in the year.

Next year, Butz said in a meeting with newsmen, food prices will probably rise again.

But he suggested that the 1974 increase would be 5 per cent or less over this year — far below the 18 to 22 per cent jump estimated for 1973.

The Cost of Living Council director, John T. Dunlop, was asked about Butz's 1974 forecast said there were "iffy" factors involved.

Although noting that the government has taken several actions to boost food supplies next year, Dunlop said, "there are still a number of elements in the equation that are still unknown" — chiefly the level of foreign and domestic demand and the weather.

Dunlop said yesterday that food prices are expected to rise further after Sept. 12. Beef ceilings expire then and the entire food industry will be allowed to pass on cost increases for items like labor and packaging, in addition to increases in raw farm product costs.

Butz said there could be some increases in beef prices after ceilings are lifted. But the secretary felt the increase would not be as much as some have expected and suggested that rising post-freeze beef supplies would tend to hold down prices of pork and poultry.

Butz said he believes that after mid-September, "food prices will pretty well level off for the rest of the year."

"We continue to strive for a realistic balance between giving incentive for producers to bring moe food to market and minimizing the rise in food prices that consumers pay," Dunlop said.

Food prices will go up after Sept. 12, the beginning of the so-called Stage B program, because food firms then will be able to add labor, transportation, overhead and other costs to their selling prices.

Under Stage A, which runs from the lifting of the freeze on July 18 to Sept. 12, only the higher costs of raw agricultural products can be passed through to consumers. As in earlier phases of the stabilization program, food companies will not be allowed to add any extra to their prices for profit.

As in other phase IV proceedings, the food regulations are open for public comment. Consumers and industry representatives may request changes until Sept. 4.

A revised set of rules will then be published.

The Stage B program is simpler in some ways than the earlier stabilization program but more complex in others. A few complicated rules that proved unworkable or caused paperwork nightmares for price controllers have been dropped.

But in the interest of fairness, the food industry has been sliced into three segments with a separate rule book for each one. The council reasons that restaurants use different bookkeeping methods than grocery stores and tailoring rules for each will simplify the price control burden for everyone.

Theft, Weapon Charges Denied

Charges of auto theft and carrying a concealed weapon were denied yesterday by a Marin City woman already facing two other actions in Marin Courts.

Patricia Ann Fusilieria, 22, entered innocent pleas to the charges and Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas set a preliminary hearing for Tuesday.

Miss Fusilieria is accused of stealing a car from a San Francisco man Monday and carrying a switchblade knife. Her companion, David Townsel, 26, address unknown, is being sought by deputies for allegedly pistol-whipping the car's owner, Willie Breedlove.

Miss Fusilieria is awaiting sentencing in Marin Superior Court on a previous conviction for concealing stolen property and has a burglary case pending in municipal court.

Store Burglary Denied By Man

Preliminary hearing for David Mark Wilson, 22, will be Tuesday, Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled.

Wilson was arrested by San Rafael police following a foot chase. Officers said he entered the food Mart on Fifth Avenue through a second floor window.

Phony Doctor Making Survey

A man impersonating a doctor making a sex survey has been making telephone calls to Petaluma residents, according to police.

The man identifies himself as Dr. Stone of the Sonoma County Public Health Department and asks questions about sexual activities. Similar calls were made last year to many residents, but no such activity has been recorded again until recent days.

Lt. Dennis DeWitt advised persons who get such calls to hang up the telephone immediately and to call the police department.

Group Has First Round On Mountain

A group which wants to plan the future of Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula held its first meeting last night and elected Rampton Harvey of Tiduron as president and Sandra A. Dorsaneo of Strawberry as secretary.

According to Mrs. Dorsaneo, the group discussed a work schedule and decided to divide into two subcommittees: one dealing with planning and the other on how to preserve Ring Mountain open space.

The group, which wants public participation, will meet next Aug. 29 at 8 p.m. at the Tiburon City Council chambers to discuss combinging the best ideas for dealing with Ring Mountain from the Corte Madera, Tiburon and Strawberry master plans.

Supervisor Michael Wornum organized the group which includes four representatives from Corte Madera, four from Strawberry and six from Tiburon.

Tighter Cotati Park Security Is Proposed

Improved security for the much-vandalized Cotati Park was proposed last night by the Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commission chairman Lee Gray said restrooms have been nearly destroyed at the new park in the Holiday Park section of Cotati.

The commission agreed to get cost estimates on installing lights at the park, along with plans to make restrooms more secure when they are repaired.

Mrs. Gray said students from Sonoma State College will be sought to act as playground supervisors in hopes that keeping youngsters occupied with activities may reduce vandalism.

The commission also agreed that picnic tables and benches should be installed, along with a backstop for a baseball diamond. Members said general sprucing up of the park may instill greater pride in it.

Car Hits Pole, Causes Blackout

Jean Ann Clarkson, 77, of 605 North San Pedro Road, was not injured in the 9:20 a.m. accident, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The pole in front of Gallinas School fell into the street amid a shower of sparks as the electric lines broke. Electric service was finally restored to all the customers at 11:14 a.m., according to Robert H. Williams, electric superintendent for Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Cycle Stolen

William S. Johns, 139 Olive Street, Petaluma, told police his 1971 gold Honda motorcycle was stolen yesterday while parked at the Washington Square Shopping Center. It bore license 8D0842.

Metternich Was Kissinger's Idol

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

If Austrian Crown Prince Klemens Metternich were alive today, he doubtless would be proud of Henry A. Kissinger, one his most faithful disciples.

Kissinger based his doctoral thesis at Harvard on Metternich, one of history's most famous diplomats because of his efforts to unite Europe peacefully after the Napoleonic Wars. He adopted some of the Austrian's methods at the Congress of Vienna in 1815 to negotiate a settlement of the Indochina War.

Moreover, when he succeeds William P. Rogers as secretary of state next month, if confirmed by the Senate, Kissinger is sure to remain true to Metternich's goal of peace through balance of power.

HENRY KISSINGER
New secretary of state

President Nixon, in announcing the new assignment for Kissinger, turned to the man who arranged presidential trips to China and the Soviet Union last year and who is credited with designing the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

As Nixon's top adviser for national security, Kissinger has been one of the most powerful men in the world. The former Harvard professor is a bachelor and his various dates with movie stars, television reporters and specialties have made almost as many headlines as his world trips. At 50, he is also a devoted father to two sons from a previous marriage.

One former associate has described him as "selfish, cunning, calculating, powermad and publicity obsessed." Others say Kissinger is hardworking, loyal and intelligent.

His secret trips have become famous. A "stomach ailment" in Pakistan covered a visit to Peking which set the stage for Nixon's historic visit to China. He is said to have visited Hanoi in a top-secret mission for President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1966.

Kissinger is known to believe his style of negotiating helped break the deadlock in Vietnam talks. There was, he said, too much concern with tactics and not "enough feeling for nuance and intangibles."

At the bargaining table, Kissinger reportedly tried to channel the talks to purely military questions such as the cease-fire and troop withdrawals, avoiding the emotional issue of the internal structure of South Vietnam. He left it to commissions to resolve internal Vietnamese problems.

He seemed to be following Metternich's footsteps at the 1815 Congress of Vienna, where questions like religion were left to committees and the diplomats discussed practical and military issues.

Born May 27, 1923, in Furth, near Nuremburg, Germany, Kissinger was the son of a Jewish professor who was harassed by the Nazis. The family fled to New York in 1938, when he was 15. He still has a slight German accent and occasionally mixes his nouns and verbs—then smiles about it.

The accent is said to be one reason he shies away from making statements in public. "The problem with interviewing me is that the essential sweetness doesn't come through," he said recently.

He has freely given briefings and was popular with reporters, despite revelations by columnist Jack Anderson that some of his off-the-record discussions were "trial baloons" during conflict between India and Pakistan.

Some of his friends and staff members found that he had submitted their names as the subject of wiretaps, although he has been otherwise free of taint in the Watergate scandal.

He works 12 to 20 hours a day in his White House office near the President's. His National Security Council staff of 110 is twice as large as his predecessor's and some opponents have accused him of trying to usurp the powers held by Rogers.

Diplomats say he even tried to take Rogers' place in negotiations with some protocol-conscious countries — and was backed by the President.

Court Frees Builders From Coastal Controls

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Developers given the right to build on coastal land before Feb. 1 do not have to seek a permit from the California Coastal Zone Conservation law to go ahead.

The state Supreme Court made the ruling by a 4-3 vote yesterday.

It settled the question of whether builders are exempt from the requirements of the law if they acquired the right after the act was voted into law last Nov. 7 but before Feb. 1. Regional coastal commissions did not issue permits until Feb. 1 although the state constitution provides for an initiative measure to take effect the day after the election.

The decision, written by Justice William P. Clark, was made on a case involving See the Sea Ltd. near San Diego. The firm applied for a permit in June, 1972, to build a 72-unit condominium, received it in December and began construction work immediately.

The San Diego County Coast Regional Commission sought to halt work, contending the company needed a coastal permit to continue.

Justice Clark said that to freeze such work would cause "serious economic dislocations not contemplated by the act, its authors or the voters."

A minority opinion written by Justice Stanley Mosk said "it is impossible to hold that the electorate intended to permit builders who had not obtained vested rights prior to Nov. 8 to construct projects inimical" to the conservation purposes of the law.

Chinatown Man Draws Jail Term

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Robert Louie, 19, a reputed Chinatown gang leader, was sentenced to up to life in prison Tuesday on five counts of aggravated assault.

Louie was found guilty of firing four shots into a car containing four youths and of firing a fifth shot into a drive-in restaurant. No one was hurt in the incident.

He was also convicted on five firearms charges.

Metternich Was Kissinger's Idol

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

If Austrian Crown Prince Klemens Metternich were alive today, he doubtless would be proud of Henry A. Kissinger, one his most faithful disciples.

Kissinger based his doctoral thesis at Harvard on Metternich, one of history's most famous diplomats because of his efforts to unite Europe peacefully after the Napoleonic Wars. He adopted some of the Austrian's methods at the Congress of Vienna in 1815 to negotiate a settlement of the Indochina War.

Moreover, when he succeeds William P. Rogers as secretary of state next month, if confirmed by the Senate, Kissinger is sure to remain true to Metternich's goal of peace through balance of power.

HENRY KISSINGER
New secretary of state

President Nixon, in announcing the new assignment for Kissinger, turned to the man who arranged presidential trips to China and the Soviet Union last year and who is credited with designing the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

As Nixon's top adviser for national security, Kissinger has been one of the most powerful men in the world. The former Harvard professor is a bachelor and his various dates with movie stars, television reporters and specialties have made almost as many headlines as his world trips. At 50, he is also a devoted father to two sons from a previous marriage.

One former associate has described him as "selfish, cunning, calculating, powermad and publicity obsessed." Others say Kissinger is hardworking, loyal and intelligent.

His secret trips have become famous. A "stomach ailment" in Pakistan covered a visit to Peking which set the stage for Nixon's historic visit to China. He is said to have visited Hanoi in a top-secret mission for President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1966.

Kissinger is known to believe his style of negotiating helped break the deadlock in Vietnam talks. There was, he said, too much concern with tactics and not "enough feeling for nuance and intangibles."

At the bargaining table, Kissinger reportedly tried to channel the talks to purely military questions such as the cease-fire and troop withdrawals, avoiding the emotional issue of the internal structure of South Vietnam. He left it to commissions to resolve internal Vietnamese problems.

He seemed to be following Metternich's footsteps at the 1815 Congress of Vienna, where questions like religion were left to committees and the diplomats discussed practical and military issues.

Born May 27, 1923, in Furth, near Nuremburg, Germany, Kissinger was the son of a Jewish professor who was harassed by the Nazis. The family fled to New York in 1938, when he was 15. He still has a slight German accent and occasionally mixes his nouns and verbs—then smiles about it.

The accent is said to be one reason he shies away from making statements in public. "The problem with interviewing me is that the essential sweetness doesn't come through," he said recently.

He has freely given briefings and was popular with reporters, despite revelations by columnist Jack Anderson that some of his off-the-record discussions were "trial baloons" during conflict between India and Pakistan.

Some of his friends and staff members found that he had submitted their names as the subject of wiretaps, although he has been otherwise free of taint in the Watergate scandal.

He works 12 to 20 hours a day in his White House office near the President's. His National Security Council staff of 110 is twice as large as his predecessor's and some opponents have accused him of trying to usurp the powers held by Rogers.

Diplomats say he even tried to take Rogers' place in negotiations with some protocol-conscious countries — and was backed by the President.

Court Frees Builders From Coastal Controls

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Developers given the right to build on coastal land before Feb. 1 do not have to seek a permit from the California Coastal Zone Conservation law to go ahead.

The state Supreme Court made the ruling by a 4-3 vote yesterday.

It settled the question of whether builders are exempt from the requirements of the law if they acquired the right after the act was voted into law last Nov. 7 but before Feb. 1. Regional coastal commissions did not issue permits until Feb. 1 although the state constitution provides for an initiative measure to take effect the day after the election.

The decision, written by Justice William P. Clark, was made on a case involving See the Sea Ltd. near San Diego. The firm applied for a permit in June, 1972, to build a 72-unit condominium, received it in December and began construction work immediately.

The San Diego County Coast Regional Commission sought to halt work, contending the company needed a coastal permit to continue.

Justice Clark said that to freeze such work would cause "serious economic dislocations not contemplated by the act, its authors or the voters."

A minority opinion written by Justice Stanley Mosk said "it is impossible to hold that the electorate intended to permit builders who had not obtained vested rights prior to Nov. 8 to construct projects inimical" to the conservation purposes of the law.

Chinatown Man Draws Jail Term

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Robert Louie, 19, a reputed Chinatown gang leader, was sentenced to up to life in prison Tuesday on five counts of aggravated assault.

Louie was found guilty of firing four shots into a car containing four youths and of firing a fifth shot into a drive-in restaurant. No one was hurt in the incident.

He was also convicted on five firearms charges.

GAZER'S GUIDE

Harvest Moon Due Sept. 12

By DR. THOMAS D. NICHOLSON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Sept. 2 — Mercury is in superior conjunction with the sun. This means that the planet is passing the sun from right to left, on the far side of the sun as observed from earth. Mercury now becomes an evening star.

Sept. 5 — The moon is at the point in its orbit known as apogee, where it is at its farthest distance from the earth.

Sept. 6 — The bright star near Venus this evening is Spica, in Virgo.

Sept. 8 — — Jupiter is found easily tonight near the waxing gibbous moon. Both are well up in the southeast at nightfall, and they remain close until they set about dawn. If you watch them closely for an hour or more, you can easily see the moon separating to the east (left) from Jupiter.

Sept. 12 — The full moon tonight is the harvest moon. The name is given to the full moon that occurs nearest to the date of the autumnal equinox. Because of the position of the moon's orbit in the sunset sky, the nightly difference in the time of moonrise is considerably less than the average daily retardation of moonrise (about 50 minutes). As a result, the full or nearly full moon appears to rise very close to the sunset for three or more nights in a row, a particular advantage at harvest time in lighting the early evening hours. The same effect in the Southern Hemisphere, incidentally, occurs in March, so that the harvest moon south of the equator also coincides with the beginning of the southern autumn.

Sept. 19 — Mars is stationary in right ascension and begins its retrograde (westward) motion as it approaches opposition in October. From now until late November you can watch Mars drifting slowly to the right (west) with respect to the stars around it.

Sept. 20 — Saturn is very close to the moon in the sky this morning. It is occulted by the moon at about 1:00 a.m., local daylight time, over Arctic regions. And the moon, today, is at perigee, where it is nearest to earth.

Sept. 23 — The sun arrives at the autumnal equinox at 12:21 a.m. local daylight time, and autumn begins in the Northern Hemisphere.

Sept. 28 — Jupiter ends its retrograde motion and resumes its direct (eastward) motion through the stars of Capricornus.

Sept. 29 — Venus is close to the crescent moon in the sunset sky tonight.

All month — Venus and Jupiter are brilliant objects in the evening twilight sky, and Mars joins them about two hours past sunset. Venus is in the west at dusk, continually brightening and appearing higher during the month. Jupiter, not quite so bright, becomes visible well up in the southeast, moves to the south before midnight, and sets well before dawn. Mars rises in the east after dark, easily visible among the faint stars of Aries. The planet brightens rapidly during the month, and it equals Jupiter in brightness by month's end.

In the morning sky, Mars is still visible among the faint stars of Aries. The planet brightens rapidly during the month, and it equals Jupiter in brightness by month's end.

In the morning sky, Mars is still visible well up in the southwest, the brightest object visible except for the moon. Saturn, rising before midnight, is high in the south, among the stars of Gemini, in the dawn sky.

MOON PHASES

First quarter, Sept. 4, 11:22 a.m., local daylight time.

Full moon, Sept. 12, 11:16 a.m., local daylight time.

Last quarter, Sept. 19, 12:11 p.m., local daylight time.

New moon, Sept. 26, 9:54 a.m., local daylight time.

Cigarettes To Undergo Scrutiny

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Smokers whose cigarettes fail to meet nicotine and tar standards being prepared by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission may find their brands missing from tobacco store shelves.

Chairman Richard O. Simpson said yesterday he is awaiting a petition from Congressmen calling for the commission to set standards for cigaretts. He also said the newly formed commission has the power to regulate and set standards for cigarettes on its own.

That power, he said, comes under the Hazardous Substances Act, which includes "any substance" which can produce personal injury through ingestion, inhalation" into the body.

Speaking at Newark College of Engineering, Simpson said the ban could include some or all brands which fail to meet maximum tar and nicotine levels outlined in the petition. However, guidelines have not been formulated yet.

Despite warnings printed on cigarette packages that "The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," Simpson said sales have increased.

Chrystal Joins Sonoma County Administration

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SANTA ROSA — Michael A. Chrystal of the Marin County Administrator's Office has been named Sonoma County deputy administrator, effective Sept. 11.

Sonoma Administrator David L. Nichols said Chrystal will replace Eugene McAdams, who resigned in July to take a similar position in Oregon.

Chrystal, 30, has been an administrative analyst for Marin County since October of 1967. He is a graduate of College of Marin and San Francisco State University and has lived in Santa Rosa for two years.

The position carries a salary range of $1,371 to $1,667 per month.

Nixon's Wiretap Claims Disputed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's claim that government-authorized burglaries took place on "a very large scale" during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was questioned today by a former Democratic attorney general.

At a news conference in San Clemente yesterday, the President discussed the alleged earlier practices in connection with the break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by two Watergate figures.

Nixon labeled the burglary as unauthorized and deplorable, then went on to say:

"I should also point out to you that in the three Kennedy years and the three Johnson years, when burglarizing of this type did take place, when it was authorized on a very large scale, there was no talk of impeachment and it was quite well known."

Nicholas B. Katzenbach, who served as assistant attorney general, deputy attorney general and later attorney general for most of the Kennedy-Johnson period, said he had no knowledge of any such burglaries by government agents.

"I have no knowledge of any such burglarizing and I don't believe it ever occurred," Katzenbach commented.

Katzenbach said that in the period he served in the Justice Department, "I know of no burglarizing that took place and none that was authorized. If the President is going to say things like that, he ought to say who authorized it. The blanket charge is unfair."

Nixon also told reporters that government wiretaps were more prevalent during the Kennedy administration than in his own.

"I understand that the height of the wiretaps was when Robert Kennedy was attorney general in 1963. I don't criticize him, however. He had over 250 in 1963 and the average in the Eisenhower administration and the Nixon administration was around 110.

"But if he had had 10 more, and as a result of wiretaps had been able to discover the Oswald plan, it would have been worth it."

Weinberger May Be A Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, who has denied he has any intention of running for governor of California in 1974, has softened his stand somewhat and listed circumstances under which he would seek the Republican nomination.

"If a very broad section of the party, including candidates, seem to feel that first of all a unifying force is needed," Weinberger said yesterday.

"Secondly, that I might be the unifying force, both of which events I think are extraordinarily unlikely, then I would think about it more seriously than I am now."

More Woes Are Seen For BART

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The retiring chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission has warned that the Bay Area Rapid Transit system is heading for trouble because of the recent labor contract, and that a new money will have to be raised to meet higher costs.

Joseph P. Bort bluntly told a commission meeting yesterday: "Very clearly and unequivocally without a new tax BART will stop. The solution is a new source, and that is a tax, local or federal."

Bort said the settlement between BART and 1,100 employes who went on strike for a month for higher pay and improved working conditions "was one of the worst things I've seen in a long time."

The agreement already had shown bad affects, he said, by influencing negotiations for a new labor contract for workers on San Francisco's Municipal Railway and would be felt in talks for an AC Transit work pact and for the Golden Gate Transit District.

His major complaints against the BART contract were that it "increased salaries too much," eliminated the split shift and provides for additional employes.

Two Forest Fires Are Stopped From Spreading In California

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Fire fighters in Idaho and Montana played hop-scotch today with nearly 100 small timber and brush fires touched off by lightning. In California, the spread of two big forest blazes was stopped.

U.S. Forest Rangers at Boise, Idaho, reported that there were only seven major fires still out of control in the West and they had consumed nearly 70,000 acres of timber and brush land. They said 43 fires, covering 130,000 acres, were now under control.

The fires have been plaguing the West the past week. Dry weather, wind and lightning contributed to the problems for an army of firemen and fleet of air tankers.

Fred McBride of the intelligence section of the Boise Interagency Fire Center said officials hoped that all the big fires would be under control by the weekend.

As for the lightning-caused blazes, he said, "We're hoping we can stay on top of these."

In California, one fire in the Sierra near Lake Tahoe charred 10,000 acres but the flames were not spreading. And in the northern part of the state flames in a 19,500-acre brush blaze were corraled near Red Bluff.

Firemen at the Pine Creek blaze in the Boise National Forest were having their logistical and health problems. Some 45 men have come down with a pneumonia-like illness which has sidelined them. One man was hospitalized. And Wally Porter, a National Forest Service supply officer, said he was having trouble getting meat for the men.

"We try to feed these guys at least five to six pounds of food and liquid every day," Porter said. "We are having trouble getting what we ordered from suppliers. If we order beef, we may get chicken. But we have adequate food."

There were 650 men on the fire line at Pine Creek.

KEARNY, N.J. (UPI) —The government mailed a U.S. Treasury check for $5,625 to this city, payable to "Kearny, N.J." But before it was cashed by the city it was stolen.

Mayor Anthony J. Cavalier said yesterday whoever stole the check successfully cashed it at a New York City bank July 11 by endorsing it on the back "Natan J. Kearny."

Nixon's Wiretap Claims Disputed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's claim that government-authorized burglaries took place on "a very large scale" during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was questioned today by a former Democratic attorney general.

At a news conference in San Clemente yesterday, the President discussed the alleged earlier practices in connection with the break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by two Watergate figures.

Nixon labeled the burglary as unauthorized and deplorable, then went on to say:

"I should also point out to you that in the three Kennedy years and the three Johnson years, when burglarizing of this type did take place, when it was authorized on a very large scale, there was no talk of impeachment and it was quite well known."

Nicholas B. Katzenbach, who served as assistant attorney general, deputy attorney general and later attorney general for most of the Kennedy-Johnson period, said he had no knowledge of any such burglaries by government agents.

"I have no knowledge of any such burglarizing and I don't believe it ever occurred," Katzenbach commented.

Katzenbach said that in the period he served in the Justice Department, "I know of no burglarizing that took place and none that was authorized. If the President is going to say things like that, he ought to say who authorized it. The blanket charge is unfair."

Nixon also told reporters that government wiretaps were more prevalent during the Kennedy administration than in his own.

"I understand that the height of the wiretaps was when Robert Kennedy was attorney general in 1963. I don't criticize him, however. He had over 250 in 1963 and the average in the Eisenhower administration and the Nixon administration was around 110.

"But if he had had 10 more, and as a result of wiretaps had been able to discover the Oswald plan, it would have been worth it."

Weinberger May Be A Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, who has denied he has any intention of running for governor of California in 1974, has softened his stand somewhat and listed circumstances under which he would seek the Republican nomination.

"If a very broad section of the party, including candidates, seem to feel that first of all a unifying force is needed," Weinberger said yesterday.

"Secondly, that I might be the unifying force, both of which events I think are extraordinarily unlikely, then I would think about it more seriously than I am now."

Tax Reform? Or The Old Skin Game?

When Gov. Ronald Reagan signed Senate Bill 90, the tax reform-school finance measure, last Dec. 18, he said:

"This landmark legislation not only reduces the heavy property tax burden on our beleaguered homeowners, but even more important, it guarantees that homeowners' taxes will be held down in the years to come."

WE ALL SHARED the hope that Reagan was right. But it isn't quite working out that way.

Like other "tax reform" measures in the past, SB 90 contained a few concealed escape hatches. And a few more were added by this year's AB 1267, the "rider" adopted to "correct inequities" in last year's measure.

One of the principal features of SB 90 — one long advocated by Marin-Sonoma Assemblyman William T. Bagley — was a ceiling on school districts' expenditures per pupil. The theory (a good one) was that by limiting spending per pupil, a curb would be put on the tendency to tax to the limit allowed by voter-approved rates and assessment increases.

SB 90 provided that a school district could spend only as much per pupil as it spent in fiscal 1972-73, plus an inflation factor. The inflation factor for next fiscal year was pegged at 6 per cent.

HOWEVER, half of the 20 Marin County school districts that come under the new law have adopted budgets for next fiscal year that are up more than 6 per cent above the current year's. Seven of those 10 expect enrollment decreases; two expect no change in enrollment; the 10th has predicted an increase of only six pupils.

How come? The answer is those escape hatches.

The restriction on spending per pupil does not apply to a variety of special programs outside the regular school curriculum.

So what do the school districts do — with encouragement and prodding, of course, from teacher organizations which don't want to see jobs evaporate as enrollments decline? They add special programs. And this permits them to increase budgets without running afoul of the provisions of the law.

THIS IS the school districts' way. Counties, cities and other special districts have another way around the purported tax-limiting features of SB 90.

The restriction on counties, cities and special districts is on tax rates. They cannot levy higher rates than in either '71-'72 or '72-'73, except for retiring voter-authorized bond issues.

But the law says nothing about limiting the increase in assessments. So we have — not exactly unpredictably — the biggest assessment increases in recent years. This enables the counties, cities, etc., to take in and spend more money while piously noting that they have held down or even reduced their tax rates.

It's a variation of the old skin game. And who gets skinned? Why, we all know the answer to that one: the taxpayer, that's who.

Scrub Jays & Monarchs

Experiments with captive scrub jays have demonstrated how the monarch butterfly's poisonous taste protects it and its look-alike viceroy butterfly from bird depredations. First, the jays were fed mixture of viceroys and other butterflies, which they ate eagerly. Then, after a time, some were offered monarchs which they pecked at and even ate one or two, and then rejected on sight. These jays, which had tasted the monarchs, rejected them and the viceroys thereafter. This is a prime example of the value of resembling an unpleasant species in Nature.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Down Goes The Rate; Up Goes The Assessment

By EARL G. WATERS

Property owners throughout the state are being treated to a legerdemain exercise which rivals anything ever dreamed up by Houdini. This is in the form of ballyhooing property tax rate reductions while local governments blithely adopt budgets substantially higher than those of prior years. It is a case of having their cake and eating it too.

This hocus pocus in public financing is possible due to legislation enacted for the specific purpose of bringing about property tax relief.

UNDER TAX MEASURES adopted by the Legislature, homeowners are granted a $1,700 exemption. To offset this, the state has undertaken to increase local government subsidies.

With this new state money, plus federal revenue sharing and increased assessed valuations on property, local governments, for the most part, suddenly find themselves with more money than they ever before had.

And most have taken the opportunity to demonstrate to the folks at home how provident they are by using some small part of these windfalls to make token tax rate reductions.

The fact is that, because of Governor Reagan's insistence, they are not permitted to raise the tax rate. But the further fact is that, despite restrictions on rates and regardless of reductions, many persons will be getting higher property tax bills in the next couple of years, the exemptions not withstanding.

This is because local governments can still raise the assessed values of property. And this they are busily doing. The result will be lower tax rates, higher property assessments and ergo, higher tax bills.

AS USUAL, the school districts lead the parade. District after district is reporting lower tax rates but higher budgets. Yet almost all admit enrollments are dropping.

The need for building more and more schools has disappeared. This has not, however, worked to reduce school budgets. Rather, the educators are now talking about "improved" programs since they can no longer justify higher costs on the basis of increased enrollments.

The improvements are for increased salaries, broadening of fringe benefits, "new and innovative" programs, and class size reductions. The last, one would think, is automatically being taken care of by enrollment drops. Further, there is strong evidence submitted by qualified educators that class size has no direct relationship to the quality of education.

WHETHER THIS continuing increased spending by local government in the face of efforts to provide property tax relief, will be sufficiently understood to strengthen the case for Governor Reagan's tax limitation initiative remains to be seen. It also remains as to whether the governor's plan will do the job.

What is clear is the need for the citizens to become more effective in controlling government spending. Without that control, property tax reductions can only result from increased state and federal help or cutting budgets. And present indications are that, unless serious efforts are made to trim spending, people are going to pay higher and higher taxes one way or another.

Retort To Directors Of Water District

On Aug. 8 the directors of the Marin Municipal Water District wrote a letter to you stating that "the Marin Municipal Water District is being unfairly criticised."

In their letter they sought to justify their actions over the past several months. Having attended 95 per cent of these directors' meetings over the past two years I would like to point out some inconsistencies in their statements. To quote: ". . . the Intertie had not been considered sooner because of contractual and engineering problems . . ." The contractual problems resulted directly from the actions of Directors Stafford and Felson and their lack of action on Jan. 10, 1973. Directors Stafford and Felson refused to give the district manager the authority to negotiate with the North Marin Water District or the Sonoma County Water District to complete firm contracts for a supply of water for the Intertie . . .

The only engineering problem that I am aware existed or that was discussed at a board of directors meeting was that raised by Director Felson stating that he was concerned over the quality of the water from the Russian River and wanted a report on the water quality at least six inches thick . . .

The concerns of Directors Stafford, Felson and Griffin as to the management of the Russian River and Eel River resources is an issue raised by them that has no bearing on the ability of the Sonoma County Water District to supply water to the Marin Municipal Water District from the Russian River . . .

The Intertie has been approved by the voters. The bonds have, in fact, been sold and the cash is in the hands of the water district. In effect, your property and mine is presently held in security for the payment of these bonds which probably cannot be redeemed without penalty. The MMWD has engineered the pipeline, bought the right-of-way, and the specialized pumping and control equipment has been delivered. They have spent in excess of $250,000 as of this time on the Intertie. There is no justification for not completing this project as approved by the voters.

As to the directors' statement that they do not "desire to be planners beyond the scope of our dutues as water resources managers," the actions of Directors Stafford, Felson and Griffin consistently belie this statement.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Back-to-school clothing ads remind us that the vacation season is just about worn out.

Your daughter needs a trousseau not just when she gets married but every time she returns to school.

How come scholars require so many expensive clothes when all they ever wear are patched jeans, hippie sandals and the shirt off dad's back?

New clothes are not enough. Do you want Junior to be the only kid in his class without a new car?

The term "higher education" refers to the cost.

ART BUCHWALD

You Think It's Your Life, But The Computer Knows All

(Art Buchwald has gone off for a few weeks to forget about Watergate. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns which he insists to the best of his recollection, at that point in time and in hindsight, everyone wanted to read again.)

WASHINGTON — Somewhere in this great land of ours there is a computer stashed full of information on you. Whenever you want a bank loan, a credit card or a job, this computer will, in a matter of seconds, give some total stranger almost every detail of your life.

Unfortunately for most of us, the computer is unable to discriminate between fact and malicious gossip, and once the information is fed into it, it stays there forever.

THE OTHER DAY I was considering going into a car pool with three other men, Hicks, Kroll and Anderson. I have known these men casually for years, but when you join a car pool you really want to know what they're like.

So I asked a friend of mine in the retail credit business if I could use his computer for a few hours.

He agreed, and I went down there and typed out: WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT HICKS, AL, WHO LIVES AT 43 LOVER'S LEAP TERRACE?

I typed back: FORGET ABOUT CHILDHOOD AND GIVE ME SOME OTHER FACTS.

The computer replied: HICKS HAS A DOMINEERING WIFE WHO THE WHOLE WORLD THINKS IS SWEET AS MAPLE SYRUP. WHENEVER SHE GETS MADE AT HIM HE STARTS BITING HIS NAILS.

I typed back: I'M NOT INTERESTED IN THAT. WHAT'S THE CONDITION OF HIS CAR?

THE COMPUTER paused for a few seconds and then tapped out: HICKS OWNS 1957 BUICK CONVERTIBLE FOR WHICH HE IS STILL PAYING $80 A MONTH. IT HAS BEEN IN THE GARAGE 33 TIMES AND HAS COST HIM $1,500 IN REPAIRS. TWO OF THE SPRINGS IN THE BACK SEAT ARE BROKEN AND HE NEEDS NEW SNOW TIRES. HE HAS THE CAR WASHED ONCE A MONTH.

It added: HICKS NEVER CHEATS ON HIS WIFE, THOUGH HE THINKS ABOUT IT A LOT.

THAT'S ENOUGH, I told the computer, NOW GIVE ME A RUNDOWN ON KROLL, H. G., WHO LIVES AT 1 LION'S DEN CIRCLE.

The tapes in the computer started turning furiously and finally stopped. The teletype began to chatter KROLL, H. G., HAD STRONG MOTHER WHO DRESSED HIM IN SILK SAILOR SUITS UNTIL HE WAS 13 YEARS OLD.

GET ON WITH IT, I typed impatiently.

HE OWNS 1970 FOUR-DOOR MERCURY SEDAN WHICH HAS SPECIAL SILK SEAT COVERS. LIKES TO DRESS UP IN HIS WIFE'S CLOTHES WHEN CHILDREN ARE AT CAMP.

WHAT ABOUT HIS CAR? I demanded.

THEY DON'T USE HIS CAR. THEY USE HERS.

I DIDN'T MEAN THAT. IS HIS AUTOMOBILE SAFE FOR OUR CAR POOL?

Two Ways That President Might Have Done Differently

President Nixon might have done it very differently.

He might have said:

"MY FELLOW AMERICANS: Grave charges have been made against me, my staff, my old associates. I hardly need to tell you that I repudiate and deny the charges against me of 'high crimes and misdemeanors.' But this issue will drag on until it is adjudicated.

"Therefore I respectfully ask for an adjudication in the one place it can be legally and constitutionally decided: the Congress of the United States.

"I ask the House of Representatives to impeach me, and the Senate to sit in judgment on the case, just as is provided in the Constitution. I am confident that I will be acquitted of all guilt. But I am entitled to my day in court, and I ask Congress to give it to me. This is the only way the matter can be settled once and for all, and we can get on unimpeded with the nation's business. Needless to say, any evidence in my possession bearing on the case will be available to the authorities.

"It is not fair for me to leave these grave charges hanging in the air. I wish to regain the full confidence of the American people. I seek legal exoneration, and in the one place that can be achieved."

President Nixon may recall that the only chief executive to be impeached, Andrew Johnson, gained a much larger place in history by virtue of the fact that although he was impeached, the Senate found him innocent. He would have been a footnote if that hadn't happened.

I SUPPOSE it is unlikely that the House of Representatives would vote a bill of impeachment. That is the assumption in Washington.

But if they did, there is now strong likelihood that the Senate, presided over by the Chief Justice of the United States, would acquit. And the air would be cleared.

Of course, there are other ways the President might have spoken. He might have said:

"My fellow Americans: Some very bad things have happened. Some of them were commited by people working for me, and I take full responsibility because I hired and trusted these people. I apologize to the American people for these wrongs and I deeply regret them. I will not try to excuse them. Of course, all the facts need to be brought to light, for settlement in the proper tribunals. If there is any evidence in my possession bearing on the commission of crimes, on innocence of guilt, it will be readily available to the proper authorities," and so on.

ENOUGH REACTION to the President's actual speech is in to indicate that the issue is far from settled. Public opinion is deeply divided. Those who believe in President Nixon are ardent and loyal. Many others have lost confidence in him.

But there is also considerable impatience with the Ervin Committee and with the seemingly endless prolongation of the case. The demeanor of the committee members will be increasingly criticized. The news media have to be more careful and responsible than ever. Indeed, if the brunt of the case from now on can be born by Prosecutor Cox, it wil be better for all concerned. Nobody will deny that the hot lights of the television cameras are a bad place to assess innocence and guilt. It has been some centuries since Anglo-Saxon justice gave up trial by ordeal.

Over three years of murky inconclusiveness, or a President crippled by uncertainty, is more than a dismal prospect. It is catastrophic. President Nixon must realize this as well as anyone. He is obviously trying to rehabilitate his administration. So far it hasn't worked. More indictments, more trials of his trusted associates won't help. He himself is the issue.

That is why the suggestion of an adjudication after impeachment may not be so irrational an idea. It was hinted by the President's lawyers in their brief to Judge Sirica. Maybe they were right.

MARQUIS CHILDS

President Follows Doubtful Precedents Since Watergate

WASHINGTON — In his last year and a half in office, Lyndon Johnson, as a crippled President who had renounced reelection, stayed with few exceptions in his public appearances within the confines of audiences certain to be if not sympathetic then safe. Military installations, hawkish groups supporting his bombing of North Vietnam and the expansion of the war in South Vietnam — this was the arena where he could hopefully get applause and where protesters would be at a minimum.

That is a dismaying precedent for President Richard Nixon, who has three and a half years to go. He chose for his first appearance after his televised address the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans.

Sounding a clarion call to patriotism, coupled with an appeal for help against those who would exploit Watergate to interfere with his responsibilities to the nation and the world, he could anticipate a roaring response. Here, too, was a precedent that finally found its way to the courts.

WHEN THE PRESIDENT went to Charlotte, N.C., for "Billy Graham Day" his mission in behalf of his great friend had been carefully plotted. A memorandum introduced in the Ervin Committee investigation told of the threat of violent protests and demonstrations to disrupt the celebration. On this memorandum H.R. Haldeman, then one of the President's two chief lieutenants, had written "great" and "good."

"Did you really think that these demonstrators were subversives?" Sen. Lowell Weicker asked Haldeman.

"That was the information I had," he replied.

At the rally in Charlotte strong-arm tactics were used against young people, some of them with long hair, some passing out pamphlets, "Nixon Is a Sinner." Fourteen young people brought suit for damages charging they had been assaulted and deprived of their civil rights. In a remarkable opinion, United States Dist. Judge James B. McMillian spelled out in detail the bully-boy tactics used against the young protesters and ordered the case to trial on its merits.

The chief bully boy was Ernie Helms of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with a build, as Judge McMillan put it, like a Washington Redskins tackle. He seemed as chief bouncer to be coordinating the efforts of the army of Secret Service agents sent into Charlotte. Called to testify in the suit, he refused, citing the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

IN HIS 62-PAGE opinion Judge McMillan found that the young people were no threat whatsoever to the President. Although they carried no weapons of any kind and for the most part were circumspect in their behavior, they were hustled out of the hall even when they had been admitted with bona fide tickets of admission. Under Helms's direction these tickets were declared counterfeit and the young shoved back out.

The Charlotte police and the Secret Service agents, Judge McMillan found, "participated in a wholesale assault upon the civil right and liberties of numerous citizens, in violation of the First, Fourth, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution." Secrecy in government, refusal to account to oppressed citizens for actions they suffered, is a way, the judge wrote, to breed tyranny.

One of the few public addresses the President has made in the past three months was in late May when he spoke to the prisoners of war returned from Vietnam. Touching a half dozen patriotic themes, he drew cheers and applause. The crescendo came when he said, "I think it is time in this country to quit making national heroes of those who steal secrets and publish them in the newspapers."

As he stated in the supplement to his Watergate television address, he had known as early as March 17 — rather than March 21 as he had previously stated — that the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist had been broken into by the "plumbers." So in denouncing Ellsberg without using his name in his talk to the prisoners of war he chose to ignore the fact of an illegal act to try to convict the alleged thief of secret papers.

"Bring us together" was the slogan Nixon picked up on the campaign trail in 1968. He may buttress his position with the right wing by the loud patriotic theme with its echo of the Communist hunter of the past. But this will not help to unite a deeply divided and doubting country.

Tax Reform? Or The Old Skin Game?

When Gov. Ronald Reagan signed Senate Bill 90, the tax reform-school finance measure, last Dec. 18, he said:

"This landmark legislation not only reduces the heavy property tax burden on our beleaguered homeowners, but even more important, it guarantees that homeowners' taxes will be held down in the years to come."

WE ALL SHARED the hope that Reagan was right. But it isn't quite working out that way.

Like other "tax reform" measures in the past, SB 90 contained a few concealed escape hatches. And a few more were added by this year's AB 1267, the "rider" adopted to "correct inequities" in last year's measure.

One of the principal features of SB 90 — one long advocated by Marin-Sonoma Assemblyman William T. Bagley — was a ceiling on school districts' expenditures per pupil. The theory (a good one) was that by limiting spending per pupil, a curb would be put on the tendency to tax to the limit allowed by voter-approved rates and assessment increases.

SB 90 provided that a school district could spend only as much per pupil as it spent in fiscal 1972-73, plus an inflation factor. The inflation factor for next fiscal year was pegged at 6 per cent.

HOWEVER, half of the 20 Marin County school districts that come under the new law have adopted budgets for next fiscal year that are up more than 6 per cent above the current year's. Seven of those 10 expect enrollment decreases; two expect no change in enrollment; the 10th has predicted an increase of only six pupils.

How come? The answer is those escape hatches.

The restriction on spending per pupil does not apply to a variety of special programs outside the regular school curriculum.

So what do the school districts do — with encouragement and prodding, of course, from teacher organizations which don't want to see jobs evaporate as enrollments decline? They add special programs. And this permits them to increase budgets without running afoul of the provisions of the law.

THIS IS the school districts' way. Counties, cities and other special districts have another way around the purported tax-limiting features of SB 90.

The restriction on counties, cities and special districts is on tax rates. They cannot levy higher rates than in either '71-'72 or '72-'73, except for retiring voter-authorized bond issues.

But the law says nothing about limiting the increase in assessments. So we have — not exactly unpredictably — the biggest assessment increases in recent years. This enables the counties, cities, etc., to take in and spend more money while piously noting that they have held down or even reduced their tax rates.

It's a variation of the old skin game. And who gets skinned? Why, we all know the answer to that one: the taxpayer, that's who.

Scrub Jays & Monarchs

Experiments with captive scrub jays have demonstrated how the monarch butterfly's poisonous taste protects it and its look-alike viceroy butterfly from bird depredations. First, the jays were fed mixture of viceroys and other butterflies, which they ate eagerly. Then, after a time, some were offered monarchs which they pecked at and even ate one or two, and then rejected on sight. These jays, which had tasted the monarchs, rejected them and the viceroys thereafter. This is a prime example of the value of resembling an unpleasant species in Nature.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Down Goes The Rate; Up Goes The Assessment

By EARL G. WATERS

Property owners throughout the state are being treated to a legerdemain exercise which rivals anything ever dreamed up by Houdini. This is in the form of ballyhooing property tax rate reductions while local governments blithely adopt budgets substantially higher than those of prior years. It is a case of having their cake and eating it too.

This hocus pocus in public financing is possible due to legislation enacted for the specific purpose of bringing about property tax relief.

UNDER TAX MEASURES adopted by the Legislature, homeowners are granted a $1,700 exemption. To offset this, the state has undertaken to increase local government subsidies.

With this new state money, plus federal revenue sharing and increased assessed valuations on property, local governments, for the most part, suddenly find themselves with more money than they ever before had.

And most have taken the opportunity to demonstrate to the folks at home how provident they are by using some small part of these windfalls to make token tax rate reductions.

The fact is that, because of Governor Reagan's insistence, they are not permitted to raise the tax rate. But the further fact is that, despite restrictions on rates and regardless of reductions, many persons will be getting higher property tax bills in the next couple of years, the exemptions not withstanding.

This is because local governments can still raise the assessed values of property. And this they are busily doing. The result will be lower tax rates, higher property assessments and ergo, higher tax bills.

AS USUAL, the school districts lead the parade. District after district is reporting lower tax rates but higher budgets. Yet almost all admit enrollments are dropping.

The need for building more and more schools has disappeared. This has not, however, worked to reduce school budgets. Rather, the educators are now talking about "improved" programs since they can no longer justify higher costs on the basis of increased enrollments.

The improvements are for increased salaries, broadening of fringe benefits, "new and innovative" programs, and class size reductions. The last, one would think, is automatically being taken care of by enrollment drops. Further, there is strong evidence submitted by qualified educators that class size has no direct relationship to the quality of education.

WHETHER THIS continuing increased spending by local government in the face of efforts to provide property tax relief, will be sufficiently understood to strengthen the case for Governor Reagan's tax limitation initiative remains to be seen. It also remains as to whether the governor's plan will do the job.

What is clear is the need for the citizens to become more effective in controlling government spending. Without that control, property tax reductions can only result from increased state and federal help or cutting budgets. And present indications are that, unless serious efforts are made to trim spending, people are going to pay higher and higher taxes one way or another.

Retort To Directors Of Water District

On Aug. 8 the directors of the Marin Municipal Water District wrote a letter to you stating that "the Marin Municipal Water District is being unfairly criticised."

In their letter they sought to justify their actions over the past several months. Having attended 95 per cent of these directors' meetings over the past two years I would like to point out some inconsistencies in their statements. To quote: ". . . the Intertie had not been considered sooner because of contractual and engineering problems . . ." The contractual problems resulted directly from the actions of Directors Stafford and Felson and their lack of action on Jan. 10, 1973. Directors Stafford and Felson refused to give the district manager the authority to negotiate with the North Marin Water District or the Sonoma County Water District to complete firm contracts for a supply of water for the Intertie . . .

The only engineering problem that I am aware existed or that was discussed at a board of directors meeting was that raised by Director Felson stating that he was concerned over the quality of the water from the Russian River and wanted a report on the water quality at least six inches thick . . .

The concerns of Directors Stafford, Felson and Griffin as to the management of the Russian River and Eel River resources is an issue raised by them that has no bearing on the ability of the Sonoma County Water District to supply water to the Marin Municipal Water District from the Russian River . . .

The Intertie has been approved by the voters. The bonds have, in fact, been sold and the cash is in the hands of the water district. In effect, your property and mine is presently held in security for the payment of these bonds which probably cannot be redeemed without penalty. The MMWD has engineered the pipeline, bought the right-of-way, and the specialized pumping and control equipment has been delivered. They have spent in excess of $250,000 as of this time on the Intertie. There is no justification for not completing this project as approved by the voters.

As to the directors' statement that they do not "desire to be planners beyond the scope of our dutues as water resources managers," the actions of Directors Stafford, Felson and Griffin consistently belie this statement.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Back-to-school clothing ads remind us that the vacation season is just about worn out.

Your daughter needs a trousseau not just when she gets married but every time she returns to school.

How come scholars require so many expensive clothes when all they ever wear are patched jeans, hippie sandals and the shirt off dad's back?

New clothes are not enough. Do you want Junior to be the only kid in his class without a new car?

The term "higher education" refers to the cost.

You Think It's Your Life, But The Computer Knows All

(Art Buchwald has gone off for a few weeks to forget about Watergate. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns which he insists to the best of his recollection, at that point in time and in hindsight, everyone wanted to read again.)

WASHINGTON — Somewhere in this great land of ours there is a computer stashed full of information on you. Whenever you want a bank loan, a credit card or a job, this computer will, in a matter of seconds, give some total stranger almost every detail of your life.

Unfortunately for most of us, the computer is unable to discriminate between fact and malicious gossip, and once the information is fed into it, it stays there forever.

THE OTHER DAY I was considering going into a car pool with three other men, Hicks, Kroll and Anderson. I have known these men casually for years, but when you join a car pool you really want to know what they're like.

So I asked a friend of mine in the retail credit business if I could use his computer for a few hours.

He agreed, and I went down there and typed out: WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT HICKS, AL, WHO LIVES AT 43 LOVER'S LEAP TERRACE?

I typed back: FORGET ABOUT CHILDHOOD AND GIVE ME SOME OTHER FACTS.

The computer replied: HICKS HAS A DOMINEERING WIFE WHO THE WHOLE WORLD THINKS IS SWEET AS MAPLE SYRUP. WHENEVER SHE GETS MADE AT HIM HE STARTS BITING HIS NAILS.

I typed back: I'M NOT INTERESTED IN THAT. WHAT'S THE CONDITION OF HIS CAR?

THE COMPUTER paused for a few seconds and then tapped out: HICKS OWNS 1957 BUICK CONVERTIBLE FOR WHICH HE IS STILL PAYING $80 A MONTH. IT HAS BEEN IN THE GARAGE 33 TIMES AND HAS COST HIM $1,500 IN REPAIRS. TWO OF THE SPRINGS IN THE BACK SEAT ARE BROKEN AND HE NEEDS NEW SNOW TIRES. HE HAS THE CAR WASHED ONCE A MONTH.

THAT'S ENOUGH, I told the computer, NOW GIVE ME A RUNDOWN ON KROLL, H. G., WHO LIVES AT 1 LION'S DEN CIRCLE.

The tapes in the computer started turning furiously and finally stopped. The teletype began to chatter KROLL, H. G., HAD STRONG MOTHER WHO DRESSED HIM IN SILK SAILOR SUITS UNTIL HE WAS 13 YEARS OLD.

GET ON WITH IT, I typed impatiently.

HE OWNS 1970 FOUR-DOOR MERCURY SEDAN WHICH HAS SPECIAL SILK SEAT COVERS. LIKES TO DRESS UP IN HIS WIFE'S CLOTHES WHEN CHILDREN ARE AT CAMP.

THEY DON'T USE HIS CAR. THEY USE HERS.

I DIDN'T MEAN THAT. IS HIS AUTOMOBILE SAFE FOR OUR CAR POOL?

IT IS NOW, BUT IF MRS. ANDERSON EVER FINDS OUT ABOUT THE LADY BUYER . . .

THANK YOU VERY MUCH, I typed. YOU'VE BEEN MOST HELPFUL.

DON'T MENTION IT. OH, BY THE WAY, WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO STOP BEATING YOUR WIFE?

Dog Classes Find A New Location

The Marin County Dog Training Club has found a new location for its regular Tuesday night obedience classes, training director Mid Rothrock announced yesterday.

The next series of classes will begin at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Italian Athletic Club building near the intersection of Ward Street and Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur. Advance registration may be made with Mrs. Charles Hanna, 2 Meadow Avenue, Mill Valley; Mrs. Rothrock, 19 Garden Road, Ross; or Mrs. Robert Sisemore, 740 Rowland Boulevard, Novato.

Training for children 10 to 16 years old and their dogs is free, Mrs. Rothrock said. A fee is charged to older students.

The nonprofit dog club also sponsors classes in conformation (showmanship) training at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the Marin County Humane Center, Novato, and in obedience Thursdays in the center.

Pipeline Watch By Private Firm Being Proposed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Draft proposals now circulating at high level in the Department of Interior call for turning over much of the environmental surveillance of Trans-Alaska pipeline construction to a private firm watched by government officials, the Alaska Daily News reported yesterday.

The newspaper said it has obtained a draft copy of a proposal prepared by Interior officials spelling out the procedure by which the federal government would hire a private independent firm to police construction of the proposed pipeline.

Some state officials said they feared the proposal is a move toward takeover the the surveillance activity by the Federal Bureau of Land Management.

A BLM spokesman denied the charges.

Roaming Dog's Owner Appeals Sentence

David Marcus, the man who went to jail because of the roamings of his dog, is appealing his conviction and could be released if he can raise $1,500 in bail.

As of this morning, though, the 44-year-old marketing consultant remained locked up.

Marcus drew a 60-day jail sentence because his dog, Company, escaped at least 10 times from Marcus's back yard in Mill Valley and was cited for being out of control of his owner.

Marcus appealed his conviction, but later became disgusted and went to Greece for four months. When he returned to the Bay Area and was stopped for a traffic violation in Berkeley in July, the dog case was discovered and Marcus was returned to Marin to serve his term.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court set the bail yesterday after a trading session in his courtroom.

Marcus's attorney, Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo, contending his client "obviously is no criminal," asked bail of $500.

He said drunken drivers, who are "a far greater menace to others than a dog owner," are routinely released on $360 bail.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Kathryn D. Mitchell, however, asked Best to set bail at $5,000. The judge first compromised on $2,500, but then lowered it to $1,500 when Marcus said he couldn't raise the higher sum.

Best said the appeal will go before Marin's three judge appeals panel, which meets monthly, possibly in September or October.

Rules Committee Gives Nod To Open Meetings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Rules Committee today unanimously approved legislation aimed at guaranteeing that most meetings of the Assembly, Senate and their committees would be open to the public.

The legislation by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, was amended by the committee to force the traditionally closed-door budget conference committee to conduct open sessions.

On a 7-0 vote, the proposed constitutional amendment (SCA6) and companion bill (SB278) were sent to the Assembly floor, where swift passage is expected. Both measures already have cleared the Senate.

Secret sessions still could be conducted under the legislation by partisan party caucuses and nonbudget conference committees working out differences in bills. Personnel and security decisions also could be made in private.

The constitutional amendment also grants the Legislature to close its meetings if a majority approves the closure.

An Uncontested Divorce Granted

FAIRFIELD, Ida. (AP) — The wife of Secretary of the Navy John W. Warner has been granted an uncontested divorce from her husband of 16 years, officials report.

Camas County Clerk George Gill said Tuesday that Mrs. Warner, the daughter of philanthropist Paul Mellon, met Idaho's six-week residency requirement by living in Sun Valley and was granted the divorce on Monday. Gill said terms of the settlement were "sealed information."

Burglary Case To Superior Court

A San Francisco man has been ordered to stand trial for burglary in Marin Superior Court after Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled there is enough evidence to try him.

Glenn James Albrecht, 27, was ordered to appear Tuesday in the higher court. He is accused of breaking into the Robert M. Simpton home in Strawberry July 20.

Man's Fowl Friends

Higher poultry prices have led some Americans to consider raising their own chickens. Domestication of fowl dates back centuries before the birth of Christ. The earliest references can be found in China, where an ancient dictionary defines the bird as "the domesticated animal which knows the time." Today's domestic breeds are believed to be descended from the jungle fowl of India. Spanish explorers brought chickens to America in the 16th Century. Last year broiler production in the U.S. reached a record high, up nearly 10 per cent from 1971's total of nearly 3 billion chickens.

ANCHORED TO HIS WORK

Cleanliness is almost an obsession in the port of Hamilton in the Bermudas. And this seaman from the Norwegian cruise ship Sea Venture can prove it. He is literally "chained" to his work — painting the ship's anchor. His act was caught yesterday as the ship's crew took time off to spruce up the vessel, apparently to match the town's houses which have sparkling white roofs and pastel walls.

Dog Classes Find A New Location

The Marin County Dog Training Club has found a new location for its regular Tuesday night obedience classes, training director Mid Rothrock announced yesterday.

The next series of classes will begin at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Italian Athletic Club building near the intersection of Ward Street and Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur. Advance registration may be made with Mrs. Charles Hanna, 2 Meadow Avenue, Mill Valley; Mrs. Rothrock, 19 Garden Road, Ross; or Mrs. Robert Sisemore, 740 Rowland Boulevard, Novato.

Training for children 10 to 16 years old and their dogs is free, Mrs. Rothrock said. A fee is charged to older students.

The nonprofit dog club also sponsors classes in conformation (showmanship) training at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the Marin County Humane Center, Novato, and in obedience Thursdays in the center.

Pipeline Watch By Private Firm Being Proposed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Draft proposals now circulating at high level in the Department of Interior call for turning over much of the environmental surveillance of Trans-Alaska pipeline construction to a private firm watched by government officials, the Alaska Daily News reported yesterday.

The newspaper said it has obtained a draft copy of a proposal prepared by Interior officials spelling out the procedure by which the federal government would hire a private independent firm to police construction of the proposed pipeline.

Some state officials said they feared the proposal is a move toward takeover the the surveillance activity by the Federal Bureau of Land Management.

A BLM spokesman denied the charges.

Roaming Dog's Owner Appeals Sentence

David Marcus, the man who went to jail because of the roamings of his dog, is appealing his conviction and could be released if he can raise $1,500 in bail.

As of this morning, though, the 44-year-old marketing consultant remained locked up.

Marcus drew a 60-day jail sentence because his dog, Company, escaped at least 10 times from Marcus's back yard in Mill Valley and was cited for being out of control of his owner.

Marcus appealed his conviction, but later became disgusted and went to Greece for four months. When he returned to the Bay Area and was stopped for a traffic violation in Berkeley in July, the dog case was discovered and Marcus was returned to Marin to serve his term.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court set the bail yesterday after a trading session in his courtroom.

Marcus's attorney, Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo, contending his client "obviously is no criminal," asked bail of $500.

He said drunken drivers, who are "a far greater menace to others than a dog owner," are routinely released on $360 bail.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Kathryn D. Mitchell, however, asked Best to set bail at $5,000. The judge first compromised on $2,500, but then lowered it to $1,500 when Marcus said he couldn't raise the higher sum.

Best said the appeal will go before Marin's three judge appeals panel, which meets monthly, possibly in September or October.

Rules Committee Gives Nod To Open Meetings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Rules Committee today unanimously approved legislation aimed at guaranteeing that most meetings of the Assembly, Senate and their committees would be open to the public.

The legislation by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, was amended by the committee to force the traditionally closed-door budget conference committee to conduct open sessions.

On a 7-0 vote, the proposed constitutional amendment (SCA6) and companion bill (SB278) were sent to the Assembly floor, where swift passage is expected. Both measures already have cleared the Senate.

Secret sessions still could be conducted under the legislation by partisan party caucuses and nonbudget conference committees working out differences in bills. Personnel and security decisions also could be made in private.

The constitutional amendment also grants the Legislature to close its meetings if a majority approves the closure.

MAJ. AND MRS. CLIFFORD C. ECKERT

The Chapel of Our Lady Presidio of San Francisco was the setting for the Aug. 11 wedding of Kathleen Candace Curry of Novato to Maj. Clifford Carl Eckert of Guerneville. The bride is the daughter of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. William C. Curry of Novato and Clifford is the son of Mrs. William C. Eckert of Guerneville. The couple will make their home at McConnell Air Force Base in Kansas.

PLAYS FOR CHILDREN

Sunshine Theater Company Rehearsing For 'Beanstalk'

By BETTY FROST

Rehearsals for a musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" are being held under the direction of Marney McArthur of Mill Valley.

The director has also designed the sets for the production, an effort of the recently formed Sunshine Theater Company of Marin, which specializes in putting on plays for children.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will open on Sept. 7 with matinee performances at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon. The show will be repeated each Saturday through Oct. 13.

For the play the Mill Valley woman has designed innovative highly portable backdrops. Scenes are painted on sized muslin, which can be easily folded. Fittings, like those used to secure convertible car tops, have been affixed to wooden frames and matching fittings attached to the scenery.

"I HAD a Marin automobile service firm do that part of the work for me," the designer said, "and the mechanic remarked that it was the most unusual job he had ever been asked to do."

The growing beanstalk is operated on a flagpole mechanism and rises when the prop man pulls on the ropes. A favorite prop with the children is the magic hen that lays the golden eggs, Marney explained.

In an earlier production of the play, Jack accidentally stepped on one of the golden eggs, the director laughed. "There went a golden egg with a big crunch and there was a moment of panic before another egg could be provided for the magic hen."

"The kids come to talk to the actors and to see what is done behind the scenes. Their imaginations are wonderful. We find that using some mime techniques is far better than scenes that are too contrived. In some communities where I have played the children are culturally starved."

MARNEY AND her husband, Ronald Coscia, a data processing consultant with offices in Mill Valley, moved to their new home in Mill Valley less than two years ago. They have a son, Geoffrey, 2, who attends all the rehearsals and now knows most of the songs in "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Mrs. Coscia's interest in the theater began when she was in junior high school in Glendale. She received both the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees in drama from the University of the Pacific at Stockton. She spent two summers appearing in plays put on by the university's drama department in the Columbia Playhouse at Columbia State Park in Tuolumne County. She obtained the teaching credential in drama from California State University, San Francisco.

Since moving to Marin County, she has affiliated with the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, Children's Theater, and has played lead roles in productions of "Gretchen and the Lonely Goblin," and "Beauty and the Beast." She directed a summer theater workshop for young people last summer for the Mill Valley group, and produced the musical, "Anna and the King of Siam" with them.

"I THINK it is too bad that there is no drama program in the elementary schools in Mill Valley," the actress said. "By the time children get to the Middle School they are more self-conscious."

She has been managing director of the Sunshine Theater since it was formed six months ago. Her goals for the children's theater company are to tour as a repertory company within Northern California. Two other plays, "Strolling Players" and "Winnie the Pooh," are being added to their repertoire.

Susan Carlisle Weds Steven Kent Stoddard

The bride's sister Mrs. Donald Markey of Novato was the honor attendant. Bridesmaids were her sisters Candida and Kathleen Mary Carlisle of San Anselmo, the bridegroom's sister Susan Stoddard of Bakersfield and Carolie Brislain of Antioch.

Susan and Steven will live in Bakersfield.

Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. Carlisle of Sleepy Hollow. She was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California at Davis. She also attended the University of Bordeaux and the University of Paris in France, and is employed by the Bakersfield city schools.

Susan is the sister of Chester G. Carlisle of Berkeley, Thomas and John Carlisle of Sleepy Hollow.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Herbert D. Heck of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Harry G. Carlisle of Pomona.

Steven's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kennith Stoddard of Bakersfield. He was graduated from Bakersfield High School and U.C. Davis and is employed in Bakersfield. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Benedict and Bert Stoddard of Bakersfield.

Don't Be One Of The Fleeced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Consumers are fleeced of over $500 million a year through mail frauds, according to Janet Wilson, extension consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Consumers who become victims of correspondence school frauds are people with little education desperately trying to improve their economic opportunities. She said fraudulent schools will accept anyone willing to sign a contract.

Once it is signed, the victim has little chance to get out of it. Consumers can protect themselves by investigating before they sign any contracts. Check with employers in the particular industry involved to determine the value of a particular course.

Miss Wilson also advised the consumer: be suspicious of mail order schemes that demand money for information about good pay for easy part-time work in your home. Some are direct frauds.

MRS. VINCENT L. WHITE

Thrift Shop Branch Has A New Slate

Lois White of Mill Valley, former president of the Founders Auxiliary of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers, will be installed president of Thirft Shop Branch of the volunteers on Sept. 5.

Mrs. White continues as a member of the Founder's Auxiliary, which establishes new branches, and will head the group which operates the volunteers' thrift shop, Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael. Proceeds go to Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. White, wife of Vincent L. White, assistant chief, Division of Industrial Safety Relations, State of California, is a past president also of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley and the Redwood Guild of Sunny Hills.

Born in Berkeley, she had a career for 17 years as buyer, merchandise manager and personnel director for Capwell, Emporium Corp. and Dohrman's in San Francisco.

She is the mother of four grown sons and daughters, Michael Brown, Mrs. Wendall Kerr, Norman White and Mrs. Larry Lima. Aside from her volunteer work, she enjoys camping, hiking, home remodeling and sewing.

Other officers to be installed by the branch are Mmes. C. Connie Carpou, vice president; Robert Laverini, corresponding secretary; Morrill Dunn, recording secretary; Norman Higby, treasurer; John Ball, pricing coordinator; and Robert McKendry, staffing coordinator.

Organized as a pilot project in June, 1971, the thrift shop has donated $20,000 to the hospital. The branch to operate the shop was formed last April 30 and now has 57 members. Funds it raises are used by the hospital for patient-care equipment.

The director has also designed the sets for the production, an effort of the recently formed Sunshine Theater Company of Marin, which specializes in putting on plays for children.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will open on Sept. 7 with matinee performances at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon. The show will be repeated each Saturday through Oct. 13.

For the play the Mill Valley woman has designed innovative highly portable backdrops. Scenes are painted on sized muslin, which can be easily folded. Fittings, like those used to secure convertible car tops, have been affixed to wooden frames and matching fittings attached to the scenery.

"I HAD a Marin automobile service firm do that part of the work for me," the designer said, "and the mechanic remarked that it was the most unusual job he had ever been asked to do."

The growing beanstalk is operated on a flagpole mechanism and rises when the prop man pulls on the ropes. A favorite prop with the children is the magic hen that lays the golden eggs, Marney explained.

In an earlier production of the play, Jack accidentally stepped on one of the golden eggs, the director laughed. "There went a golden egg with a big crunch and there was a moment of panic before another egg could be provided for the magic hen."

"The kids come to talk to the actors and to see what is done behind the scenes. Their imaginations are wonderful. We find that using some mime techniques is far better than scenes that are too contrived. In some communities where I have played the children are culturally starved."

MARNEY AND her husband, Ronald Coscia, a data processing consultant with offices in Mill Valley, moved to their new home in Mill Valley less than two years ago. They have a son, Geoffrey, 2, who attends all the rehearsals and now knows most of the songs in "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Mrs. Coscia's interest in the theater began when she was in junior high school in Glendale. She received both the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees in drama from the University of the Pacific at Stockton. She spent two summers appearing in plays put on by the university's drama department in the Columbia Playhouse at Columbia State Park in Tuolumne County. She obtained the teaching credential in drama from California State University, San Francisco.

Since moving to Marin County, she has affiliated with the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, Children's Theater, and has played lead roles in productions of "Gretchen and the Lonely Goblin," and "Beauty and the Beast." She directed a summer theater workshop for young people last summer for the Mill Valley group, and produced the musical, "Anna and the King of Siam" with them.

"I THINK it is too bad that there is no drama program in the elementary schools in Mill Valley," the actress said. "By the time children get to the Middle School they are more self-conscious."

She has been managing director of the Sunshine Theater since it was formed six months ago. Her goals for the children's theater company are to tour as a repertory company within Northern California. Two other plays, "Strolling Players" and "Winnie the Pooh," are being added to their repertoire.

Susan Carlisle Weds Steven Kent Stoddard

The bride's sister Mrs. Donald Markey of Novato was the honor attendant. Bridesmaids were her sisters Candida and Kathleen Mary Carlisle of San Anselmo, the bridegroom's sister Susan Stoddard of Bakersfield and Carolie Brislain of Antioch.

Susan and Steven will live in Bakersfield.

Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. Carlisle of Sleepy Hollow. She was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of California at Davis. She also attended the University of Bordeaux and the University of Paris in France, and is employed by the Bakersfield city schools.

Susan is the sister of Chester G. Carlisle of Berkeley, Thomas and John Carlisle of Sleepy Hollow.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Herbert D. Heck of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Harry G. Carlisle of Pomona.

Steven's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kennith Stoddard of Bakersfield. He was graduated from Bakersfield High School and U.C. Davis and is employed in Bakersfield. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Benedict and Bert Stoddard of Bakersfield.

Don't Be One Of The Fleeced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Consumers are fleeced of over $500 million a year through mail frauds, according to Janet Wilson, extension consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Consumers who become victims of correspondence school frauds are people with little education desperately trying to improve their economic opportunities. She said fraudulent schools will accept anyone willing to sign a contract.

Once it is signed, the victim has little chance to get out of it. Consumers can protect themselves by investigating before they sign any contracts. Check with employers in the particular industry involved to determine the value of a particular course.

Miss Wilson also advised the consumer: be suspicious of mail order schemes that demand money for information about good pay for easy part-time work in your home. Some are direct frauds.

MRS. VINCENT L. WHITE

Thrift Shop Branch Has A New Slate

Lois White of Mill Valley, former president of the Founders Auxiliary of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers, will be installed president of Thirft Shop Branch of the volunteers on Sept. 5.

Mrs. White continues as a member of the Founder's Auxiliary, which establishes new branches, and will head the group which operates the volunteers' thrift shop, Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael. Proceeds go to Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. White, wife of Vincent L. White, assistant chief, Division of Industrial Safety Relations, State of California, is a past president also of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley and the Redwood Guild of Sunny Hills.

Born in Berkeley, she had a career for 17 years as buyer, merchandise manager and personnel director for Capwell, Emporium Corp. and Dohrman's in San Francisco.

She is the mother of four grown sons and daughters, Michael Brown, Mrs. Wendall Kerr, Norman White and Mrs. Larry Lima. Aside from her volunteer work, she enjoys camping, hiking, home remodeling and sewing.

Other officers to be installed by the branch are Mmes. C. Connie Carpou, vice president; Robert Laverini, corresponding secretary; Morrill Dunn, recording secretary; Norman Higby, treasurer; John Ball, pricing coordinator; and Robert McKendry, staffing coordinator.

Organized as a pilot project in June, 1971, the thrift shop has donated $20,000 to the hospital. The branch to operate the shop was formed last April 30 and now has 57 members. Funds it raises are used by the hospital for patient-care equipment.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

The Weigh Of The Flesh Can Bring Many, Many Frustrations

DEAR RAP:

Please print this for all the girls like me.

WHAT IS FAT?

Fat is going to the grad dance and even the guys who are stoned out of their minds don't look your way.

It's going on a diet and losing 26 pounds, only to gain it all back and discover you weigh more than when you started.

It's going to the beach, seeing fatter people and feeling good. . .

Then some super-stacked chick walks by.

It's finding out that a boy likes you (someone says), then learning he's the two-ton fag of the school.

It's congratulating yourself that you're not as fat as Dianne, and then realizing you're gaining on her.

It's talking about fat people behind their backs, then finding people are talking behind yours.

It's daydreaming about being skinny, and realizing that you are sitting watching TV and eating corn chips right after dinner! — DAWN

And this is:

Telling yourself that rich food isn't nearly so important as the good times you'll have when you look and feel your best, on a sensible, well-balanced diet.

It's learning to enjoy hunger pangs the same way you enjoy sore muscles from exercise — because they make you feel worthy.

It's counting calories and reminding yourself that if you cheat, you're the "gainer."

It's tossing out excuses like "My mother overfed me when I was young," or "I gain if I only look at food" (when you know you've got a couple of candy bars stashed away in your room). Sure, it's harder for some people to lose, but your doctor will tell you it's not impossible, at your age.

Thin is changing bad eating habits, not just until you shed 26 pounds, but forever. . . .And knowing it's all worthwhile when you actually enjoy looking in a full length mirror. — HELEN AND SUE

During the calypso craze of the '50s the Buccaneer blouse was big, and it's coming again in body shirt style. Camille Howard, designer for Reve, has done it again with updated lines that are softer and with sophisticated details. Colors are white, pink or blue, made up in nylon.

Some Baby Habits Common; Others Can Mean Danger

Seventeenth of a Series

Most babies get their thumbs and fingers in their mouths and suck on them. Many seem to find it especially enjoyable and do it often. It causes no harm and can be ignored.

Some mothers don't like the looks of thumb and finger sucking and substitute a pacifier for the thumb. This also is fine, and the pacifier can be thrown away toward the end of the first year. But don't substitute the pacifier for the attention, food, or diaper changes that your baby wants and needs when he is crying.

YOUR BABY'S eyes should look straight at you when he is awake and alert. One may turn in or out slightly when he is particularly tired, but both eyes should work together almost all of the time. If not seek medical advice at your baby's next check-up. Don't be fooled by a wide nose which may make the eyes look as if they are turning in.

Most babies urinate nearly every hour until they are two or three months old, every two or three hours for the rest of the first year, and will sometimes urinate two or three times in a very short period. But if your young baby never seems to go more than half an hour without urinating or your older baby seldom goes more than an hour, if he strains very hard to urinate, or if he always urinates in a weak trickle or very tight stream, you should tell the doctor about it at the next check-up.

Many babies have a slightly stuffy, rattly noise in their noses nearly all the time. This is not a cold, it just seems to be the way they are made. It will become less and less noisy and noticeable as he gets older, the air passages of the nose get larger, and he learns to clear his nose by sniffling. Don't use a lot of cold remedies with such a baby. You may be able to reduce the noise by sucking out his nose several times a day with a small rubber bulb called a nasal syringe.

Most babies will have two or three real colds in the first year, your perfectly normal baby may have eight or nine. With a cold he will become a little fussy and lose part of his appetite. His nose will start running with clear watery material which will later become thick. His eyes may look red, he may cough frequently and make a lot of noise when he breathes. He may have a fever. The cold may last four or five days, or two or three weeks, and if a cough starts it may continue as long as four or five weeks.

NEITHER YOU nor your doctor can do much about it except keep your baby as comfortable as possible. If he seems uncomfortable with aches and pains, give him half a baby aspirin three or four times a day. Use the nasal syringe to clear his nose when it bothers him. A mixture of honey and lemon juice given one teaspoon every four hours will do as much good for a cough as many fancy cough medicines.

When you should worry — if he seems very weak and sick, has no energy to even cry loudly, nurses poorly, doesn't want over half of his usual bottle, doesn't wake up to be playful for even a short time — then you should seek medical care quickly.

How sick he acts tells much more about how seriously ill he might be than anything else. If he has a high fever and a cough, but takes some of his bottle eagerly and wants to play, you don't have to worry. But if he is listless, weak, uninterested in attention, play or his bottle, you should get him to a doctor quickly.

IF HE HAS labored breathing you should have him checked. This means he has to work so hard at breathing — getting the air in and out — that he has no energy left for anything else, even for his bottle or playing. Making a lot of noise breathing is not important, but having to work very hard to breathe is.

If he cries and moans as if in pain for several hours while he has a cold, you should get him checked by a doctor. If he is just fussy and goes to sleep after you comfort him or give him half a baby aspirin, you needn't worry. But painful cries shouldn't be ignored.

Puerto Rico wedding trip

Vows Are Exchanged In Marinwood Church

Christine De George and David C. Menagh were married at St. Vincent's Church in Marinwood Aug. 11.

Christine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan A. DeGeorge of Novato, chose Donelle Campbell as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Maureen McGrayel of Fresno, Elaine Strahlendorf of San Anselmo and Andrea Fanslow and Diane Horn of Novato.

Ernest Link of Novato was best man and ushers were Gregory Kilian of Petaluma; Jeff McIntosh of Sausalito; George and Peter De George, brothers of the bride; Carl Menagh, the bridegroom's brother, and Luis R. DeOlazarra of Novato.

A reception was held at the Noncommissioned Officer's Club at the Presidio in San Francisco. The couple is on a wedding trip to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. On their return they will live in San Rafael.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George De George of Northfield, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis H. Menagh of Novato are the bridegroom's parents. He is the brother of Mary Beth and Carl Menagh of Novato and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Menagh of Last Aurora, N.Y., and Mrs. William F. Chase of Arizona. David was graduated from Novato High School and attended California State University, Humboldt. He is employed at Bay Histology in San Rafael.

History Has Major Role In Quilting

A bit of history comes with those newly rediscovered quilting patterns. The Queen Charlotte's design, for instance, was named for the wife of King George III of England. But during the Revolutionary War it was renamed Mountain Meadows so that American women could continue to use it in good conscience, according to the Quilter's Companion, a quilting guide by Dolores A. Hinson.

The Lafayette Orange Peel pattern, the book relates, is supposed to have been created about 1825 when Lafayette visited this country and was honored at a banquet in Philadelphia.

Oranges were served and Lafayette took his knife and divided the peel into four equal parts before peeling an orange. A young woman seated next to him asked for the fruit skin as a souvenir, took them home and used them to design a quilt block.

Accessory Item

Jewelry is the biggest accessory item for upcoming fall and holiday season wear, reports Women's Wear Daily. Buyers report that they are going for the graduated bead necklace and the delicate chain in particular. Beads will definitely be back, they say.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID C. MENAGH

Christine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan A. DeGeorge of Novato, chose Donelle Campbell as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Maureen McGrayel of Fresno, Elaine Strahlendorf of San Anselmo and Andrea Fanslow and Diane Horn of Novato.

Ernest Link of Novato was best man and ushers were Gregory Kilian of Petaluma; Jeff McIntosh of Sausalito; George and Peter De George, brothers of the bride; Carl Menagh, the bridegroom's brother, and Luis R. DeOlazarra of Novato.

A reception was held at the Noncommissioned Officer's Club at the Presidio in San Francisco. The couple is on a wedding trip to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. On their return they will live in San Rafael.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George De George of Northfield, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis H. Menagh of Novato are the bridegroom's parents. He is the brother of Mary Beth and Carl Menagh of Novato and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Menagh of Last Aurora, N.Y., and Mrs. William F. Chase of Arizona. David was graduated from Novato High School and attended California State University, Humboldt. He is employed at Bay Histology in San Rafael.

History Has Major Role In Quilting

A bit of history comes with those newly rediscovered quilting patterns. The Queen Charlotte's design, for instance, was named for the wife of King George III of England. But during the Revolutionary War it was renamed Mountain Meadows so that American women could continue to use it in good conscience, according to the Quilter's Companion, a quilting guide by Dolores A. Hinson.

The Lafayette Orange Peel pattern, the book relates, is supposed to have been created about 1825 when Lafayette visited this country and was honored at a banquet in Philadelphia.

Oranges were served and Lafayette took his knife and divided the peel into four equal parts before peeling an orange. A young woman seated next to him asked for the fruit skin as a souvenir, took them home and used them to design a quilt block.

Accessory Item

Jewelry is the biggest accessory item for upcoming fall and holiday season wear, reports Women's Wear Daily. Buyers report that they are going for the graduated bead necklace and the delicate chain in particular. Beads will definitely be back, they say.

Children Can Play Major Role

By CYNTHIA PARSON
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

If you are black and come from an all-black neighborhood, and if your parents don't have a great many white, Spanish-American or Asian friends, then the burden is on you this year to help your parents desegregate their social lives.

If you are white, live near and generally associate with other white families, and you know for a surety that your mother has no black, Asian, or Chicano friends and that your father doesn't either though he may know some at his office, then you may need to know how to teach your mom and dad how to live a more integrated life.

And the same holds true, of course, for you children from Spanish-speaking and Asian homes.

IT MAY BE that your parents are shy, and that's why they don't seek out friends in other cultures. Or it may be that they have so long limited their circle of friends to those of the same race that they don't know how to break out of their self-imposed cliques.

It's also true that they may be victims of prejudice. (Please look that word up in a good dictionary and note its true meanings. Among other things, it means damage by actions of another person who disregards your rights.)

Since you are the one in the family who will be in an integrated environment every school day, and you will be making friends with children who may be of another race, you could work out some way to help your parents get to know the parents of your new friends.

It may be that you find a good friend who plays the same instrument you do in the school band. You may even arrange to practice together. Both sets of parents may well be coming to the band concerts.

Why don't you two children encourage each set of parents respectively to provide dinner on concert evening? Your parents can sit together in the audience as you sit together on the stage.

YOU COULD make a similar arrangement if you have a special friend of another race who is on the same school team with you, or in the chorus.

If you know your parents are active in the school parent-teachers association, you can ask that they get to know your friend's parents and invite them to your home for an evening.

Suppose your new friend is from a rich family and your family is poor. You might never persuade your mom and dad to have that family visit your home or to go to your friend's house.

That doesn't make getting to know each other impossible. What if the school has an open house? You can arrange it so that your parents come at the same time as your friend's parents, and the four of them can get to know each other as you two show them around the school.

You see, your parents probably need to learn from you how to live in a racially mixed society. For the most part, your parents never went to integrated schools. Probably their churches, too, are segregated. And they may have deliberately moved to a neighborhood which is segregated.

You, then, will be the first person in your family — maybe the first for generations — who has learned to know and admire someone of another race. You may be the first in your family to distinguish a person's character from his or her skin color, the first to choose your friends on the basis of who you get along with regardless of background.

It's up to you, then, to help your parents.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID GONZALES

David Gonzales Wed To Elizabeth Rupiper

Mission San Rafael Arcangel was the setting for the wedding of Elizabeth Rupiper of San Rafael and David Gonzales of El Cerrito on Saturday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Rupiper of San Rafael, Elizabeth chose Georgia Stempel of Berkeley as her only attendant.

Robert Gonzales of Las Cruces, N.M., performed best man duties, and the ushers were the bride's brothers Jerry and Glen Rupiper.

A reception was held afterward at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Elizabeth and David will live in El Cerrito when they return from a wedding trip to Southern California.

The bride is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School. She attended Dominican College and received a degree from the University of California at Berkeley. She is the sister also of Steve, Joan and Ruth Rupiper of San Rafael and the granddaughter of Jacob Renkens of DePere, Wis.

The bridegroom is the son of Fermin Gonzales of Roy, N.M., and Mrs. Dorene Gonzales of Redwood City. He is employed by Liggett and Myers in Santa Clara, where he also attends college.

College Education Vs. The Inflation

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nine of every 10 Chicagoans questioned in a survey feel that inflation and other economic ills directly are affecting the financing of college educations.

The quarterly survey by Continental Bank samples the attitudes of 500 Chicago-area families about their personal finances, business conditions, and how they manage their money. The survey report shows record low levels of consumer confidence about personal finances, current business conditions and the future.

Women's Studies Gain A Bravo

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.. (UPI) — Alert, a women's legislative review published in Middletown, Conn., says "Bravo" to the Greenwich, Conn., public school system for adopting a seventh grade program on women.

The new program, three weeks long, centers on the changing role and image of women. Written by Lyn Nevins, a junior high social studies teacher, the program deals with sex stereotyping in elementary school readers and the lack of women in history texts.

It also gets into inequalities in job opportunities and pay scales. Ms. Nevins is chairman of the Connecticut Task Force on Education, National Organization for Women (NOW).

Some Good Dress News Announced

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Super new fashions for super-sized juniors — from Lane Bryant's new mail order catalog. The "Young Looks" fashion collection in the Bryant fall catalog includes:

Eighteen pages offering short and long dresses, coats, sportswear, lingerie, shoes, accessories and pants. What's more, coats and dresses are offered in a new size range: LB Juniors 15 to 29.

"Young Looks" encompasses what's current and stresses the soft, easy construction that's especially flattering to a fuller figure, say the Bryant fashion coordinators. A bottle green pantsuit, for example, is done in soft, shimmery satin with palazzo legs, a long jacket and an elegant blouse — very "30's" indeed and quite right for the not-so-small junior.

A beautifully-tailored coat bears the unmistakably neat shirt look of Valentino-even to the V-detailed pockets. In bright red, it validates the idea that any color is right for today's super-sized woman.

Say the people at Lane Bryant:

"The trend toward real fashion freedom via catalog shopping has finally arrived for the active young woman who wears special sizes."

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Guards To Work Against Moretti

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California prison guards have threatened to campaign vigorously against Speaker Bob Moretti's bid for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination if an Assembly committee kills capital punishment bills.

Ken Brown, spokesman for the California Correctional Officers Association, charged yesterday that Moretti was "unfit" to be governor because he had "stacked the deck against passage of death penalty legislation."

The Criminal Justice Committee, handpicked by Moretti and controlled by death penalty foes, was scheduled to cast a long-awaited showdown vote on capital punishment bills this afternoon. There appeared to be only a slim chance that any bill might be approved.

If the committee rejects the measures, Assembly Republican Leader Robert G. Beverly said he will attempt Monday to have the full Assembly withdraw the legislation from the panel's grip.

Pledging the association "will spare no effort to derail Moretti's effort to become governor," Brown said any legislator "unwilling to accept the view of the vast majority of Californians on an issue of this importance is simply unfit" for the state's highest office.

The association last year sponsored Prop. 17, the initiative granting the legislature power to reimpose the death penalty which passed last year by a 2 to 1 margin. Brown said the association will stage another initiative campaign this year if the Legislature fails to finish the job.

Two major rival bills were before the seven-man committee.

One bill, authored by Sen. George Deukmejian and backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, would reinstate the death penalty for serious crimes on a permanent basis.

The other measure, carried by Assemblyman Daniel E. Boatwright, D-Concord, would impose the supreme penalty for most of the same crimes covered by Deukmejian's bill— but for only three years to determine if capital punishment deters crime.

Boat Burglarized

Robert K. Campbell, 195 Eucalyptus Street, Cotati, told Petaluma Police yesterday that a stereo tape player and two speakers valued at $165 were stolen from his fishing boat while moored on the Petaluma River at B Street.

SHIPPER AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing a $1.2 million tax break for the shipping industry has failed in the Senate after opponents said its cost would come out of the "hides" of California taxpayers.

The measure (SB884) by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, was rejected yesterday on an 18-14 vote, far short of the 27 needed. Dills was granted permission to have the vote reconsidered.

The proposal would exempt cargo containers used in shipping from local property taxes until 1977. During that period a study of the economic effects of the measure would be conducted.

PENAL SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's $10 million proposal to revamp the state's adult and youth penal system has been overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate.

The bill (SB391) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, was turned down on a 16-17 vote yesterday, with 27 needed for passage. The measure was kept alive, however, when Biddle asked to have the vote reconsidered.

The plan would merge the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority into a single agency and combined the three state parole boards into one with responsibility for men, women and juveniles. The $10 million would go to help local governments build new facilities.

TAINTED LETTUCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to avert another incident in which thousands of cases of pesticide-contaminated lettuce reached markets has advanced in the Assembly.

The bill (AB2546) by Assemblyman Raymond T. Seeley, R-Blythe, cleared the Natural Resources Committee yesterday on a 6-0 vote and was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure authorizes the director of the state Food and Agriculture Department or county agricultural commissioners to ban the harvest of any produce contaminated by pesticides.

SEX TEXT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A conservative Republican assemblyman has charged that a recently adopted sex education textbook for California junior high school students would promote "sexual stimulation rather than morality."

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield of South Gate also said yesterday the book, titled Human Sexuality, "practically condones 'unusual behavior' as being 'normal'" and said a copy of it was found in the home of suspected Texas sex slayer Dean A. Corll.

In what he said was an open letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan and Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, Wakefield concluded:

"Said the boy after he had raped his teacher: 'Didn't she spend the whole year telling us how to do it, when to do it, and how much fun it would be?'"

"This book," Wakefield said, "in my opinion, would be harmful to our youth and would promote sexual stimulation, rather than morality as outlined in our education code."

COLLEGE NAMES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has voted final legislative approval to a bill shortening the names of six campuses of the state college and university system.

The measure (AB229) by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, was approved on a 21-2 vote yesterday and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Affected by the measure are the campuses at San Jose, San Francisco and San Diego, which are currently called "California State University at ..." Also affected are the California State College at Humboldt and California State Polytechnic universities at San Luis Obispo and Pomona.

The bill would change the names of four campuses by placing the city first, such as San Francisco State University, and Humboldt State University. The Cal Poly campuses would be renamed California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo.

HOSPITAL BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation prohibiting the Reagan administration from closing state hospitals for the mentally ill or retarded without the lawmakers' approval has advanced in the Senate.

The three measures, one by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and two by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, cleared the Health and Welfare Committee yesterday and were sent to the Finance Committee.

Wallace Is Visited By Friend, 103

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Otis Sledge figures he's a pretty spry 103-year-old. That's why he got on a bus this week in Bakersfield, Calif., and rode all the way to Montgomery just to shake Gov. George Wallace's hand.

"Why, Mr. Sledge," said Wallace yesterday, craning forward to grasp the withered brown hand. "I haven't seen you since I was campaigning in California in 1968."

Wallace and Sledge go back a long time.

"I remember when he was just a little baby," said the old man, running his hand through wisps of curly white hair. "I used to work for his grandpa down in Barbour County.

"Why, I can remember toting him around in the yard when he was just a little boy."

Finding the Capitol was a bit of a problem for Sledge. "I ain't been to Montgomery in 75 years," he said as he walked with slow even steps up the Capitol walk. "All this wasn't here then," he said, pointing to the state office buildings with his cane.

When aides guided him into the governor's office, Sledge told Wallace, "Governor, nothing gives me any higher joy than seeing you."

"I was 98 then and I hadn't ever voted in my life," he recalled. "I walked eight miles so I could register and vote for Gov. Wallace."

Sledge said he worried a lot about Wallace after the attempted assassination of the governor. He said that's one of the reasons he made the trip from California.

"I tell you it was might sad with me when I heard of his disaster" he said.

But Sledge didn't worry when he heard about Watergate.

"When I first heard about that Nixon mess I wondered if Gov. Wallace might be mixed up in it, but I thought about it and I knowed we ain't never had a better, clean cut set of people than the Wallaces."

In fact, Sledge is eager for Wallace to run for President again.

"I just want you to know, governor," he said to Wallace, "if you come out again I'll support you next time just as much as I did the last time."

Otis will be 106 when the 1976 campaign rolls around.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Guards To Work Against Moretti

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California prison guards have threatened to campaign vigorously against Speaker Bob Moretti's bid for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination if an Assembly committee kills capital punishment bills.

Ken Brown, spokesman for the California Correctional Officers Association, charged yesterday that Moretti was "unfit" to be governor because he had "stacked the deck against passage of death penalty legislation."

The Criminal Justice Committee, handpicked by Moretti and controlled by death penalty foes, was scheduled to cast a long-awaited showdown vote on capital punishment bills this afternoon. There appeared to be only a slim chance that any bill might be approved.

If the committee rejects the measures, Assembly Republican Leader Robert G. Beverly said he will attempt Monday to have the full Assembly withdraw the legislation from the panel's grip.

Pledging the association "will spare no effort to derail Moretti's effort to become governor," Brown said any legislator "unwilling to accept the view of the vast majority of Californians on an issue of this importance is simply unfit" for the state's highest office.

The association last year sponsored Prop. 17, the initiative granting the legislature power to reimpose the death penalty which passed last year by a 2 to 1 margin. Brown said the association will stage another initiative campaign this year if the Legislature fails to finish the job.

Two major rival bills were before the seven-man committee.

One bill, authored by Sen. George Deukmejian and backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, would reinstate the death penalty for serious crimes on a permanent basis.

The other measure, carried by Assemblyman Daniel E. Boatwright, D-Concord, would impose the supreme penalty for most of the same crimes covered by Deukmejian's bill— but for only three years to determine if capital punishment deters crime.

Boat Burglarized

Robert K. Campbell, 195 Eucalyptus Street, Cotati, told Petaluma Police yesterday that a stereo tape player and two speakers valued at $165 were stolen from his fishing boat while moored on the Petaluma River at B Street.

SHIPPER AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing a $1.2 million tax break for the shipping industry has failed in the Senate after opponents said its cost would come out of the "hides" of California taxpayers.

The measure (SB884) by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, was rejected yesterday on an 18-14 vote, far short of the 27 needed. Dills was granted permission to have the vote reconsidered.

The proposal would exempt cargo containers used in shipping from local property taxes until 1977. During that period a study of the economic effects of the measure would be conducted.

PENAL SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's $10 million proposal to revamp the state's adult and youth penal system has been overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate.

The bill (SB391) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, was turned down on a 16-17 vote yesterday, with 27 needed for passage. The measure was kept alive, however, when Biddle asked to have the vote reconsidered.

The plan would merge the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority into a single agency and combined the three state parole boards into one with responsibility for men, women and juveniles. The $10 million would go to help local governments build new facilities.

TAINTED LETTUCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to avert another incident in which thousands of cases of pesticide-contaminated lettuce reached markets has advanced in the Assembly.

An Ex-Astronaut Burned In Crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former astronaut Fred Haise Jr., who survived an explosion in space aboard the ill-fated Apollo 13, crashed a single engine World War II trainer in an open field Wednesday. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

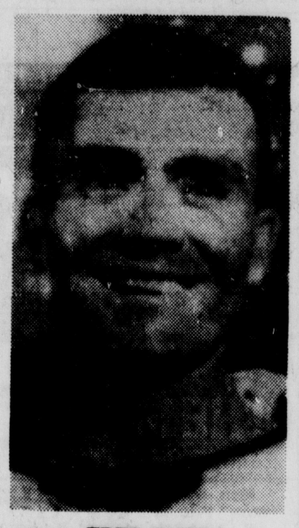
Galveston County deputy sheriff Eddie Burke said the plane, painted so it resembled a Japanese Zero, narrowly missed a trailer park and crashed into the field.

Haise said the plane's engine "quit" on him.

The former astronaut was taken to the John Sealy Hospital Burn Clinic in Galveston.

"The attending physician reported Haise suffered second degree burns over 50 per cent of his body and third degree burns on his legs," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today. "He said prognosis was good, that Haise's vital signs were stable and that it did not appear that skin grafts would be necessary."

The spokesman said the plane was a T6 belonging to the Confederate Air Force—a group that collect and fly old military aircraft. Haise was ferrying the aircraft 40 miles from an airport in Angleton, 43 miles south of Houston, to Galveston.



FRED HAISE
Crashes old plane

Lyn Bercot, the public information director of the Confederate Air Force, said the plane was being taken to Galveston for use in an air show. Bercot said it was one of many T6s converted into replicas of Japanese Zeros. The planes were used in the motion picture "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

Haise joined the astronaut corps in April, 1966. He served as a backup pilot for three Apollo flights and was the lunar module pilot on the flight of Apollo 13 in April, 1970. An explosion in an oxygen tank forced the spaceship to return to Earth without landing on the moon.

Richardson Bay Shoreline Dirt Said Approved

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Large amounts of dirt dumped along Richardson Bay's shoreline opposite Marin City are part of an approved project, the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission said today.

The explanation came after several citizens complained about the dirt.

The material, dumped in recent weeks, will be used under a BCDC permit to upgrade the Kappas Yacht Harbor, the staff reported. Most of it will be used to raise the level of existing fill, but some will go into the bay for a bicycle and pedestrian path through the harbor, the staff said.

Begger's Fine More Than Take

LONDON (UPI) —A London beggar Wednesday may have proved that the milk of human kindness has gone sour.

Fined $5 for begging in Piccadilly Circus, the man told the court, "I was going round people from different countries to find out who were the most generous in the world."

His take for the entire day was 29 cents.

New Owner Sees Railroad Profit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new operator of the harbor Belt Railroad, which lost $1.2 million over the last five years, believes he can put the short-haul railway back on its feet.

The Port Commission voted unanimously yesterday to let Willis B. Kyle, board chairman of the American Short Line Association, take over their headache.

Kyle, of Fresno, said he would set out "on a vigorous program to attract new domestic cargo."

Under the new contract, the port will provide pensions for present employes or retain them in other jobs.

Author Raps Red Ruling On Residence

MOSCOW (UPI) —Novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in a letter made public today, denounced the refusal of Soviet authorities to let him live in Moscow with his family and said, "I am not a serf, not a slave."

The Nobel Prize-winning author described the Soviet system as lacking in "human or legal considerations" and said residence restrictions such as Soviet authorities impose "hardly exist even in colonial countries in the modern world."

Solzhenitsyn, long in official disfavor because of his writings, made the statements in a letter to Interior Minister Nikolai A. Shchelokov, dated Thursday and made available today to Western newsmen.

"I, like any other citizen of this country, am not a serf, not a slave, and I am free to live where I think it necessary," Solzhenitsyn said in the letter. "No one, not even the highest authorities, has any proprietary rights to sever me from my family."

Solzhenitsyn has been trying to get permission to live in Moscow since last spring, when he won a 16-month legal battle to divorce his first wife and then married Natalya Svetlova, with whom he had lived for three years.

His new wife, who is the mother of his two young sons, has an apartment in central Moscow. Normally persons who marry residents of Moscow are automatically given permission to live in the capital.

But Solzhenitsyn said his residence application was turned down about a week ago.

More News Sessions By President Urged

LONDON (UPI) —Evangelist Billy Graham said today President Nixon should hold more news conferences. He said he doubts Nixon or anyone knows or ever will know the whole truth about the Watergate affair.

"But I believe it will have a great cleansing effect on the United States," he said.

Graham made the comments at a news conference called to announce "Spree 73" —a Bible training event he will lead here next week.

Graham at first said he would not answer questions about Watergate or other political matters. But when one British reporter asked, "Do you think Nixon has come unstuck?" Graham retorted, "No, I don't think he has come unstuck. One certainly did not get that impression from yesterday's press conference."

Graham said he saw part of it on British television after his arrival in London Wednesday evening.

"He should hold more press conferences," Graham said. "He is at his best in that kind of give and take. He comes alive then. He has been a debater all his life and he shows at his best on such occasions."

Graham added, "I don't know whether anyone knows the total truth about Watergate, including the President or (Sen.) Sam Ervin or anyone, and I don't know whether they ever will know it. Watergate has come to cover all that is wrong in America. I don't know that anyone will ever know the total picture. But I do believe it will have a cleansing effect on the United States."

LONDON (UPI) —Evangelist Billy Graham said today President Nixon should hold more news conferences. He said he doubts Nixon or anyone knows or ever will know the whole truth about the Watergate affair.

"But I believe it will have a great cleansing effect on the United States," he said.

Graham made the comments at a news conference called to announce "Spree 73" —a Bible training event he will lead here next week.

Graham at first said he would not answer questions about Watergate or other political matters. But when one British reporter asked, "Do you think Nixon has come unstuck?" Graham retorted, "No, I don't think he has come unstuck. One certainly did not get that impression from yesterday's press conference."

Graham said he saw part of it on British television after his arrival in London Wednesday evening.

"He should hold more press conferences," Graham said. "He is at his best in that kind of give and take. He comes alive then. He has been a debater all his life and he shows at his best on such occasions."

Graham added, "I don't know whether anyone knows the total truth about Watergate, including the President or (Sen.) Sam Ervin or anyone, and I don't know whether they ever will know it. Watergate has come to cover all that is wrong in America. I don't know that anyone will ever know the total picture. But I do believe it will have a cleansing effect on the United States."

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Guards To Work Against Moretti

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California prison guards have threatened to campaign vigorously against Speaker Bob Moretti's bid for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination if an Assembly committee kills capital punishment bills.

Ken Brown, spokesman for the California Correctional Officers Association, charged yesterday that Moretti was "unfit" to be governor because he had "stacked the deck against passage of death penalty legislation."

The Criminal Justice Committee, handpicked by Moretti and controlled by death penalty foes, was scheduled to cast a long-awaited showdown vote on capital punishment bills this afternoon. There appeared to be only a slim chance that any bill might be approved.

If the committee rejects the measures, Assembly Republican Leader Robert G. Beverly said he will attempt Monday to have the full Assembly withdraw the legislation from the panel's grip.

Pledging the association "will spare no effort to derail Moretti's effort to become governor," Brown said any legislator "unwilling to accept the view of the vast majority of Californians on an issue of this importance is simply unfit" for the state's highest office.

The association last year sponsored Prop. 17, the initiative granting the legislature power to reimpose the death penalty which passed last year by a 2 to 1 margin. Brown said the association will stage another initiative campaign this year if the Legislature fails to finish the job.

Two major rival bills were before the seven-man committee.

One bill, authored by Sen. George Deukmejian and backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, would reinstate the death penalty for serious crimes on a permanent basis.

The other measure, carried by Assemblyman Daniel E. Boatwright, D-Concord, would impose the supreme penalty for most of the same crimes covered by Deukmejian's bill— but for only three years to determine if capital punishment deters crime.

Boat Burglarized

Robert K. Campbell, 195 Eucalyptus Street, Cotati, told Petaluma Police yesterday that a stereo tape player and two speakers valued at $165 were stolen from his fishing boat while moored on the Petaluma River at B Street.

SHIPPER AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing a $1.2 million tax break for the shipping industry has failed in the Senate after opponents said its cost would come out of the "hides" of California taxpayers.

The measure (SB884) by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, was rejected yesterday on an 18-14 vote, far short of the 27 needed. Dills was granted permission to have the vote reconsidered.

The proposal would exempt cargo containers used in shipping from local property taxes until 1977. During that period a study of the economic effects of the measure would be conducted.

PENAL SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's $10 million proposal to revamp the state's adult and youth penal system has been overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate.

The bill (SB391) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, was turned down on a 16-17 vote yesterday, with 27 needed for passage. The measure was kept alive, however, when Biddle asked to have the vote reconsidered.

The plan would merge the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority into a single agency and combined the three state parole boards into one with responsibility for men, women and juveniles. The $10 million would go to help local governments build new facilities.

TAINTED LETTUCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to avert another incident in which thousands of cases of pesticide-contaminated lettuce reached markets has advanced in the Assembly.

The bill (AB2546) by Assemblyman Raymond T. Seeley, R-Blythe, cleared the Natural Resources Committee yesterday on a 6-0 vote and was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure authorizes the director of the state Food and Agriculture Department or county agricultural commissioners to ban the harvest of any produce contaminated by pesticides.

SEX TEXT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A conservative Republican assemblyman has charged that a recently adopted sex education textbook for California junior high school students would promote "sexual stimulation rather than morality."

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield of South Gate also said yesterday the book, titled Human Sexuality, "practically condones 'unusual behavior' as being 'normal'" and said a copy of it was found in the home of suspected Texas sex slayer Dean A. Corll.

In what he said was an open letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan and Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, Wakefield concluded:

"Said the boy after he had raped his teacher: 'Didn't she spend the whole year telling us how to do it, when to do it, and how much fun it would be?'"

"This book," Wakefield said, "in my opinion, would be harmful to our youth and would promote sexual stimulation, rather than morality as outlined in our education code."

COLLEGE NAMES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has voted final legislative approval to a bill shortening the names of six campuses of the state college and university system.

The measure (AB229) by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, was approved on a 21-2 vote yesterday and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Affected by the measure are the campuses at San Jose, San Francisco and San Diego, which are currently called "California State University at ..." Also affected are the California State College at Humboldt and California State Polytechnic universities at San Luis Obispo and Pomona.

The bill would change the names of four campuses by placing the city first, such as San Francisco State University, and Humboldt State University. The Cal Poly campuses would be renamed California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo.

HOSPITAL BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation prohibiting the Reagan administration from closing state hospitals for the mentally ill or retarded without the lawmakers' approval has advanced in the Senate.

The three measures, one by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and two by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, cleared the Health and Welfare Committee yesterday and were sent to the Finance Committee.

Wallace Is Visited By Friend, 103

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Otis Sledge figures he's a pretty spry 103-year-old. That's why he got on a bus this week in Bakersfield, Calif., and rode all the way to Montgomery just to shake Gov. George Wallace's hand.

"Why, Mr. Sledge," said Wallace yesterday, craning forward to grasp the withered brown hand. "I haven't seen you since I was campaigning in California in 1968."

Wallace and Sledge go back a long time.

"I remember when he was just a little baby," said the old man, running his hand through wisps of curly white hair. "I used to work for his grandpa down in Barbour County.

"Why, I can remember toting him around in the yard when he was just a little boy."

Finding the Capitol was a bit of a problem for Sledge. "I ain't been to Montgomery in 75 years," he said as he walked with slow even steps up the Capitol walk. "All this wasn't here then," he said, pointing to the state office buildings with his cane.

When aides guided him into the governor's office, Sledge told Wallace, "Governor, nothing gives me any higher joy than seeing you."

"I was 98 then and I hadn't ever voted in my life," he recalled. "I walked eight miles so I could register and vote for Gov. Wallace."

Sledge said he worried a lot about Wallace after the attempted assassination of the governor. He said that's one of the reasons he made the trip from California.

"I tell you it was might sad with me when I heard of his disaster" he said.

But Sledge didn't worry when he heard about Watergate.

"When I first heard about that Nixon mess I wondered if Gov. Wallace might be mixed up in it, but I thought about it and I knowed we ain't never had a better, clean cut set of people than the Wallaces."

In fact, Sledge is eager for Wallace to run for President again.

"I just want you to know, governor," he said to Wallace, "if you come out again I'll support you next time just as much as I did the last time."

Otis will be 106 when the 1976 campaign rolls around.

An Ex-Astronaut Burned In Crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former astronaut Fred Haise Jr., who survived an explosion in space aboard the ill-fated Apollo 13, crashed a single engine World War II trainer in an open field Wednesday. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

Galveston County deputy sheriff Eddie Burke said the plane, painted so it resembled a Japanese Zero, narrowly missed a trailer park and crashed into the field.

Haise said the plane's engine "quit" on him.

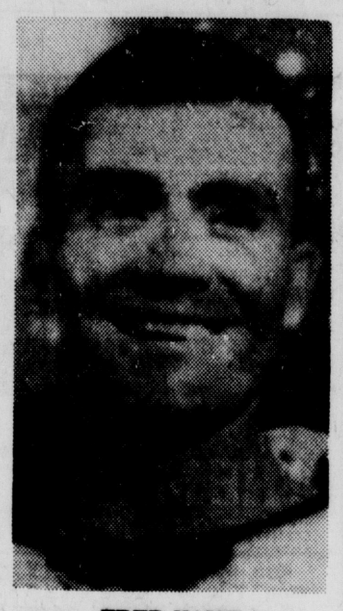
"The attending physician reported Haise suffered second degree burns over 50 per cent of his body and third degree burns on his legs," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today. "He said prognosis was good, that Haise's vital signs were stable and that it did not appear that skin grafts would be necessary."

The spokesman said the plane was a T6 belonging to the Confederate Air Force—a group that collect and fly old military aircraft. Haise was ferrying the aircraft 40 miles from an airport in Angleton, 43 miles south of Houston, to Galveston.



FRED HAISE
Crashes old plane

Lyn Bercot, the public information director of the Confederate Air Force, said the plane was being taken to Galveston for use in an air show. Bercot said it was one of many T6s converted into replicas of Japanese Zeros. The planes were used in the motion picture "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

Haise joined the astronaut corps in April, 1966. He served as a backup pilot for three Apollo flights and was the lunar module pilot on the flight of Apollo 13 in April, 1970. An explosion in an oxygen tank forced the spaceship to return to Earth without landing on the moon.

Richardson Bay Shoreline Dirt Said Approved

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Large amounts of dirt dumped along Richardson Bay's shoreline opposite Marin City are part of an approved project, the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission said today.

The explanation came after several citizens complained about the dirt.

The material, dumped in recent weeks, will be used under a BCDC permit to upgrade the Kappas Yacht Harbor, the staff reported. Most of it will be used to raise the level of existing fill, but some will go into the bay for a bicycle and pedestrian path through the harbor, the staff said.

Begger's Fine More Than Take

LONDON (UPI) —A London beggar Wednesday may have proved that the milk of human kindness has gone sour.

Fined $5 for begging in Piccadilly Circus, the man told the court, "I was going round people from different countries to find out who were the most generous in the world."

His take for the entire day was 29 cents.

New Owner Sees Railroad Profit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new operator of the harbor Belt Railroad, which lost $1.2 million over the last five years, believes he can put the short-haul railway back on its feet.

The Port Commission voted unanimously yesterday to let Willis B. Kyle, board chairman of the American Short Line Association, take over their headache.

Kyle, of Fresno, said he would set out "on a vigorous program to attract new domestic cargo."

Under the new contract, the port will provide pensions for present employes or retain them in other jobs.

Author Raps Red Ruling On Residence

MOSCOW (UPI) —Novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in a letter made public today, denounced the refusal of Soviet authorities to let him live in Moscow with his family and said, "I am not a serf, not a slave."

The Nobel Prize-winning author described the Soviet system as lacking in "human or legal considerations" and said residence restrictions such as Soviet authorities impose "hardly exist even in colonial countries in the modern world."

Solzhenitsyn, long in official disfavor because of his writings, made the statements in a letter to Interior Minister Nikolai A. Shchelokov, dated Thursday and made available today to Western newsmen.

"I, like any other citizen of this country, am not a serf, not a slave, and I am free to live where I think it necessary," Solzhenitsyn said in the letter. "No one, not even the highest authorities, has any proprietary rights to sever me from my family."

Solzhenitsyn has been trying to get permission to live in Moscow since last spring, when he won a 16-month legal battle to divorce his first wife and then married Natalya Svetlova, with whom he had lived for three years.

His new wife, who is the mother of his two young sons, has an apartment in central Moscow. Normally persons who marry residents of Moscow are automatically given permission to live in the capital.

But Solzhenitsyn said his residence application was turned down about a week ago.

More News Sessions By President Urged

LONDON (UPI) —Evangelist Billy Graham said today President Nixon should hold more news conferences. He said he doubts Nixon or anyone knows or ever will know the whole truth about the Watergate affair.

"But I believe it will have a great cleansing effect on the United States," he said.

Graham made the comments at a news conference called to announce "Spree 73" —a Bible training event he will lead here next week.

Graham at first said he would not answer questions about Watergate or other political matters. But when one British reporter asked, "Do you think Nixon has come unstuck?" Graham retorted, "No, I don't think he has come unstuck. One certainly did not get that impression from yesterday's press conference."

Graham said he saw part of it on British television after his arrival in London Wednesday evening.

"He should hold more press conferences," Graham said. "He is at his best in that kind of give and take. He comes alive then. He has been a debater all his life and he shows at his best on such occasions."

Graham added, "I don't know whether anyone knows the total truth about Watergate, including the President or (Sen.) Sam Ervin or anyone, and I don't know whether they ever will know it. Watergate has come to cover all that is wrong in America. I don't know that anyone will ever know the total picture. But I do believe it will have a cleansing effect on the United States."

An Ex-Astronaut Burned In Crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former astronaut Fred Haise Jr., who survived an explosion in space aboard the ill-fated Apollo 13, crashed a single engine World War II trainer in an open field Wednesday. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

Galveston County deputy sheriff Eddie Burke said the plane, painted so it resembled a Japanese Zero, narrowly missed a trailer park and crashed into the field.

Haise said the plane's engine "quit" on him.

"The attending physician reported Haise suffered second degree burns over 50 per cent of his body and third degree burns on his legs," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today. "He said prognosis was good, that Haise's vital signs were stable and that it did not appear that skin grafts would be necessary."

The spokesman said the plane was a T6 belonging to the Confederate Air Force—a group that collect and fly old military aircraft. Haise was ferrying the aircraft 40 miles from an airport in Angleton, 43 miles south of Houston, to Galveston.

FRED HAISE
Crashes old plane

Lyn Bercot, the public information director of the Confederate Air Force, said the plane was being taken to Galveston for use in an air show. Bercot said it was one of many T6s converted into replicas of Japanese Zeros. The planes were used in the motion picture "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

Haise joined the astronaut corps in April, 1966. He served as a backup pilot for three Apollo flights and was the lunar module pilot on the flight of Apollo 13 in April, 1970. An explosion in an oxygen tank forced the spaceship to return to Earth without landing on the moon.

Richardson Bay Shoreline Dirt Said Approved

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Large amounts of dirt dumped along Richardson Bay's shoreline opposite Marin City are part of an approved project, the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission said today.

The explanation came after several citizens complained about the dirt.

The material, dumped in recent weeks, will be used under a BCDC permit to upgrade the Kappas Yacht Harbor, the staff reported. Most of it will be used to raise the level of existing fill, but some will go into the bay for a bicycle and pedestrian path through the harbor, the staff said.

Begger's Fine More Than Take

LONDON (UPI) —A London beggar Wednesday may have proved that the milk of human kindness has gone sour.

Fined $5 for begging in Piccadilly Circus, the man told the court, "I was going round people from different countries to find out who were the most generous in the world."

His take for the entire day was 29 cents.

New Owner Sees Railroad Profit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The new operator of the harbor Belt Railroad, which lost $1.2 million over the last five years, believes he can put the short-haul railway back on its feet.

The Port Commission voted unanimously yesterday to let Willis B. Kyle, board chairman of the American Short Line Association, take over their headache.

Kyle, of Fresno, said he would set out "on a vigorous program to attract new domestic cargo."

Under the new contract, the port will provide pensions for present employes or retain them in other jobs.

Author Raps Red Ruling On Residence

MOSCOW (UPI) —Novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in a letter made public today, denounced the refusal of Soviet authorities to let him live in Moscow with his family and said, "I am not a serf, not a slave."

The Nobel Prize-winning author described the Soviet system as lacking in "human or legal considerations" and said residence restrictions such as Soviet authorities impose "hardly exist even in colonial countries in the modern world."

Solzhenitsyn, long in official disfavor because of his writings, made the statements in a letter to Interior Minister Nikolai A. Shchelokov, dated Thursday and made available today to Western newsmen.

"I, like any other citizen of this country, am not a serf, not a slave, and I am free to live where I think it necessary," Solzhenitsyn said in the letter. "No one, not even the highest authorities, has any proprietary rights to sever me from my family."

Youths Riot On Anniversary Of Guerrilla Killings In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Police fired bullets and tear gas yesterday to break up rampaging youths marking the first anniversary of the killing of 16 imprisoned leftist guerrillas. Hospitals reported "several persons" treated for bullet wounds.

Police sources said the demonstrators set fire to a patrol car and that four policemen were wounded in the clash. They reported no deaths, but hospital spokesmen said "several persons with bullet wounds were treated." Newsmen estimated 100 persons were arrested.

Thousands of young persons defying a Peronist government ban on street rallies converged on the plaza in front of the congress building last night carrying guerrilla flags, chanting, singing and listening to speeches.

Riot police converged on the group, firing bullets into the air, and the crowd scattered. Some youths were released after questioning, others were detained.

Earlier in the day, small incendiary bombs exploded harmlessly in the streets and leaflets carrying guerrilla slogans commemorating the "Trelew massacre" were scattered near the congress building.

The military government said at the time of the Aug. 22, 1972, incident that the 16 guerrillas were gunned down while trying to escape from the Trelew naval base where they were being held temporarily on suspicion of terrorist activity.

But three survivors said the prisoners were lined up in front of their cells in the middle of the night and shot.

Earlier yesterday, a Peronist youth rally at the Atlanta Soccer Stadium drew an orderly crowd of 40,000 to pay homage "to all those killed in the 18 years of fighting" since former President Juan D. Peron was overthrown and to support his candidacy for next month's presidential elections.

Chavez Sets Mass Table Grape Move

About 100 members of the United Farm Workers Union were in the first contingent to leave California's agricultural heartland to work with UFW sympathizers in the major cities.

A spokesman for Chavez said the boycotters will picket stores, speak to schools and civic groups, and do whatever they can to help the union cause.

Chavez himself was in Florida drumming up support for the boycott, which he hoped would duplicate the successful grape boycott of the late 1960s which led major growers to sign with his union in 1970.

The rival Teamsters Union has taken away most of those pacts this year, but Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons this week repudiated contracts his union signed with 30 grape growers around Delano. Chavez walked out of peace talks between the unions Aug. 9 after the contracts were signed.

The call for another national grape boycott came at the end of a three-day fast by UFW members in the memory of two of their pickets, Juan de la Cruz, who was shot to death by snipers, and Nafi Daiffullah, who died after a scuffle with a sheriff's deputy outside a bar.

In a letter to the A and P supermarket company, the UFW asked the firm to "recognize its partial responsibility" for the two deaths and to refrain from purchasing non-UFW harvested crops.

The letter was sent to A and P division manager J.E. Flannery in Pittsburgh, Pa., by the local union.

"We feel that A and P must recognize its partial responsibility for the deaths of Nagi and Juan," the letter said. "Your continued purchase of grapes harvested by strike-breakers have prolonged the strike and encouraged the violent and unjust acts by the growers and their allies."

Man's Checks Are Stolen Then Forged

Someone took two blank checks from his check book, forged his name to one of them and cashed it at a Novato sporting good store, Thomas Alvin Mulder of 304 D Street, San Rafael, reported to police.

He said the blank checks were taken from the middle of his checkbook while it was in his car. One of them was made out for $30 to Stan's for Sports in Novato, he told police.

Ringling Bros. Circus Will Open Bay Area Run Tonight

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The 103rd edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus opens tonight at the Oakland Coliseum for performances through Tuesday.

The circus will then move to the San Francisco Cow Palace for shows beginning Wednesday through Sept. 3.

Among the headliners this year are lion trainer Wolfgang Holzmair and Pio Nock, high-wire clown.

ART

Currently at the Oakland Museum is an exhibition documenting and contrasting the five major international expositions of the 1930s.

Prepared by the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, the exhibit, which continues through Sept. 9, consists of 53 photographic panels and five architectural models of the expositions — Chicago Century of Progress (1933), San Diego California-Pacific (1935), Dallas Texas Centennial (1936); San Francisco Golden Gate (1939) and the New York World's Fair (1939).

Youths Riot On Anniversary Of Guerrilla Killings In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Police fired bullets and tear gas yesterday to break up rampaging youths marking the first anniversary of the killing of 16 imprisoned leftist guerrillas. Hospitals reported "several persons" treated for bullet wounds.

Police sources said the demonstrators set fire to a patrol car and that four policemen were wounded in the clash. They reported no deaths, but hospital spokesmen said "several persons with bullet wounds were treated." Newsmen estimated 100 persons were arrested.

Thousands of young persons defying a Peronist government ban on street rallies converged on the plaza in front of the congress building last night carrying guerrilla flags, chanting, singing and listening to speeches.

Riot police converged on the group, firing bullets into the air, and the crowd scattered. Some youths were released after questioning, others were detained.

Earlier in the day, small incendiary bombs exploded harmlessly in the streets and leaflets carrying guerrilla slogans commemorating the "Trelew massacre" were scattered near the congress building.

The military government said at the time of the Aug. 22, 1972, incident that the 16 guerrillas were gunned down while trying to escape from the Trelew naval base where they were being held temporarily on suspicion of terrorist activity.

But three survivors said the prisoners were lined up in front of their cells in the middle of the night and shot.

Earlier yesterday, a Peronist youth rally at the Atlanta Soccer Stadium drew an orderly crowd of 40,000 to pay homage "to all those killed in the 18 years of fighting" since former President Juan D. Peron was overthrown and to support his candidacy for next month's presidential elections.

Chavez Sets Mass Table Grape Move

About 100 members of the United Farm Workers Union were in the first contingent to leave California's agricultural heartland to work with UFW sympathizers in the major cities.

A spokesman for Chavez said the boycotters will picket stores, speak to schools and civic groups, and do whatever they can to help the union cause.

Chavez himself was in Florida drumming up support for the boycott, which he hoped would duplicate the successful grape boycott of the late 1960s which led major growers to sign with his union in 1970.

The rival Teamsters Union has taken away most of those pacts this year, but Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons this week repudiated contracts his union signed with 30 grape growers around Delano. Chavez walked out of peace talks between the unions Aug. 9 after the contracts were signed.

The call for another national grape boycott came at the end of a three-day fast by UFW members in the memory of two of their pickets, Juan de la Cruz, who was shot to death by snipers, and Nafi Daiffullah, who died after a scuffle with a sheriff's deputy outside a bar.

In a letter to the A and P supermarket company, the UFW asked the firm to "recognize its partial responsibility" for the two deaths and to refrain from purchasing non-UFW harvested crops.

The letter was sent to A and P division manager J.E. Flannery in Pittsburgh, Pa., by the local union.

"We feel that A and P must recognize its partial responsibility for the deaths of Nagi and Juan," the letter said. "Your continued purchase of grapes harvested by strike-breakers have prolonged the strike and encouraged the violent and unjust acts by the growers and their allies."

Man's Checks Are Stolen Then Forged

Someone took two blank checks from his check book, forged his name to one of them and cashed it at a Novato sporting good store, Thomas Alvin Mulder of 304 D Street, San Rafael, reported to police.

He said the blank checks were taken from the middle of his checkbook while it was in his car. One of them was made out for $30 to Stan's for Sports in Novato, he told police.

Working Robots Are Said Coming

STANFORD (UPI) —A computer expert foresees the day five or 10 years when robots will handle such complex tasks as farming, undersea mining and spray painting.

"Farming could be done intensively by a robot in a way that humans can't," said Dr. Patrick Winston of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Tuesday night.

Speaking to the Third International Joint Conference on artificial intelligence, Winston said robots could "relentlessly pursue crop destroying rodents, insects and do grafting, pruning and harvesting."

Passenger Has To Land Plane

KENAI, Alaska (UPI) — A passenger with limited flying experience took over the controls of a Cessan 180 float plane when the pilot died of an apparent heart attack Tuesday near Kenai.

The plane was piloted by William W. Renfrew, Sr., 64, of Anchorage, and was en route from Anchorage to Iliamna.

Taylor contacted the flight service operator in Kenai and said the pilot had suffered an apparent heart attack.

KING OF HEARTS

West opened the king of hearts, and East signaled by playing the queen. Since East wasn't trying to win the trick, his queen was obviously meant as a signal.

If East held the queen-five of hearts, he would play the five; but with the jack-five of hearts, East would play the jack. Why the difference? The jack is not likely to take a trick and can therefore be spared for a signal. The queen may well take a trick and cannot be spared.

For this reason, the play of the queen logically indicates either a singleton or a holding that includes the jack as well as the queen. In either case, the opening leader is expected to continue with a low card.

BEST DEFENSE

In this case the signal produced the best defense. West led a low heart at the second trick, and East won with the jack.

East now shifted to the deuce of diamonds, and West was able to take two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

UNABLE TO SIGNAL

Now see what would have happened if the defenders had been unable to signal properly. West would have continued with the ace of hearts at the second trick. There would be no further chance to give the lead to East. West could take the ace of diamonds, if he chose to do so, but he could not defeat the contract. If West failed to take his diamond trick, South would win the rest of the tricks.

Man Charged In June Murders

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —An unemployed carpet cleaner was charged Tuesday with the June murders of a Pennsylvania couple.

Ramon Martinez Del Rio was ordered held without bail. He had been arrested Aug. 12 for smuggling heroin across the international border.

The bodies of Ronald G. Watkins, 28, of Pittsburgh, and Helen A. Ross, 21, of Harrisburg, Pa., were found in a remote area of the Seaworld parking lot. An investigation disclosed they had flown to San Diego June 26.

Police declined to reveal details but said Del Rio's arrest came after a lengthy investigation.

Yesterday's Answer

Plot To Murder Nixon Said Real

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Secret Service and FBI are working hard to discover the roots of "a very real" plot to kill President Nixon during his visit to New Orleans Monday.

Sources told UPI that the agencies are working intensively on what they consider "a very real thing," but the Secret Service said yesterday that former New Orleans policeman Edwin Michael Gaudet Jr., arrested in northern New Mexico for allegedly threatening Nixon's life, probably was not part of the conspiracy.

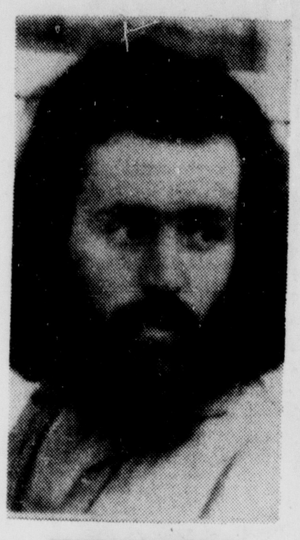
Gaudet, 30, surrendered to a posse of secret servicemen near Taos, N.M., yesterday two days after he eluded heavily armed federal agents who sought to arrest him on a warrant near the "Morning Star" commune.

The Washington sources said Gaudet, who allegedly threatened last week to kill Nixon, was probably "a lone actor" but they added, "You can never rule out completely that he was part of it (the conspiracy)."

Local police declined comment yesterday on a report by a New Orleans television station that three persons are being sought in connection with the conspiracy. The station said the Justice Department had authorized the arrest of three persons.

The Secret Service said it is "aggressively pursuing its investigation into the possiblity of a conspiracy to assassinate the President. There is no speculation on what's going to happen or what is going to occur."

Gaudet was coaxed into surrendering by his wife, Judy. During his arrest he blurted out: "The government is organized crime; the Pope is head of the Mafia, and I support Angela Davis for President of the United States."



EDWIN GAUDET JR.
Arrested for threat

He was arraigned in Albuquerque, N.M., yesterday and held on $100,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Robert McCoy, pending a removal hearing Aug. 30.

Gaudet was arrested three years ago for throwing a burning American flag at Nixon's car during a presidential visit to New Orleans.

Rules Tightened For Ambulances

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The county Board of Supervisors ruled yesterday that ambulances must strictly limit use of sirens and lights because of "the high rate of accidents involving screaming and screeching emergency vehicles."

Ambulance drivers will have to obey traffic laws except in "absolute emergencies," the board ruled.

Charge On Drugs May Be Dropped

Criminal proceedings may be dropped against one of two women arrested in an Aug. 2 drug raid in Sausalito if she qualifies for a rehabilitation program.

Marin Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith has ordered a Sept. 14 hearing on diverting the case of Michele Elizabeth Parker, 28, of no known address, from criminal proceedings.

Her co-defendant, Carolyn Rae Marsh, 33, of Sausalito, previously had been ordered to attend a diversion hearing on the same day. The Marin District Attorney's Office said both women appear to be eligible for diversion to treatment and rehabilitation.

The women were arrested when Sausalito police, armed with a search warrant, raided Miss Marsh's house and seized a suspected marijuana plant, and heroin and drug paraphernalia.

Indictment Set On Bank False Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A federal grand jury handed down an indictment yesterday charging a former Bank of America vice president of false entries and "misapplication" of $520,537 in bank funds.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Paul Fitzpatrick said it appeared Virgil McGowen, 52, had juggled bank books to help friends with failing businesses.

McGowen said he would plead guilty.

He disappeared in April after bank auditors discovered phony paper transactions at the branch he managed. He was arrested June 14 in Sunnyvale.

Fitzpatrick said the bank was attempting to recover the money. McGowen has been working with bank and FBI officials, telling them where and how he made the phony entries.

No date has been set for McGowen to enter a plea.

Salute To Ted Agnew Committee Indicted

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) —A committee that sponsored a 1972 fund-raising Salute to Ted Agnew dinner was indicted yesterday on four counts of violating election laws, and seven prominent Maryland Republicans, all friends or supporters of the vice president, were identified as committee members.

The committee was charged with filing false financial reports in connection with the $100-to-$500-a-plate dinner, with Bob Hope and Frank Sinatra, staged at Baltimore's Lyric Theater.

The Agnew committee, an unincorporated association under Maryland law, could be fined $1,000 on each of four counts in the indictment.

Duckett said there was "no evidence" that Agnew had been aware of the alleged violation of the Maryland campaign finance law.

The seven committee members identified by Duckett were:

Alexander M. Lankler, of Bethesda, Md., the state Republican chairman. Lankler has admitted he knew a list filed with election officials, naming 32 separate contributors giving a total of $49,900, was a fabrication, and that the money had actually come from the Committee to Re-elect the President.

J. Walter Jones of Annapolis, Md., chairman of the Chesapeake National Bank of Towson and Annapolis, Md. He was a vice chairman last year of the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

Mrs. Charles G. Bresler of Chevy Chase, Md., wife of a wealthy Washington and Maryland land developer.

Mrs. Harvey M. Meyerhoff of Baltimore, wife of a prominent land developer. She was chairman of the Salute to Ted Agnew Night Committee.

The Rev. Roy E. Pfautch of St. Louis, whose company, Civic Services Inc., was hired by the Agnew committee as a consultant.

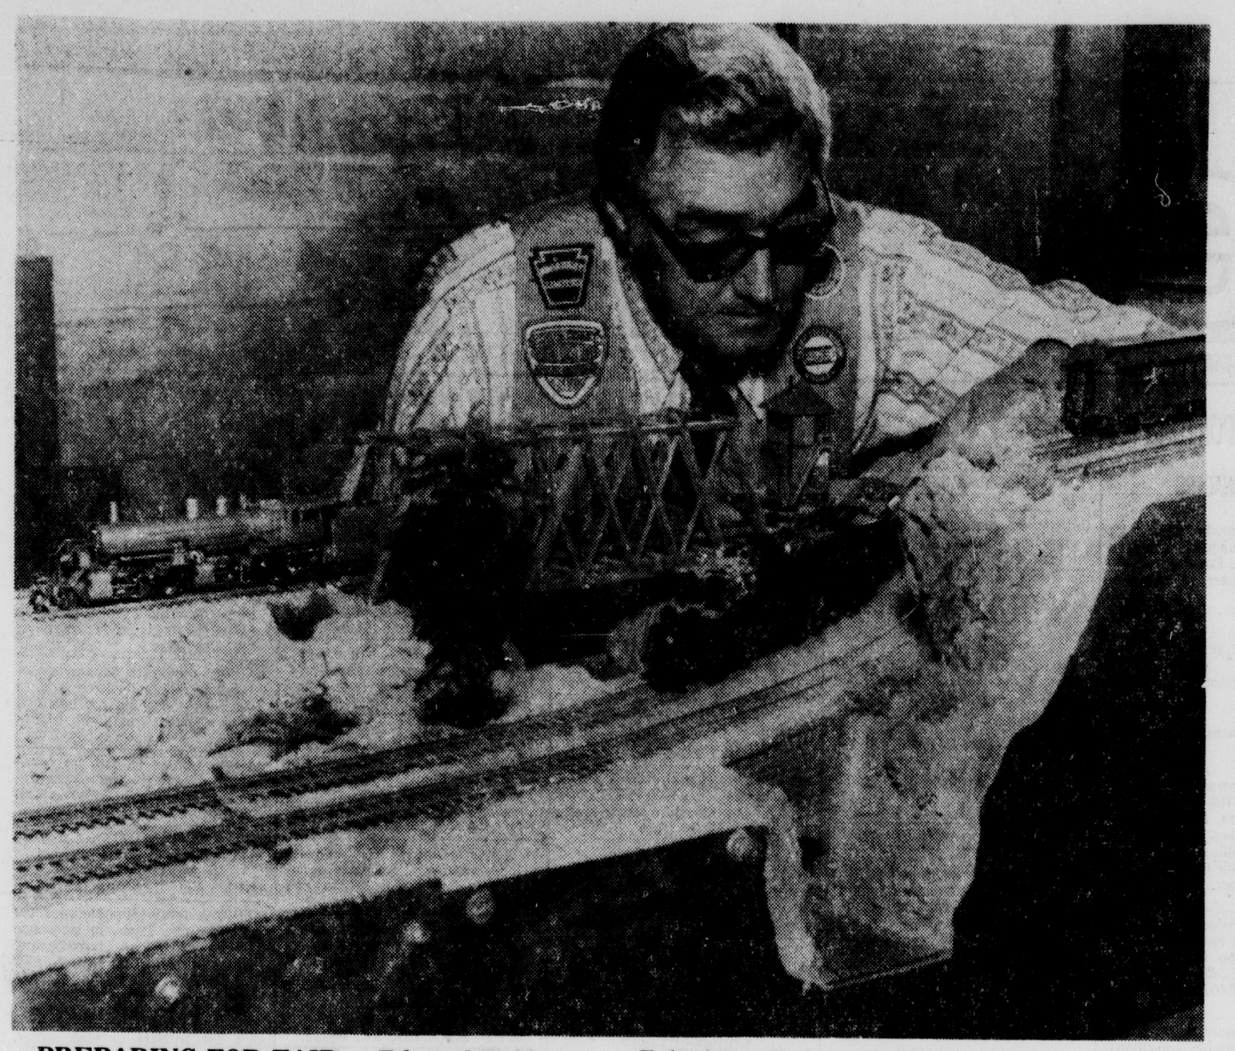
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1973 21



PREPARING FOR FAIR — Edward Webber of San Rafael, president of the North Coast Model Railroad Society, looms over the finely detailed scale model railroad layout that will be on display at the Marin County Fair Aug. 30 through Sept. 3. Webber, whose traditional engineer's overalls bear model clubs' insignia, said the society's display will recall the Marin scene as it was in the early 1900s, when trains were king.

Model Railroad Display Planned

A Lilliputian re-creation of Vintage 1900 Marin, when the electric railway was king and there was no Highway 101 clogged with horseless carriages, will be on display at the Marin County Fair, Aug. 30 through Sept. 3.

More than three dozen members of the North Coast Model Railroad Society are putting the finishing touches on a model layout 5 feet wide and 17 feet long. They have re-created the narrow-gauge electric and standard-gauge electric and steam lines that served Marin County commuters and linked the county to the Redwood Empire.

The model is "HO gauge" or one-eighth of an inch to one-foot scale. All the track, rolling stock, scenery, trees and even tiny people have been carefully detailed to the same scale, according to Edmund P. Webber of San Rafael, society president.

The layout prepared for the fair is "portable," but society members are looking for a plce where they can build an even larger, more detailed layout for permanent use. Society members range from 12 years old into their 70s, Webber said.

The group stresses youth participation; at least five father-son teams are working together on their hobby in the club, he added. The society's first organizers two years ago were teen-agers, Jode Anderson and Jim Marklinger, then both 16.

Various members of the society will run their personally built trains on the layout each day of the fair so fair-goers will see the gamut of rolling stock that was used throughout the U.S. in past decades.

The layout will include two home-built electronic "throttles" to control the tiny trains' speed. There also will be a sound system providing all the sounds of old-time steam locomotives and their whistles.

Watercolor Display

Watercolors depicting Australia and New Zealand scenes, by Tiburon Peninsula resident Jim Reynolds are on display through early September at the Belvedere-Tiburon branch of the Marin County Library, in Belvedere Post Office on Beach Road.

Four More Rabid Skunks Are Reported

Four rabid skunks — two in the Los Ranchitos area — have been reported in Marin since Aug. 6, the Marin County Public Health officer reported.

The skunks raise to 25 the number of rabid animals found since the beginning of the year, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht said.

Two of the skunks were killed by Earl Van Note near his home at 12 Farm Road, Los Ranchitos. Dr. Albrecht said he killed the first one Aug. 6 and the second on Monday.

The other two skunks were killed Aug. 11 and 12 in Terra Linda and Marinwood.

The Terra Linda skunk was dispatched after it was observed scratching at a door at 380 Hickory Lane and later was seen staggering, turning in circles, chewing on grass and chasing a cat which escaped by climbing a fence.

The Marinwood skunk's behavior was less bizarre but showed no fear of humans, Dr. Albrecht said. It was killed at 38 Lucas Park Drive.

A dog in a fenced enclosure in the yard at 38 Lucas Park Drive is believed to have had no contact with the sick animal but was revaccinated against rabies and is undergoing 30 days' confinement as a precaution.

Dr. Albrecht said there is no known animal or human contact with any of the sick skunks.

She warned Lucas Valley residents to make sure their dogs and cats are vaccinated against the dread disease and to caution children against handling stray pets or wildlife.

Arguments In Bedayan Case Open

Final arguments were to be heard this afternoon in the triple murder trial of Brent William Bedayan and the jury is to begin deliberations following instruction tomorrow morning by Superior Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales and Deputy Public Defender Frank J. Cox reviewed jury instructions yesterday afternoon and this morning with Judge Broderick.

Bedayan has admitted killing Melvin J. and Ruth E. Schallock and their 19-year-old son, Daniel, outside their Mill Valley home in March. His defense centered around testimony by medical experts during the 19 days of the trial that he was insane at the time of the shotgun killings.

Halt In Project Building Eyed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Kennedy took under submission Tuesday a Sierra Club request that construction be halted on a $52 million development at Half Moon Bay.

The conservation organization said the California Coastal Conservation Zone Commission was wrong in exempting a portion of the project from permit requirements.

The developers, Half Moon Bay Properties, Inc. have filed a countersuit contending the enitre development should be totally exempt from permit requirements.

Water For Forts Is Assured

A plan which would make it unnecessary for the Marin Municipal Water District to cut off water to three Marin forts and the Muir Woods National Monument has been proposed by the North Marin County Water District board.

At its Tuesday meeting, the board drafted an agreement to provide Marin Municipal with 320 acre-feet of water a year through an intertie near Hamilton Air Force Base, according to Gen. Mgr. John O. Nelson.

He said Marin Municipal could use the additional water to serve Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite, the monument and a small area near Hamilton. All are now served through surplus water agreements with the MMWD.

The district, which recently initiated a moratorium on new connections because of a threatened water shortage, has already warned holders of surplus contracts that their water will be cut off by July of 1974. The district has said it no longer has water available to serve customers outside district boundaries.

Nelson said the North Marin District proposes to put 770 acre-feet of water into the Marin Municipal system in the winter. In turn, Marin Municipal would return 450 acre-feet to North Marin in summer.

This would permit North Marin to store water in the Marin Municipal system and avoid having to begin backfeeding Russian River water into Stafford Lake during the winter months when its system is full, he said. The backfeeding would be a costly operation, according to Nelson.

The agreement will now be forwarded to the Marin Municipal district board.

Supervisor Is Seeking Welfare

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Santa Cruz County Commissioner J. Patrick Liteky applied for welfare yesterday, saying he couldn't live on his $630 monthly take home pay.

"I want to find out if the amount I take home a month does qualify me for welfare," said Liteky, 33, who let his hair grow and wore mountain garb in his successful election campaign last year. "I find it difficult in Phase IV of the economy to live on that."

Liteky, known as the "hippie supervisor" until he got a haircut and returned to business suits, admitted his application had another motive — "getting an inside look at the county welfare system."

Man Admits Terrorizing Family, Draws Jail Term

A sailor at Mare Island Naval Shipyard yesterday admitted a campaign of terror against the family of Tiburon City Councilman Branwell D. Fanning, including a sophisticated plan to bomb their house.

Mark Randall Mecord, 19, pleaded guilty to charges of malicious mischief and making threatening telephone calls to the Fannings from April until June, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Additional charges of hit-and-run driving and a second malicious mischief count were dismissed by Judge Gary W. Thomas, who placed Mecord on probation for two years.

Mecord, who police said harassed Fanning, then the mayor of Tiburon, and his family because Fanning's 17-year-old daughter Barbara rejected him as a suitor, lives at 38 Juno Road, Tiburon.

Police said Mecord telephoned the Fannings several times and threatened to kill them, and on June 19 paid a night visit to the mayor's house, where he cut the electricity and severed the telephone line.

Mecord also rampaged around the house, stealing a mailbox, dumping potted plants and taking a basketball net and a dress from the clothesline.

He finally was arrested June 24 when Fanning spotted a man dressed completely in black, commando-style, prowling near his house and called police.

Officers said Mecord, who had been trained in explosives in the Navy, described a rocket bomb he planned to launch at the house.

Aid Drive Started For Family Involved In Fatal Auto Wreck

Petalumans have organized an assistance drive for the Canadian family involved in a fatal accident Tuesday on Highway 101.

Saren Bertelson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmar Bertelson of Burnaby, B.C., was killed in the accident. Another son, Thomas, 11, remains in the intensive care unit at Hillcrest Hospital with severe head injuries.

The drive, headed by the Petaluma Fire Department, has already provided the family with a temporary home. Firefighter Floyd Jones, who had planned a vacation this week, made his North Webster Street home available to the family.

Mayor Helen Putnam said police and firemen have also provided groceries and clothing for the parents and their two daughters, Heather and Helle.

Mrs. Putnam said aid has also been received from Jack Lewis, commander of the Royal Canadian Legion, Petaluma Post No. 57. She said bay area members of the organization will also seek aid for the family from the Canadian Consulate in San Francisco.

Persons wishing to donate food, clothing, funds or assist with transportation should contact the Petaluma Fire Department.

Possible Sniper Report Unfounded

Report of a possible sniper on the Marin Headlands near the Golden Gate Bridge sent California Highway Patrol officers, sheriff's deputies and military police clambering about the cliffs at 1 p.m. yesterday.

Officers found nothing, and finally concluded that a motorist who reported seeing a man with binoculars and rifle may have seen someone with a camera and long telephoto lens, according to the highway patrol.

Dangerous Drivers

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Drunken drivers are responsible for the death of one of every five victims of fatal traffic accidents, the Danish Statistical Office reports.

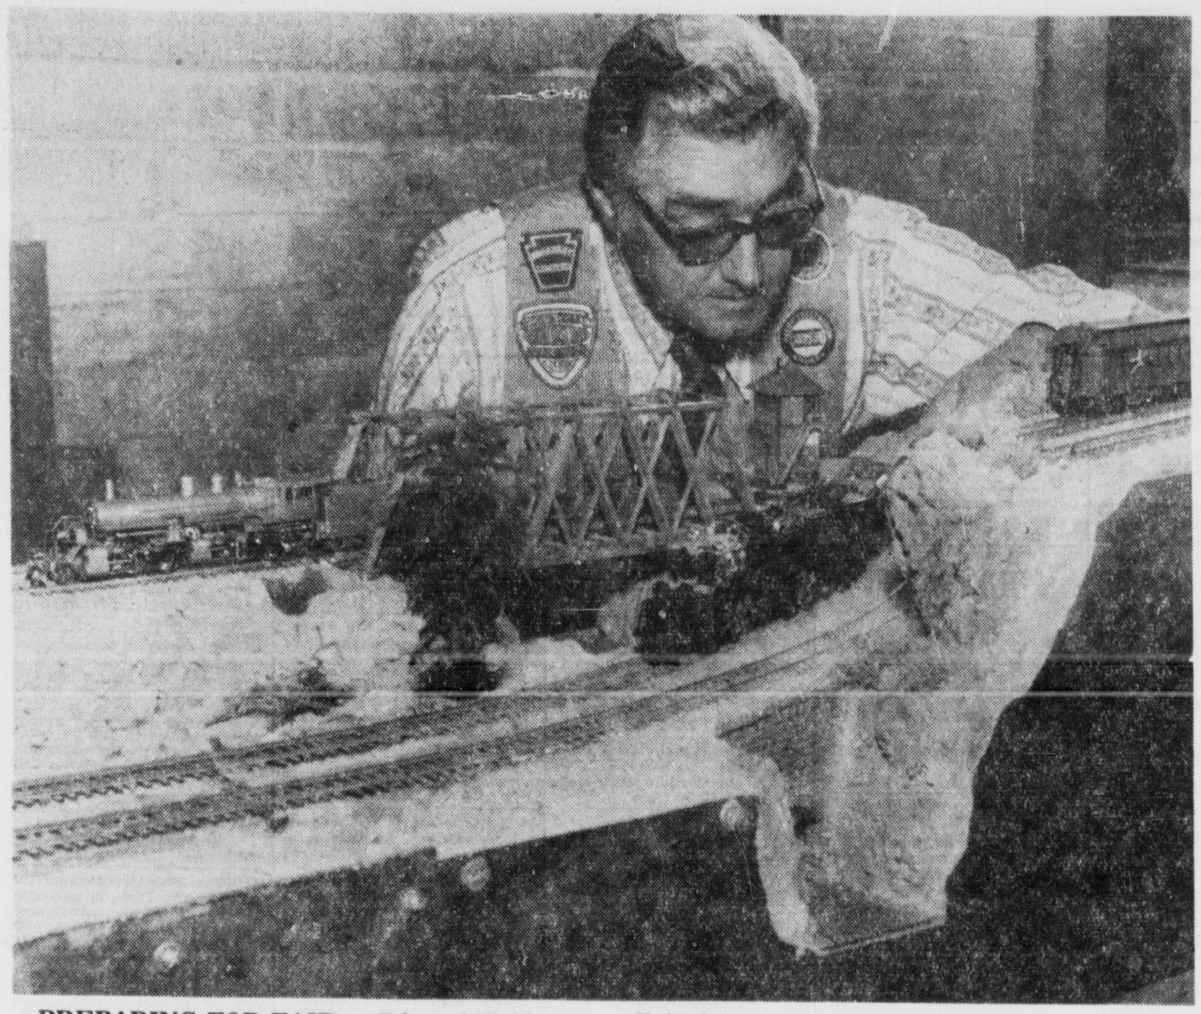
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1973 21



PREPARING FOR FAIR — Edward Webber of San Rafael, president of the North Coast Model Railroad Society, looms over the finely detailed scale model railroad layout that will be on display at the Marin County Fair Aug. 30 through Sept. 3. Webber, whose traditional engineer's overalls bear model clubs' insignia, said the society's display will recall the Marin scene as it was in the early 1900s, when trains were king.

Model Railroad Display Planned

A Lilliputian re-creation of Vintage 1900 Marin, when the electric railway was king and there was no Highway 101 clogged with horseless carriages, will be on display at the Marin County Fair, Aug. 30 through Sept. 3.

More than three dozen members of the North Coast Model Railroad Society are putting the finishing touches on a model layout 5 feet wide and 17 feet long. They have re-created the narrow-gauge electric and standard-gauge electric and steam lines that served Marin County commuters and linked the county to the Redwood Empire.

The model is "HO gauge" or one-eighth of an inch to one-foot scale. All the track, rolling stock, scenery, trees and even tiny people have been carefully detailed to the same scale, according to Edmund P. Webber of San Rafael, society president.

The layout prepared for the fair is "portable," but society members are looking for a plce where they can build an even larger, more detailed layout for permanent use. Society members range from 12 years old into their 70s, Webber said.

The group stresses youth participation; at least five fatherson teams are working together on their hobby in the club, he added. The society's first organizers two years ago were teen-agers, Jode Anderson and Jim Marklinger, then both 16.

Various members of the society will run their personally built trains on the layout each day of the fair so fair-goers will see the gamut of rolling stock that was used throughout the U.S. in past decades.

The layout will include two home-built electronic "throttles" to control the tiny trains' speed. There also will be a sound system providing all the sounds of old-time steam locomotives and their whistles.

Watercolor Display

Watercolors depicting Australia and New Zealand scenes, by Tiburon Peninsula resident Jim Reynolds are on display through early September at the Belvedere-Tiburon branch of the Marin County Library, in Belvedere Post Office on Beach Road.

Four More Rabid Skunks Are Reported

Four rabid skunks — two in the Los Ranchitos area — have been reported in Marin since Aug. 6, the Marin County Public Health officer reported.

The skunks raise to 25 the number of rabid animals found since the beginning of the year, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht said.

Two of the skunks were killed by Earl Van Note near his home at 12 Farm Road, Los Ranchitos. Dr. Albrecht said he killed the first one Aug. 6 and the second on Monday.

The other two skunks were killed Aug. 11 and 12 in Terra Linda and Marinwood.

The Terra Linda skunk was dispatched after it was observed scratching at a door at 380 Hickory Lane and later was seen staggering, turning in circles, chewing on grass and chasing a cat which escaped by climbing a fence.

The Marinwood skunk's behavior was less bizarre but showed no fear of humans, Dr. Albrecht said. It was killed at 38 Lucas Park Drive.

A dog in a fenced enclosure in the yard at 38 Lucas Park Drive is believed to have had no contact with the sick animal but was revaccinated against rabies and is undergoing 30 days' confinement as a precaution.

Dr. Albrecht said there is no known animal or human contact with any of the sick skunks.

She warned Lucas Valley residents to make sure their dogs and cats are vaccinated against the dread disease and to caution children against handling stray pets or wildlife.

Arguments In Bedayan Case Open

Final arguments were to be heard this afternoon in the triple murder trial of Brent William Bedayan and the jury is to begin deliberations following instruction tomorrow morning by Superior Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales and Deputy Public Defender Frank J. Cox reviewed jury instructions yesterday afternoon and this morning with Judge Broderick.

Bedayan has admitted killing Melvin J. and Ruth E. Schallock and their 19-year-old son, Daniel, outside their Mill Valley home in March. His defense centered around testimony by medical experts during the 19 days of the trial that he was insane at the time of the shotgun killings.

Halt In Project Building Eyed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Kennedy took under submission Tuesday a Sierra Club request that construction be halted on a $52 million development at Half Moon Bay.

The conservation organization said the California Coastal Conservation Zone Commission was wrong in exempting a portion of the project from permit requirements.

The developers, Half Moon Bay Properties, Inc. have filed a countersuit contending the enitre development should be totally exempt from permit requirements.

Water For Forts Is Assured

A plan which would make it unnecessary for the Marin Municipal Water District to cut off water to three Marin forts and the Muir Woods National Monument has been proposed by the North Marin County Water District board.

At its Tuesday meeting, the board drafted an agreement to provide Marin Municipal with 320 acre-feet of water a year through an intertie near Hamilton Air Force Base, according to Gen. Mgr. John O. Nelson.

He said Marin Municipal could use the additional water to serve Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite, the monument and a small area near Hamilton. All are now served through surplus water agreements with the MMWD.

The district, which recently initiated a moratorium on new connections because of a threatened water shortage, has already warned holders of surplus contracts that their water will be cut off by July of 1974. The district has said it no longer has water available to serve customers outside district boundaries.

Nelson said the North Marin District proposes to put 770 acre-feet of water into the Marin Municipal system in the winter. In turn, Marin Municipal would return 450 acre-feet to North Marin in summer.

This would permit North Marin to store water in the Marin Municipal system and avoid having to begin backfeeding Russian River water into Stafford Lake during the winter months when its system is full, he said. The backfeeding would be a costly operation, according to Nelson.

The agreement will now be forwarded to the Marin Municipal district board.

Supervisor Is Seeking Welfare

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Santa Cruz County Commissioner J. Patrick Liteky applied for welfare yesterday, saying he couldn't live on his $630 monthly take home pay.

"I want to find out if the amount I take home a month does qualify me for welfare," said Liteky, 33, who let his hair grow and wore mountain garb in his successful election campaign last year. "I find it difficult in Phase IV of the economy to live on that."

Liteky, known as the "hippie supervisor" until he got a haircut and returned to business suits, admitted his application had another motive — "getting an inside look at the county welfare system."

Man Admits Terrorizing Family, Draws Jail Term

A sailor at Mare Island Naval Shipyard yesterday admitted a campaign of terror against the family of Tiburon City Councilman Branwell D. Fanning, including a sophisticated plan to bomb their house.

Mark Randall Mecord, 19, pleaded guilty to charges of malicious mischief and making threatening telephone calls to the Fannings from April until June, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Additional charges of hit-and-run driving and a second malicious mischief count were dismissed by Judge Gary W. Thomas, who placed Mecord on probation for two years.

Mecord, who police said harassed Fanning, then the mayor of Tiburon, and his family because Fanning's 17-year-old daughter Barbara rejected him as a suitor, lives at 38 Juno Road, Tiburon.

Police said Mecord telephoned the Fannings several times and threatened to kill them, and on June 19 paid a night visit to the mayor's house, where he cut the electricity and severed the telephone line.

Mecord also rampaged around the house, stealing a mailbox, dumping potted plants and taking a basketball net and a dress from the clothesline.

He finally was arrested June 24 when Fanning spotted a man dressed completely in black, commando-style, prowling near his house and called police.

Officers said Mecord, who had been trained in explosives in the Navy, described a rocket bomb he planned to launch at the house.

LIVE IN TIBURON THE WAY YOU SHOULD LIVE IN TIBURON

Leave San Francisco after work on the ferry boat & land in the summer sun of Tiburon. Leisurely meander up the tree-lined streets to your new Harbor Hill Condominium. Walk through your own private entrance, change into your swimming suit & relax by the heated pool. Or just pull up a chair on your private deck & take in the full view of Tiburon Harbor, San Francisco Bay & the skyline of the city. No worries regarding maintenance or upkeep — it's the only way to live in Tiburon. In fact, it's the only way to live anywhere. 1 & 2 bedroom floor plans avail. Priced from $43,300.
For further information, please call 391-6086 in S.F. or 435-2803 in Marin. Sales office is located on site. Open everyday 12-6.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 179350

Superior Court of the State of California City and County of San Francisco.

Estate of ADOLPH A. TISCORNIA, also known as A. A. TISCORNIA, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on or after the 4th day of September 1973, the undersigned, ALICE B. COPELAND, as executrix of the will of Adolph A. Tiscornia, also known as A. A. Tiscornia, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest net bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled Court, all the right, title and interest the estate has acquired, by operation of law or otherwise, other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to that certain real property situated in the City of Fairfax, County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

Lots 250, 251 and 252, as shown on Unrecorded Map of Fairfax Park Tract. Also known as Assessor's Parcel #3-192-43.

SUBJECT TO: Current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, rights, rights of way and easements of record.

Bids or offers for the property are invited, must be in writing, and may be delivered to the executrix at the office of her attorney, Albert G. Evans, 111 Sutter Street, San Francisco, California 94104, or may be filed at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court at any time after the first publication of the instant notice and before the making of the sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: Cash in full within twenty (20) days after confirmation; ten per cent (10%) of the amount bid to accompany the offer, and the balance as above. Taxes and rents to be prorated as of date of recordation. All costs of title search, escrow, recordation and title insurance to be borne by purchaser. In the absence of a cash bid, terms will be considered.

The property is unimproved.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Only the highest net bid will be considered.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Fetus Can Develope Outside Uterus, But Condition Is Rare

Several years ago we wrote about a New Guinea woman who gave birth to a baby and, a week later, showed signs that a twin might have been left behind. Two days later, examination at the Goroka Native Hospital confirmed the suspicions. The twin was not in the uterus, but in the abdominal cavity, and an operation was required to deliver the second infant.

NINETY-FIVE per cent of ectopic pregnancies are located in the fallopian tube. It is most unusual to find a fully-developed fetus outside the uterus and in the abdomen. This occurs because the majority of ova die or must be removed within a few weeks. In Jamaica, where a statistical study was done on more than 9,000 deliveries in the Obstetrical Department at the University College Hospital, there were 10 abdominal pregnancies. This might not be unusual, except that all of these women had been pregnant for at least 20 weeks.

The fertilized ovum is not at home in the abdominal cavity. As a result, it usually creates enough trouble to warrant emergency surgery in less than 20 weeks. In this group, only two of the women had noted slight pain.

ONE MENTIONED uterine bleeding. The physicians were able to detect a viable fetus in five of the mothers. All five delivered live babies via surgery. Jamaica appears to be the mecca for extrauterine pregnancies.

But in most ectopic pregnancies, the fertilized ovum gets stuck in the tube before it can reach the uterus. It takes root, and the first few weeks are like an ordinary pregnancy. As the ovum begins to enlarge, the tube is stretched, and the woman develops lower abdominal pain.

An irregular bloody vaginal discharge or spotting ensues, suggesting an early miscarriage. Surgery is advised when this diagnosis is made.

However, if the condition is neglected, the ovum finally grows too large for the tube, and the tube ruptures. This very painful condition, often associated with shock, now becomes an emergency because of internal bleeding. Much of this is avoided if the woman reports to her physician as soon as she thinks she is pregnant.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

LIQUOR FOR THE ELDERLY

O. R. writes: I understand doctors are recommending liquor for old people. What kind is best — brandy or wine, and what is the dose?

REPLY

Spiritus frumenti, one of the original tranquilizers, may be a bit safer than some of the modern agents. Alcohol is the basic ingredient in wine, brandy, beer, bourbon, scotch, gin, and vodka. Drink what tastes best but limit the amount to the equivalent of an ordinary jigger. Too much liquor may have an adverse effect on an ailing heart.

HEARTBEAT DISTURBS HER

Mrs. J.L. writes: Before I became pregnant, I didn't notice my heartbeat at night. Now, it disturbs me. Does this mean I have something physically wrong?

REPLY

No. Sleep on your back or right side and you won't be disturbed by the sound. The enlarging uterus may be pushing up on the diaphragm and crowding the heart to the extent that the beat is transmitted downward.

THE TIRED OLDSTER

Mrs. M. writes: Two hours after I get up and do the household chores, I'm so sleepy I have to lie down. Do you think it is my heart or blood that does this? P.S. I'm 72 years old.

REPLY

Anemia, low metabolism, and hidden infections contribute toward fatigue. Get a checkup and if nothing is found, take advantage of the feeling of relaxation and enjoy a good nap. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on fatigue.

HUNGRY AFTER EATING

M. C. writes: What makes me feel empty in the stomach an hour after I eat?

REPLY

Half empty stomach. You need foods that will "stick to your ribs," as the old-timers said. This includes fat and protein — meat, potatoes, vegetables, and gravy. I assume your weight is normal.

ALMANAC

BY U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Aug. 23, the 235th day of 1973 with 130 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Battan in the Pacific Theater of World War II, was born Aug. 23, 1883.

On this day in history:

In 1924, Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson won the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. In November she became the first woman to be elected governor of a state.

In 1926, hundreds of thousands of women mourned the death of movie idol Rudolph Valentino.

In 1968, a United Nations' resolution condemned the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, but Russia vetoed it in the Security Council.

In 1971, the Western powers and Russia reached agreement on the future of West Berlin. Russia pledged "unhindered" passage of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany across East Germany territory.

A thought for the day: British poet Thomas DeQuincey said, "It is notorious that the memory strengthens as you lay burdens upon it, and becomes truthworthy as you trust it."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come, largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Fetus Can Develope Outside Uterus, But Condition Is Rare

Several years ago we wrote about a New Guinea woman who gave birth to a baby and, a week later, showed signs that a twin might have been left behind. Two days later, examination at the Goroka Native Hospital confirmed the suspicions. The twin was not in the uterus, but in the abdominal cavity, and an operation was required to deliver the second infant.

NINETY-FIVE per cent of ectopic pregnancies are located in the fallopian tube. It is most unusual to find a fully-developed fetus outside the uterus and in the abdomen. This occurs because the majority of ova die or must be removed within a few weeks. In Jamaica, where a statistical study was done on more than 9,000 deliveries in the Obstetrical Department at the University College Hospital, there were 10 abdominal pregnancies. This might not be unusual, except that all of these women had been pregnant for at least 20 weeks.

The fertilized ovum is not at home in the abdominal cavity. As a result, it usually creates enough trouble to warrant emergency surgery in less than 20 weeks. In this group, only two of the women had noted slight pain.

ONE MENTIONED uterine bleeding. The physicians were able to detect a viable fetus in five of the mothers. All five delivered live babies via surgery. Jamaica appears to be the mecca for extrauterine pregnancies.

But in most ectopic pregnancies, the fertilized ovum gets stuck in the tube before it can reach the uterus. It takes root, and the first few weeks are like an ordinary pregnancy. As the ovum begins to enlarge, the tube is stretched, and the woman develops lower abdominal pain.

An irregular bloody vaginal discharge or spotting ensues, suggesting an early miscarriage. Surgery is advised when this diagnosis is made.

However, if the condition is neglected, the ovum finally grows too large for the tube, and the tube ruptures. This very painful condition, often associated with shock, now becomes an emergency because of internal bleeding. Much of this is avoided if the woman reports to her physician as soon as she thinks she is pregnant.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

LIQUOR FOR THE ELDERLY

O. R. writes: I understand doctors are recommending liquor for old people. What kind is best — brandy or wine, and what is the dose?

REPLY

Spiritus frumenti, one of the original tranquilizers, may be a bit safer than some of the modern agents. Alcohol is the basic ingredient in wine, brandy, beer, bourbon, scotch, gin, and vodka. Drink what tastes best but limit the amount to the equivalent of an ordinary jigger. Too much liquor may have an adverse effect on an ailing heart.

HEARTBEAT DISTURBS HER

Mrs. J.L. writes: Before I became pregnant, I didn't notice my heartbeat at night. Now, it disturbs me. Does this mean I have something physically wrong?

REPLY

No. Sleep on your back or right side and you won't be disturbed by the sound. The enlarging uterus may be pushing up on the diaphragm and crowding the heart to the extent that the beat is transmitted downward.

THE TIRED OLDSTER

Mrs. M. writes: Two hours after I get up and do the household chores, I'm so sleepy I have to lie down. Do you think it is my heart or blood that does this? P.S. I'm 72 years old.

REPLY

Anemia, low metabolism, and hidden infections contribute toward fatigue. Get a checkup and if nothing is found, take advantage of the feeling of relaxation and enjoy a good nap. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on fatigue.

HUNGRY AFTER EATING

M. C. writes: What makes me feel empty in the stomach an hour after I eat?

REPLY

Half empty stomach. You need foods that will "stick to your ribs," as the old-timers said. This includes fat and protein — meat, potatoes, vegetables, and gravy. I assume your weight is normal.

ALMANAC

BY U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Aug. 23, the 235th day of 1973 with 130 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Battan in the Pacific Theater of World War II, was born Aug. 23, 1883.

On this day in history:

In 1924, Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson won the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. In November she became the first woman to be elected governor of a state.

In 1926, hundreds of thousands of women mourned the death of movie idol Rudolph Valentino.

In 1968, a United Nations' resolution condemned the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, but Russia vetoed it in the Security Council.

In 1971, the Western powers and Russia reached agreement on the future of West Berlin. Russia pledged "unhindered" passage of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany across East Germany territory.

A thought for the day: British poet Thomas DeQuincey said, "It is notorious that the memory strengthens as you lay burdens upon it, and becomes truthworthy as you trust it."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come, largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Fair Opens 1973 Run Tomorrow

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 1973 California State Fair opens Friday for a 17-day run with the spotlight on the state's No. 1 industry—agriculture.

Fair officials have thrown out the highly urbanized concept of Cal Expo employed in recent years and have recreated an old fashioned fair like the 20po)he first one held in California in 1854 in San Francisco.

For the first time since 1967, open livestock competition will be held—with $60,000 in premiums offered. Junior livestock competitions, the 4-H and FFA shows, will offer nearly $100,000 in prizes.

There will be home economic displays and competitions and an antique farm machinery and tractor display, including a 1915 Russel woodburning tractor.

There also will be old fashioned competition in the preparation of jellies, jams, marmalades, preserves, home canned fruits, relishes, baked goods and pickles.

Another feature will be twice daily baking contests pitting women baking scratch recipes in wood burning stoves against women using package mixes in an ultra modern kitchen. Fairgoers will judge the results.

Family Mix Benefits Are Slated

Variety shows to benefit Family Mix, a community referral service and education center, will be performed at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow, and Saturday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, 498 Tamalpais Drive, according to Ken Wolfson, show coordinator.

Rock group Banana and the Bunch will headline tomorrow's show, which also will feature the Kathak Middle Eastern dancers and musicians from Ali Akbar School of music in San Rafael, folk singer Marcus McCallen and the jazz-rock George Edwards duo. Mime Reggie Woods will be master of ceremonies and members of Ross Valley theater groups will perform an old-fashioned melodrama.

Featured in Saturday's show will be rock groups Sugar Daddy and Pearl along with dancer Naji Baba with the Burt Balladine Middle Eastern dancers, storyteller Maggie Peach and Mexican dancer Rafael Vega Espana. Master of ceremonies will be the Congress of Wonders comedy team.

Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. both days to view community service exhibits and informational displays on family mix activities.

All profits will go to Family Mix, a nonprofit organization funded by the county and through membership fees.

It operates a community switchboard at 43 Mariposa Avenue in San Anselmo which handles referrals for drug abuse information, job needs and ride information. It also holds classes covering topics from organic gardening and French cooking to prison life and Jungian psychology.

Guy Meyer, the new president of Family Mix, said funds will help revitalize the service which in the past, he said, has been a springboard for community activities such as a printing cooperative, a joint-operation car workshop and recycling operations.

"I'd like to see this place become the place you can go to find what you're looking for. In other words, you can come here and we'll refer you — or where there's a vacuum, an empty spot, there'll be energy in here to create a new activity."

Ticket information for the benefit may be obtained by contacting Family Mix.

Judge Dismisses Students' Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge yesterday dismissed a $375,000 civil rights suit by three Stanford University students suspended in 1972 for disrupting a class by Prof. William Shockley.

Shockley, who won the Nobel Prize for his help in inventing the transistor, was a controversial figure on campus because of his genetics theory that he-red-dity plays a role in intelligence.

The students charged that their suspension violated their rights of freedom of speech and association and their rights of equal protection of the laws.

They are Don Lee, Alice Furumoto and Kwonping Ho.

Ferry Terminal Impact Studied

Only a dispute over underground or aboveground storage of 300,000 gallons of diesel fuel last night altered the otherwise friendly tone of a review session on the environmental impact report for the proposed ferry terminal in Larkspur.

Larkspur City Council, planning commission and Golden Gate Bridge District representatives discussed aspect of the report in friendly terms for two and one half hours.

Planning Commission Chairman Leonard S. Rubin quoted a recommendation by Larkspur Fire Chief William C. Shurtz that the district try to store the fuel underground.

District representatives said underground storage cost is prohibitive and normal safety code requirements would be met in aboveground storage.

Councilman Robert H. Lee was not persuaded by the cost argument, however, and urged the district to consider underground tanks. He said the extra cost would be offset by the addition of more surface area which could be used for additional parking and other uses.

Lee also expressed concern over open space at the ferry site and asked if the district had considered Larkspur's park and recreation plan concerning open space.

He was told by Robert Shields, the district's chief engineer, that open space was considered a desirable use on the site and that the city's plan had been considered.

Proposed commercial development on the site drew the concern of both city bodies and the district gave assurance that consideration would be given to commercial development around the site in deciding what uses would be allowed on the site.

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the bridge district, said the district would cooperate with the city but would retain authority over what commercial uses would go on the site.

Bridge district directors will hold a public hearing on the report at 8 p.m. on Aug. 30 in toll plaza offices.

Student Is Shot At Registration

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Peter Paul Jesik, 26, while registering at Phoenix College yesterday, told a friend he was being followed by a man with a gun who "is going to shoot me."

Moments later, pistol shots snapped out through the crowded gym where the registration was taking place, sending 500 students running in all directions, overturning tables, to escape.

Jesik was hit by four .38-caliber pistol bullets and fell dead. Debra Lucky, 17, was grazed on the right shoulder and released after hospital treatment.

Police arrested Charles Doss, 37. Officers said Jesik and Doss were in the same classes during the summer session and frequently took opposing sides of discussions, in and out of class.

Fair Opens 1973 Run Tomorrow

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 1973 California State Fair opens Friday for a 17-day run with the spotlight on the state's No. 1 industry—agriculture.

Fair officials have thrown out the highly urbanized concept of Cal Expo employed in recent years and have recreated an old fashioned fair like the 20po)he first one held in California in 1854 in San Francisco.

For the first time since 1967, open livestock competition will be held—with $60,000 in premiums offered. Junior livestock competitions, the 4-H and FFA shows, will offer nearly $100,000 in prizes.

There will be home economic displays and competitions and an antique farm machinery and tractor display, including a 1915 Russel woodburning tractor.

There also will be old fashioned competition in the preparation of jellies, jams, marmalades, preserves, home canned fruits, relishes, baked goods and pickles.

Another feature will be twice daily baking contests pitting women baking scratch recipes in wood burning stoves against women using package mixes in an ultra modern kitchen. Fairgoers will judge the results.

Family Mix Benefits Are Slated

Variety shows to benefit Family Mix, a community referral service and education center, will be performed at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow, and Saturday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, 498 Tamalpais Drive, according to Ken Wolfson, show coordinator.

Rock group Banana and the Bunch will headline tomorrow's show, which also will feature the Kathak Middle Eastern dancers and musicians from Ali Akbar School of music in San Rafael, folk singer Marcus McCallen and the jazz-rock George Edwards duo. Mime Reggie Woods will be master of ceremonies and members of Ross Valley theater groups will perform an old-fashioned melodrama.

Featured in Saturday's show will be rock groups Sugar Daddy and Pearl along with dancer Naji Baba with the Burt Balladine Middle Eastern dancers, storyteller Maggie Peach and Mexican dancer Rafael Vega Espana. Master of ceremonies will be the Congress of Wonders comedy team.

Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. both days to view community service exhibits and informational displays on family mix activities.

All profits will go to Family Mix, a nonprofit organization funded by the county and through membership fees.

It operates a community switchboard at 43 Mariposa Avenue in San Anselmo which handles referrals for drug abuse information, job needs and ride information. It also holds classes covering topics from organic gardening and French cooking to prison life and Jungian psychology.

Guy Meyer, the new president of Family Mix, said funds will help revitalize the service which in the past, he said, has been a springboard for community activities such as a printing cooperative, a joint-operation car workshop and recycling operations.

"I'd like to see this place become the place you can go to find what you're looking for. In other words, you can come here and we'll refer you — or where there's a vacuum, an empty spot, there'll be energy in here to create a new activity."

Ticket information for the benefit may be obtained by contacting Family Mix.

Ferry Terminal Impact Studied

Only a dispute over underground or aboveground storage of 300,000 gallons of diesel fuel last night altered the otherwise friendly tone of a review session on the environmental impact report for the proposed ferry terminal in Larkspur.

Larkspur City Council, planning commission and Golden Gate Bridge District representatives discussed aspect of the report in friendly terms for two and one half hours.

Planning Commission Chairman Leonard S. Rubin quoted a recommendation by Larkspur Fire Chief William C. Shurtz that the district try to store the fuel underground.

District representatives said underground storage cost is prohibitive and normal safety code requirements would be met in aboveground storage.

Councilman Robert H. Lee was not persuaded by the cost argument, however, and urged the district to consider underground tanks. He said the extra cost would be offset by the addition of more surface area which could be used for additional parking and other uses.

Lee also expressed concern over open space at the ferry site and asked if the district had considered Larkspur's park and recreation plan concerning open space.

He was told by Robert Shields, the district's chief engineer, that open space was considered a desirable use on the site and that the city's plan had been considered.

Proposed commercial development on the site drew the concern of both city bodies and the district gave assurance that consideration would be given to commercial development around the site in deciding what uses would be allowed on the site.

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the bridge district, said the district would cooperate with the city but would retain authority over what commercial uses would go on the site.

Bridge district directors will hold a public hearing on the report at 8 p.m. on Aug. 30 in toll plaza offices.

Student Is Shot At Registration

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Peter Paul Jesik, 26, while registering at Phoenix College yesterday, told a friend he was being followed by a man with a gun who "is going to shoot me."

Moments later, pistol shots snapped out through the crowded gym where the registration was taking place, sending 500 students running in all directions, overturning tables, to escape.

Jesik was hit by four .38-caliber pistol bullets and fell dead. Debra Lucky, 17, was grazed on the right shoulder and released after hospital treatment.

Police arrested Charles Doss, 37. Officers said Jesik and Doss were in the same classes during the summer session and frequently took opposing sides of discussions, in and out of class.

Judge Dismisses Students' Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge yesterday dismissed a $375,000 civil rights suit by three Stanford University students suspended in 1972 for disrupting a class by Prof. William Shockley.

Shockley, who won the Nobel Prize for his help in inventing the transistor, was a controversial figure on campus because of his genetics theory that hered-dity plays a role in intelligence.

The students charged that their suspension violated their rights of freedom of speech and association and their rights of equal protection of the laws.

They are Don Lee, Alice Furumoto and Kwonping Ho.

Woman Seeking Post As Planner

Gratia E. Landley is seeking appointment to the Fairfax Planning Commission because she wants "to do something for Fairfax."

GRATIA E. LANDLEY
Seeks planning post

Miss Landley, a 10-year resident of Fairfax, is one of three applicants for a vacancy on the commission created by the resignation of commissioner Gloria Duncan. Deadline for submitting applications is 5 p.m. Sept. 3 in town hall.

The 50-year-old Miss Landley, once a child actress on Broadway who attended parochial schools in New York City, is currently an administrative assistant for Systems Applications Inc., a San Rafael research and consulting firm.

She worked for 19 years as a secretary for the Air Force and Army in Okinawa, Libya, France, Germany and Morocco, and has held similar positions with the Associated Press, Reuters news service and Walt Disney Productions.

She served as a secretary for the town's Congress for Community Progress, a citizens group, and as a member of Preserve Land and Nature, the group that put the initiative rezoning of the Fairfax Town and Country Club on the ballot.

She resigned from the Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission in June after a tenure of several months, citing a "difference in philosophy" and saying the agency lacked direction.

Calling herself an "eccentric" who "wants to get involved but not run for mayor," Miss Landley said she has "no firm position" on plans for the Canon Village and Tennis Club development of 109 units on 88 acres along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

She said Max Friedman's Marin Town and Country Club parcel should be "kept as open as possible" but not be forced to "lie fallow" and deprive Friedman of an appropriate income.

"I'm a moderate trying to strike a balance between ecology and building," she said.

She said she does not support proposals to convert the Fairfax Parkade into a park, or to widen Center or Sir Francis Drake boulevards unless mushrooming development west of Fairfax forces such widening. "I'd just as soon stop and go, stop and go," she said.

She lives at 31 Oak Road.

Chromosomes Contain Tons Of Information

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Chromosomes in humans contain enough genetic information to fill 2,000 volumes of 1,000 pages each and can be thrown away by a typographical error, an expert said yesterday.

John Paul, director of Batson Institute of Cancer Research in Glasgow, Scotland, told a news conference that this "library" of genetic information is formed from 20 amino acids (comparable to the 26 letters of the alphabet) and four other substances with which they combine.

"In this analogy cancer could be considered to come about in one of three ways, Paul said. "There could be a typographical error in an important instruction. A page from another library could be introduced (as by a virus). Or a volume could become lost."

Paul was on the Berkeley campus of the University of California to deliver a paper at the 13th International conference of genetics. The eight day congress, which meets every five years, has attracted nearly 3,000 geneticists from 70 countries.

The medical scientist said his institute is concerned with how human cells decide which bits of information from this "library" to use when all cells contain the same basic information.

"In other words how does a brain cell decide to become a brain cell, the liver cell a liver cell, the skin cell a skin cell, and so forth," Paul said.

"We have pretty good evidence that there are two kinds of proteins in humans," he said. "The protein histone covers part of a chromosome and non-histone protein displaces the histone and opens up or discloses the portion of the chromosome.

"We speculate—and I emphasize that it is speculation—that this disclosure by non-histone protein is what allows a portion, and only a portion, of the chromosome to be exactly duplicated."

Paul said that most of the information contained in the chromosatic "library" was "sheer junk as far as we know."

"The actual usable information is much smaller and could be contained in a very few volumes—maybe five," he said.

The cancer researcher said that there were several possible explanations — including instant evolution—as to why there was so much surplus material in the chromosome.

"At least it is no imposition on the cells to carry a lot of this extra material," he said.

Reagan Says Tax Burden Too High

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Noting that the working man spends nearly 45 per cent of his salary on the government, Gov. Ronald Reagan said he would expose "the economic and social mythology that's led us so far astray" when he ends his term in 1974.

"No government has ever survived a tax burden (on its people) higher than 33 per cent," Reagan told a Rotary Club audience Tuesday.

He attacked closing tax loopholes as a rhetorical device "used to get more money for governments who have too much already."

Reagan said he would go on the "mashed potato circuit" but didn't say whether he would be acting as a private citizen or a politician.

Inmate Cleared Of Stab Charge

A jury returned the verdict Tuesday after four hours of deliberation in the case of Joseph Eugene Waters, 26, serving a term of five years to life for a first degree robbery conviction in Los Angeles County.

Waters had been indicted by the Marin Grand Jury in May for allegedly stabbing R.L. Nye, with a prison-made knife on Feb. 11.

Streptococcus Leads Disease List

Streptococcus infections led the list of communicable diseases in Marin with a total of 27 cases reported last week according to county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht.

Woman Seeking Post As Planner

Gratia E. Landley is seeking appointment to the Fairfax Planning Commission because she wants "to do something for Fairfax."

Miss Landley, a 10-year resident of Fairfax, is one of three applicants for a vacancy on the commission created by the resignation of commissioner Gloria Duncan. Deadline for submitting applications is 5 p.m. Sept. 3 in town hall.

GRATIA E. LANDLEY
Seeks planning post

The 50-year-old Miss Landley, once a child actress on Broadway who attended parochial schools in New York City, is currently an administrative assistant for Systems Applications Inc., a San Rafael research and consulting firm.

She worked for 19 years as a secretary for the Air Force and Army in Okinawa, Libya, France, Germany and Morocco, and has held similar positions with the Associated Press, Reuters news service and Walt Disney Productions.

She served as a secretary for the town's Congress for Community Progress, a citizens group, and as a member of Preserve Land and Nature, the group that put the initiative rezoning of the Fairfax Town and Country Club on the ballot.

She resigned from the Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission in June after a tenure of several months, citing a "difference in philosophy" and saying the agency lacked direction.

Calling herself an "eccentric" who "wants to get involved but not run for mayor," Miss Landley said she has "no firm position" on plans for the Canon Village and Tennis Club development of 109 units on 88 acres along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

She said Max Friedman's Marin Town and Country Club parcel should be "kept as open as possible" but not be forced to "lie fallow" and deprive Friedman of an appropriate income.

"I'm a moderate trying to strike a balance between ecology and building," she said.

She said she does not support proposals to convert the Fairfax Parkade into a park, or to widen Center or Sir Francis Drake boulevards unless mushrooming development west of Fairfax forces such widening. "I'd just as soon stop and go, stop and go," she said.

She lives at 31 Oak Road.

Chromosomes Contain Tons Of Information

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Chromosomes in humans contain enough genetic information to fill 2,000 volumes of 1,000 pages each and can be thrown away by a typographical error, an expert said yesterday.

John Paul, director of Batson Institute of Cancer Research in Glasgow, Scotland, told a news conference that this "library" of genetic information is formed from 20 amino acids (comparable to the 26 letters of the alphabet) and four other substances with which they combine.

"In this analogy cancer could be considered to come about in one of three ways, Paul said. "There could be a typographical error in an important instruction. A page from another library could be introduced (as by a virus). Or a volume could become lost."

Paul was on the Berkeley campus of the University of California to deliver a paper at the 13th International conference of genetics. The eight day congress, which meets every five years, has attracted nearly 3,000 geneticists from 70 countries.

The medical scientist said his institute is concerned with how human cells decide which bits of information from this "library" to use when all cells contain the same basic information.

"In other words how does a brain cell decide to become a brain cell, the liver cell a liver cell, the skin cell a skin cell, and so forth," Paul said.

"We have pretty good evidence that there are two kinds of proteins in humans," he said. "The protein histone covers part of a chromosome and nonhistone protein displaces the histone and opens up or discloses the portion of the chromosome.

"We speculate—and I emphasize that it is speculation—that this disclosure by non-histone protein is what allows a portion, and only a portion, of the chromosome to be exactly duplicated."

Paul said that most of the information contained in the chromosatic "library" was "sheer junk as far as we know."

"The actual usable information is much smaller and could be contained in a very few volumes—maybe five," he said.

The cancer researcher said that there were several possible explanations — including instant evolution—as to why there was so much surplus material in the chromosome.

"At least it is no imposition on the cells to carry a lot of this extra material," he said.

Reagan Says Tax Burden Too High

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Noting that the working man spends nearly 45 per cent of his salary on the government, Gov. Ronald Reagan said he would expose "the economic and social mythology that's led us so far astray" when he ends his term in 1974.

"No government has ever survived a tax burden (on its people) higher than 33 per cent," Reagan told a Rotary Club audience Tuesday.

He attacked closing tax loopholes as a rhetorical device "used to get more money for governments who have too much already."

Reagan said he would go on the "mashed potato circuit" but didn't say whether he would be acting as a private citizen or a politician.

Inmate Cleared Of Stab Charge

A jury returned the verdict Tuesday after four hours of deliberation in the case of Joseph Eugene Waters, 26, serving a term of five years to life for a first degree robbery conviction in Los Angeles County.

Waters had been indicted by the Marin Grand Jury in May for allegedly stabbing R.L. Nye, with a prison-made knife on Feb. 11.

Streptococcus Leads Disease List

Streptococcus infections led the list of communicable diseases in Marin with a total of 27 cases reported last week according to county health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht.

DeMont, Backhaus Triumph In AAU Swimming

I-J Special Report

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Rick DeMont of Terra Linda last night swam a 4:00.14 in the 400-meter freestyle to set a new meet record in the National Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Swimming Championships at the Plantation Country Club here.

DeMont's time, the best in the world at that distance this year,. shattered the old meet mark of 4:02.08 set by Tom McBreen in 1971. He narrowly missed the world record of 4:00.11 held by Kurt Krumpholtz.

The win qualified 1972 Olympian DeMont to represent the United States in the World Swimming Championships at Belgrade, Yugoslavia Sept. 1-9, and "was even more notable since he did not shave down at all," according to Marin Aquatic Club coach Don Swartz.

Olympian Robin Backhaus of San Rafael also picked up a victory for the Marin Club last night, swimming the 100-meter butterfly in 56.83. That was one-tenth of a second off his best time and more than a second slower than the meet record held by Mark Spitz.

Backhaus' win also qualified him for the world championships in the 100-fly and earned him a spot on the medley relay team.

"Robin swam at 9:30 last night and it was about 60 degrees out," said Swartz, explaining Backhaus' slow time. "The water is cold here, which is hurting performances a little bit."

The victories by DeMont and Backhaus helped Marin to third place in the men's standings after the first night with 40 points. Santa Clara Swim Club is in first with 115 and Gatorade is in second with 62.

"There have been no relays yet, and we're not too strong in them, but we have a shot at the top five or six places," Swartz commented. "But we need to get some help from Keith Strange in the breaststroke."

Strange last night finished 19th in the 100-meter breast with a 1:10.7, equally his best time.

Maura Campion was the only woman competing last night for Marin, and she took 20th in the 100 fly with a 1:07.14. That improved her best previous time by one-half second.

In eight finals events last night, six meet records were broken, including one world mark.

Keena Rothhammer, representing the Santa Clara Club, knocked nearly a second off the world record in the women's 400 free. She swam a 4:18.071 to break the old mark of 4:19.04, set last year by Australia's Shane Gould.

Olympic triple gold medalist Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va., swam the 200 backstroke in 2:20.757, breaking the meet record by eight-tenths of a second.

In the men's 200 back, John Naber of the Ladera Oaks Athletic Club of Los Altos clipped a half second off the record set in 1970 by Mike Stamm. Naber swam the distance in 2:05.67.

Confident A's Odom Shines

Pitcher Stifles Tigers For 8 Innings In Win

Odom pitched eight strong innings to defeat the Detroit Tigers 7-3 last night for his fourth victory of the season. That kept the A's two games ahead of the Kansas City Royals in the American League West.

"I was struggling the first three innings because it was cold," Odom said. "Then I got loose and started popping my fast ball."

Odom gave up two runs in the second inning, one of them unearned, and another in the eighth inning before he was taken out by manager Dick Williams.

Odom asked to pitch the ninth inning, but Williams used ace reliever Rollie Fingers instead. Fingers got the Tigers out to record his 16th save of the season.

"I was more confident this time because there was nothing to prove," said Odom, who had a 1-9 start this year and now is 4-9. "I think I've convinced people I can still pitch."

The A's won the game with five runs in the eighth inning after the Tigers had gone ahead 3-2 in the top half of the inning.

A home run by Reggie Jackson, his 31st of the season, tied the score and before the inning was over three singles and another homer by Ted Kubiak wrapped up the victory for Oakland.

"I knew the ball was out as soon as I hit it," Jackson said. "It was scorched."

Kubiak's homer, only his third of the season, was barely inside the right field foul pole. That gave the A's some insurance.

Fingers made sure the lead held up. "I just threw strikes and tried to get ahead of the batters with my fast ball," Fingers said.

Catcher Duke Sims of Detroit was impressed with Jackson's power. "He's so strong he hit the ball after I thought I had it in my glove," Sims said.

"He didn't seem to get the good part of the bat on the ball, but he still hit it over the fence."

The victory was the tenth in the last 11 games for the A's. Following an off-day today, Oakland opens a three-game series with the New York Yankees Friday night. In the opener it will be Jim Hunter, 15-3, against Doc Medich, 10-6, of New York.

A THUMB SUCKER'S SUBSTITUTE

Baltimore Orioles' pitcher Mike Cuellar intently followed the baseball action during the Orioles' fathers-sons game in Baltimore last night. While Cuellar was concentrating, his one-year-old son Mike Jr. seemed disinterested with the proceedings. He was a runner at second base but was preoccupied with the baseball bat which he was sucking on. Baltimore beat Minnesota, 4-3, in the regulation game. See baseball, page 36. (UPI Telephoto)

Andersen Whiffs 15 In Victory

I-J Special Report

STOCKTON — The Italian Athletic Club's Ed Andersen last night struck out 15 Los Angeles Central batters en route to an 11-0, no-hit victory in the first round of the Joe DiMaggio League State finals in baseball.

The 16-year-old Redwood High School right-hander walked three batters and allowed one other hitter to reach first on an error as the Italian Club scored the first no-hitter in the tournament's six-year history.

"I was happy to beat L.A., because they beat us in the finals last year (3-2 in Vallejo)," said Andersen, who was being watched by major league scouts during the game.

Jeff Vogel scored the first run of the game in the opening inning on a bases loaded walk to Rob Long. Marty Frey then singled to drive in another run, and the Gary LaTorre scored the final run in the first on a passed ball.

In the fourth, Doug Hartman singled, Andersen reached first on an error by the shortstop, and Vogel singled to score Hartman. LaTorre hit a sacrifice fly to score Andersen from third.

Two more runs were plated in the sixth as LaTorre and Jim Caito singled. LaTorre scored on a passed ball and Rich Lopez hit a sacrifice to score Caito.

Hartman and Andersen singled in the seventh inning and Vogel walked to lead the bases. Long walked to force in one run. LaTorre singled to drive in another run, and Lopez walked to plate the final tally.

Tonight at 8:30 p.m., Gene Frey takes the mound for the Italian Club against the winner of last night's Stockton-Long Beach game.

If the Italian Club wins tonight, it will play in the semi-finals Saturday. The championship game will be held Sunday.

Raiders Switch Dolphins Game To Berkeley Locale

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' National Football League game Sept. 23 against the champion Miami Dolphins will be played at the University of California's Memorial Stadium instead of the Oakland Coliseum, the Raiders said last night.

The switch to the campus bowl, which seats 77,000 — about 23,000 more than the Coliseum — is still subject to approval by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and the UC Board of Regents. The approval is expected in a few days.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland Athletics baseball team which is now leading the American League West, was the man behind the move.

His baseball club also plays at the Coliseum, and Finley's contract with the Coliseum enables him to prevent the pro footballers from punishing the natural grass turf on the Sunday afternoon before the A's come home to a Monday Family Night game against the Minnesota Twins.

In addition to delaying ticket-printing and requiring changes in television arrangements, the move will cost the Raiders a $56,500 payment to UC under a three-year contract with the school.

Meanwhile, the Raiders' first draft choice, kicker Ray Guy, was gloating over kicking during Oakland's 16-3 win over the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

"I knew I was going to kick well," he said.

Oakland's punter got off to a slow start against New England and Dallas, but he accounted for 200 yards in four punts against the Rams Saturday.

"I was nervous before the opener in New England," he recounted. "That's only natural. But it didn't affect my kicking. I knew before the game that my timing was off and my rhythm was bad.

It was different the third time out.

3-GAME SERIES

Giants Visit Mets After Beating Expos

MONTREAL (UPI) — After breaking the Canadian Connection with a bang, the San Francisco Giants are en route to Fun City today on an open day.

Gary Matthews, Bobby Bonds and Chris Speier each drove in a run last night as the Giants completed a rare sweep of the Montreal Expos 3-2 behind the pitching of Jim Barr and Elias Sosa. The Canadian trip marked the first time in a year and a half that the Giants have won a game at Jarry Park, much less sweep a threegame series.

And with Los Angeles and Cincinnati both losing, the Giants closed to within 6 ½ games of the Dodgers who are leading the National League West.

Now the Giants head for New York for a three-game set with the Mets this weekend before moving on to Philadelphia.

Matthews, the leadoff batter, singled home the winning run in the seventh. Dave Rader led off with a single and went to second on Barr's sacrifice before scoring on Matthews' hit to break a 2-2 tie.

Matthews got the first Giants' run in the first inning as he singled, went to second on pitcher Steve Rogers' throwing error and scored on a single by Bobby Bonds. Consecutive singles off Rogers in the sixth by Willie McCovey, Garry Maddox and Speier acounted for the second Giant run.

See Giants' box score on inside page.

Warriors Draftee Joyce Seeks Release

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The attorney for Golden State Warrior top draftee Kevin Joyce says his client has made a written request to the National Basketball Association to be declared a free agent.

The letter from Arthur Morse, the attorney, was received by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, a spokesman said yesterday.

The spokesman said he doubted Kennedy would act on the request and thereby set a precedent which might alter the entire draft process.

Joyce, a 6-foot-3 guard from South Carolina, was picked up by the Warriors and the American Basketball Association San Antonio Spurs. He has requested a three-year, no-cut contract of approximately $150,000 a year, but Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli will not meet his demands.

Although Morse said he was not displeased with an offer from the Spurs, who did present Joyce with a multi-year pact, Joyce apparently wants to play in the established NBA.

Mieuli downplayed the request, claiming many draftees ask to be released or traded so they can negotiate with other teams. And Mieuli also admitted that he would change his original offer, giving Joyce a one-year, no-cut contract — but would never agree to terms of more than one year for a rookie.

Semis Next For Bruised U.S. '5'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Bloodied and bruised, the United States basketball team is in the semi-finals at the seventh World University Games today after a chair-slinging, glass-throwing brawl with Cuba that rocked the host Russians' elaborate security precautions.

Also lost in the furor were the five more gold medals won by the Russians that increased their commanding lead over the U.S. in that category to 53-8.

The U.S. cagers were only 90 seconds short of the end in their 98-76 win over Cuba when Mitch Kupchack of Brentwood, N.Y., was kicked to the floor by a Cuban player and came up swinging.

That sent both benches to emptying and before long, the Cubans were slinging wooden folding chairs and glass was flying. Woltzen, who was knocked unconscious by a chair in the back of the head, was livid after the game.

"We're certainly going to lodge a protest," said U.S. Coach Ed Badger, whose fight-weary troops take on once-beaten Brazil today. North Caroline State's David Thompson, who led all scorers with 34 points, seemed dazed after the fight, walking around the court mumbling, "I can't believe this, man. I just can't believe this."

No doubt, the U.S. swimmers couldn't believe what was happening to them either when, under sunny but chilly conditions, the Russian's Lubov Rusanova upset world record holder Cathy Carr in the 200-meter breaststroke in the opening event at the open-air Luzhniki swim complex. The Russian girl's winning time of 1:15.5 was nowhere close to Miss Carr's world mark of 1:13.5.

The Soviets followed that up with a one-two sweep by Nikolai Pankin (2:23.8) and Igor Tchordakov in the men's 200-meter breastroke.

But then came Poucher, an 18-year-old from Jacksonville, Fla., to save the day with his second gold medal in 24 hours—a hard-fought 2:05 victory over West Germany's Floket Meeuw.

The almost over-protective and elaborate security measures that the Russians have invoked during the Games — particularly in having scores of policemen and soldiers surround the court at every Israeli basketball game — will no doubt be a cause of dispute even more in the wake of the U.S.-Cuba brawl.

The fight, which lasted nearly 25 minutes, finally had to be broken up by the game officials since only a handful of Soviet police were on hand and they made no apparent effort to stop it.

DISABLED LIST FOR BOCCABELLA

The Expos said they have recalled catcher Terry Humphrey from the Peninsula Whips of the International League to replace Boccabella of Terra Linda. Humphrey is expected to be in the lineup when the Expos host the San Diego Padres tomorrow night.

DeMont, Backhaus Triumph In AAU Swimming

I-J Special Report

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Rick DeMont of Terra Linda last night swam a 4:00.14 in the 400-meter freestyle to set a new meet record in the National Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Swimming Championships at the Plantation Country Club here.

DeMont's time, the best in the world at that distance this year,. shattered the old meet mark of 4:02.08 set by Tom McBreen in 1971. He narrowly missed the world record of 4:00.11 held by Kurt Krumpholtz.

The win qualified 1972 Olympian DeMont to represent the United States in the World Swimming Championships at Belgrade, Yugoslavia Sept. 1-9, and "was even more notable since he did not shave down at all," according to Marin Aquatic Club coach Don Swartz.

Olympian Robin Backhaus of San Rafael also picked up a victory for the Marin Club last night, swimming the 100-meter butterfly in 56.83. That was one-tenth of a second off his best time and more than a second slower than the meet record held by Mark Spitz.

Backhaus' win also qualified him for the world championships in the 100-fly and earned him a spot on the medley relay team.

"Robin swam at 9:30 last night and it was about 60 degrees out," said Swartz, explaining Backhaus' slow time. "The water is cold here, which is hurting performances a little bit."

The victories by DeMont and Backhaus helped Marin to third place in the men's standings after the first night with 40 points. Santa Clara Swim Club is in first with 115 and Gatorade is in second with 62.

"There have been no relays yet, and we're not too strong in them, but we have a shot at the top five or six places," Swartz commented. "But we need to get some help from Keith Strange in the breaststroke."

Strange last night finished 19th in the 100-meter breast with a 1:10.7, equally his best time.

Maura Campion was the only woman competing last night for Marin, and she took 20th in the 100 fly with a 1:07.14. That improved her best previous time by one-half second.

In eight finals events last night, six meet records were broken, including one world mark.

Keena Rothhammer, representing the Santa Clara Club, knocked nearly a second off the world record in the women's 400 free. She swam a 4:18.071 to break the old mark of 4:19.04, set last year by Australia's Shane Gould.

Olympic triple gold medalist Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va., swam the 200 backstroke in 2:20.757, breaking the meet record by eight-tenths of a second.

In the men's 200 back, John Naber of the Ladera Oaks Athletic Club of Los Altos clipped a half second off the record set in 1970 by Mike Stamm. Naber swam the distance in 2:05.67.

Confident A's Odom Shines

Pitcher Stifles Tigers For 8 Innings In Win

Odom pitched eight strong innings to defeat the Detroit Tigers 7-3 last night for his fourth victory of the season. That kept the A's two games ahead of the Kansas City Royals in the American League West.

"I was struggling the first three innings because it was cold," Odom said. "Then I got loose and started popping my fast ball."

Odom gave up two runs in the second inning, one of them unearned, and another in the eighth inning before he was taken out by manager Dick Williams.

Odom asked to pitch the ninth inning, but Williams used ace reliever Rollie Fingers instead. Fingers got the Tigers out to record his 16th save of the season.

"I was more confident this time because there was nothing to prove," said Odom, who had a 1-9 start this year and now is 4-9. "I think I've convinced people I can still pitch."

The A's won the game with five runs in the eighth inning after the Tigers had gone ahead 3-2 in the top half of the inning.

A home run by Reggie Jackson, his 31st of the season, tied the score and before the inning was over three singles and another homer by Ted Kubiak wrapped up the victory for Oakland.

"I knew the ball was out as soon as I hit it," Jackson said. "It was scorched."

Kubiak's homer, only his third of the season, was barely inside the right field foul pole. That gave the A's some insurance.

Fingers made sure the lead held up. "I just threw strikes and tried to get ahead of the batters with my fast ball," Fingers said.

Catcher Duke Sims of Detroit was impressed with Jackson's power. "He's so strong he hit the ball after I thought I had it in my glove," Sims said.

"He didn't seem to get the good part of the bat on the ball, but he still hit it over the fence."

The victory was the tenth in the last 11 games for the A's. Following an off-day today, Oakland opens a three-game series with the New York Yankees Friday night. In the opener it will be Jim Hunter, 15-3, against Doc Medich, 10-6, of New York.

A THUMB SUCKER'S SUBSTITUTE

Baltimore Orioles' pitcher Mike Cuellar intently followed the baseball action during the Orioles' fathers-sons game in Baltimore last night. While Cuellar was concentrating, his one-year-old son Mike Jr. seemed disinterested with the proceedings. He was a runner at second base but was preoccupied with the baseball bat which he was sucking on. Baltimore beat Minnesota, 4-3, in the regulation game. See baseball, page 36.

Andersen Whiffs 15 In Victory

I-J Special Report

STOCKTON — The Italian Athletic Club's Ed Andersen last night struck out 15 Los Angeles Central batters en route to an 11-0, no-hit victory in the first round of the Joe DiMaggio League State finals in baseball.

The 16-year-old Redwood High School right-hander walked three batters and allowed one other hitter to reach first on an error as the Italian Club scored the first no-hitter in the tournament's six-year history.

"I was happy to beat L.A., because they beat us in the finals last year (3-2 in Vallejo)," said Andersen, who was being watched by major league scouts during the game.

Jeff Vogel scored the first run of the game in the opening inning on a bases loaded walk to Rob Long. Marty Frey then singled to drive in another run, and the Gary LaTorre scored the final run in the first on a passed ball.

In the fourth, Doug Hartman singled, Andersen reached first on an error by the shortstop, and Vogel singled to score Hartman. LaTorre hit a sacrifice fly to score Andersen from third.

Two more runs were plated in the sixth as LaTorre and Jim Caito singled. LaTorre scored on a passed ball and Rich Lopez hit a sacrifice to score Caito.

Hartman and Andersen singled in the seventh inning and Vogel walked to lead the bases. Long walked to force in one run. LaTorre singled to drive in another run, and Lopez walked to plate the final tally.

If the Italian Club wins tonight, it will play in the semi-finals Saturday. The championship game will be held Sunday.

Raiders Switch Dolphins Game To Berkeley Locale

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' National Football League game Sept. 23 against the champion Miami Dolphins will be played at the University of California's Memorial Stadium instead of the Oakland Coliseum, the Raiders said last night.

The switch to the campus bowl, which seats 77,000 — about 23,000 more than the Coliseum — is still subject to approval by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and the UC Board of Regents. The approval is expected in a few days.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland Athletics baseball team which is now leading the American League West, was the man behind the move.

His baseball club also plays at the Coliseum, and Finley's contract with the Coliseum enables him to prevent the pro footballers from punishing the natural grass turf on the Sunday afternoon before the A's come home to a Monday Family Night game against the Minnesota Twins.

In addition to delaying ticket-printing and requiring changes in television arrangements, the move will cost the Raiders a $56,500 payment to UC under a three-year contract with the school.

Meanwhile, the Raiders' first draft choice, kicker Ray Guy, was gloating over kicking during Oakland's 16-3 win over the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

"I knew I was going to kick well," he said.

Oakland's punter got off to a slow start against New England and Dallas, but he accounted for 200 yards in four punts against the Rams Saturday.

"I was nervous before the opener in New England," he recounted. "That's only natural. But it didn't affect my kicking. I knew before the game that my timing was off and my rhythm was bad.

It was different the third time out.

3-GAME SERIES

Giants Visit Mets After Beating Expos

MONTREAL (UPI) — After breaking the Canadian Connection with a bang, the San Francisco Giants are en route to Fun City today on an open day.

Gary Matthews, Bobby Bonds and Chris Speier each drove in a run last night as the Giants completed a rare sweep of the Montreal Expos 3-2 behind the pitching of Jim Barr and Elias Sosa. The Canadian trip marked the first time in a year and a half that the Giants have won a game at Jarry Park, much less sweep a threegame series.

And with Los Angeles and Cincinnati both losing, the Giants closed to within 6 ½ games of the Dodgers who are leading the National League West.

Now the Giants head for New York for a three-game set with the Mets this weekend before moving on to Philadelphia.

Matthews, the leadoff batter, singled home the winning run in the seventh. Dave Rader led off with a single and went to second on Barr's sacrifice before scoring on Matthews' hit to break a 2-2 tie.

Matthews got the first Giants' run in the first inning as he singled, went to second on pitcher Steve Rogers' throwing error and scored on a single by Bobby Bonds. Consecutive singles off Rogers in the sixth by Willie McCovey, Garry Maddox and Speier acounted for the second Giant run.

Warriors Draftee Joyce Seeks Release

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The attorney for Golden State Warrior top draftee Kevin Joyce says his client has made a written request to the National Basketball Association to be declared a free agent.

The letter from Arthur Morse, the attorney, was received by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, a spokesman said yesterday.

The spokesman said he doubted Kennedy would act on the request and thereby set a precedent which might alter the entire draft process.

Joyce, a 6-foot-3 guard from South Carolina, was picked up by the Warriors and the American Basketball Association San Antonio Spurs. He has requested a three-year, no-cut contract of approximately $150,000 a year, but Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli will not meet his demands.

Although Morse said he was not displeased with an offer from the Spurs, who did present Joyce with a multi-year pact, Joyce apparently wants to play in the established NBA.

Mieuli downplayed the request, claiming many draftees ask to be released or traded so they can negotiate with other teams. And Mieuli also admitted that he would change his original offer, giving Joyce a one-year, no-cut contract — but would never agree to terms of more than one year for a rookie.

Semis Next For Bruised U.S. '5'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Bloodied and bruised, the United States basketball team is in the semi-finals at the seventh World University Games today after a chair-slinging, glass-throwing brawl with Cuba that rocked the host Russians' elaborate security precautions.

Also lost in the furor were the five more gold medals won by the Russians that increased their commanding lead over the U.S. in that category to 53-8.

The U.S. cagers were only 90 seconds short of the end in their 98-76 win over Cuba when Mitch Kupchack of Brentwood, N.Y., was kicked to the floor by a Cuban player and came up swinging.

That sent both benches to emptying and before long, the Cubans were slinging wooden folding chairs and glass was flying. Woltzen, who was knocked unconscious by a chair in the back of the head, was livid after the game.

"We're certainly going to lodge a protest," said U.S. Coach Ed Badger, whose fight-weary troops take on once-beaten Brazil today. North Caroline State's David Thompson, who led all scorers with 34 points, seemed dazed after the fight, walking around the court mumbling, "I can't believe this, man. I just can't believe this."

No doubt, the U.S. swimmers couldn't believe what was happening to them either when, under sunny but chilly conditions, the Russian's Lubov Rusanova upset world record holder Cathy Carr in the 200-meter breaststroke in the opening event at the open-air Luzhniki swim complex. The Russian girl's winning time of 1:15.5 was nowhere close to Miss Carr's world mark of 1:13.5.

The Soviets followed that up with a one-two sweep by Nikolai Pankin (2:23.8) and Igor Tchordakov in the men's 200-meter breastroke.

But then came Poucher, an 18-year-old from Jacksonville, Fla., to save the day with his second gold medal in 24 hours—a hard-fought 2:05 victory over West Germany's Floket Meeuw.

The almost over-protective and elaborate security measures that the Russians have invoked during the Games — particularly in having scores of policemen and soldiers surround the court at every Israeli basketball game — will no doubt be a cause of dispute even more in the wake of the U.S.-Cuba brawl.

The fight, which lasted nearly 25 minutes, finally had to be broken up by the game officials since only a handful of Soviet police were on hand and they made no apparent effort to stop it.

DISABLED LIST FOR BOCCABELLA

The Expos said they have recalled catcher Terry Humphrey from the Peninsula Whips of the International League to replace Boccabella of Terra Linda. Humphrey is expected to be in the lineup when the Expos host the San Diego Padres tomorrow night.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Rough Going

By LEE TREVINO

What makes golf such a rough game is . . . would you believe the roughs? Playing from the high grass is about as much fun as swimming in quicksand.

To smack a ball cleanly out of the rough, I suggest you grip your club twice as firm as for a regular shot. This helps keep the clubface square and prevents the tall grass from turning the club over in your hands.

Too many hombres use a flat swing in the rough. It cuts their chances of getting out from slim to none. The flat angle lets the grass grab the clubhead, and the result is a shot that squirts off to the left.

My stance is open on any shot. But shooting out of a briar patch, I pull back my left foot a little more. This keeps the clubface from closing.

Pick up your club sharply when you're tangled in the trash. Hit down strongly on the ball. Some pros adjust for the slight "pull" tendency by aiming slightly to the right of their target.

Derby Aides To Talk With Ousted Champ

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)— Soapbox derby officials say they have decided to talk with 14-year-old James H. Gronen, who was stripped of his national derby title for cheating, before demanding repayment of $100 in prize money he won in local competition.

"Our decision was a very good decision," Derby Chairman Jack Tracy said Wednesday. "It's my opinion that a man is innocent until he is proven guilty. I don't think it would be fair to take any action without his being there."

Gronen was disqualified as winner of the national derby and forfeited a $7,500 scholarship when X-rays of his racer showed an electromagnetic device in the body of the car.

Derby officials said the youth manufactured the electromagnetic device to activate when he pushed his helmet against the cockpit headrest. The system pulled the car from the starting position instead of allowing gravity to run its course, as required by derby rules.

Tracy also said Boulder officials were certain the sleek green racer by the youth this year was not the same car used by his cousin to win the crown in 1972.

"It wasn't the same car," he said. "I've seen them side by side. They're not the same. They have completely different measurements."

In Akron, derby officials said they had no reason to suspect Gronen's cousin, Robert Lange Jr., of cheating in his win last year.

Tracy said the racer used by Gronen had been returned to Boulder and was being kept by the boy's uncle, Robert Lange Sr. Gronen, his uncle and his cousin were vacationing and were not expected back until the weekend.

Gronen's racer was inspected in June after the boy won the local race but the machine was not x-rayed.

"You can't ask every little town in the United States to check the boys out," Tracy said. "You have to assume some honesty. There are a lot of good kids in derby racing. This is just one bad incident."

CONTROVERSIAL TENNIS STAR

Nastase Plays A Villain's Role

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

Occasionally he fools tennis fans and even some officials. Seldom any of his fellow players though.

"They say he's crazy, but I like him," volunteered Jimmy Connors, the U.S. professional singles' champ who has partnered with Nastase in doubles competition.

"Why do they say he's crazy?" someone wanted to know.

Connors laughed.

"If he's playing you, he'll come up and hit you on the back of the head sometimes," said Connors, still smiling. "Nobody really gets mad at him. They'll say 'Nastase, get outta here!' I don't know if he does something like that to upset his opponent or not. It's him. He likes to enjoy himself. He's a kid at times and a business man other times. A lotta people think they can put things over on him. They can't. He's not dumb."

Ilie Nastase isn't crazy either.

He appreciates all the usual things like money, prestige and girls, whom he doesn't talk about so much anymore since marrying dazzling Dominique Garzias of Brussels. Belgian girls have tempers, too.

Along with all this appreciation, Nastase or "Nasty" as he's called, is probably the most talented player in tennis today.

He has the quickest hands of anyone, probably the quickest legs also, and he isn't at all slow upstairs either.

This being the case, it has occurred to him that it doesn't hurt to have people talking about him all the time. They don't necessarily have to be talking about his ability either. They can be talking about his behavior or misbehavior on the court.

Graebner leaped over the net, grabbed Nastase and said, "you do that again to me and I'll crease your head with this racquet."

A couple of weeks ago during a match in Cincinnati he got into such a hassle with a referee that his $9,000 purse was held up after he won the match and he still faces a possible fine by the USLTA.

Nastase was talking about the episode Wednesday after being presented the Dewar's Merit Award for the excitement he has generated in tennis.

"This time I am right," he said, referring to the incident in question. "It was 100 degree humidity in Cincinnati, so hot you couldn't see the ball. I know the man (official) couldn't see the ball, but he made the call anyway. I called him over and I say to him, 'Dummy, you go up and watch on television.'"

Nastase has won both the French and Italian championships this year. He also was the winner of the 1972 U.S. Open championship at Forest Hills and begins defense of that title next week. He and Stan Smith are co-seeded No. 1 in this one.

Some old guard Romanian-Americans have expressed their displeasure at Nastase's court conduct, claiming it gives them all a poor image, but Ilie counters, "I'm prouder of being Romanian than they are."

Nastase has his defenders among the Romanians.

"They have given him the nickname 'Nasty,' but he is anything but that," said Vladimir Cohn, one of his friends present at Wednesday's luncheon. "He has helped many people without ever talking about it. I am one of these people."

Nastase says he's burdened unfairly by his reputation on the court.

"Now even if I don't do anything, it is the same as before," he says. "My reputation remains. I don't know how to get out of it."

Ski Champ Was Attacked—Probe

Combined AP & UPI

NICE — A police investigation concluded today that former French Olympic ski champion Francois Bonlieu, 36, died after he was attacked by an unknown aggressor near the beach at Cannes.

Bonlieu was buried Wednesday at Chamonix. Young men wearing ski outfits served as pallbearders at a mountainside ceremony attended by many ski celebrities including former Olympic champion Jean-Claude Killy.

Investigators decided that somebody pushed Bonlieu against a fence at Port Canto, near the Cannes Beach, causing the seven-time French ski champion to fall down a stairway leading to a lower hillside area.

The investigators also established that the seriously injured Bonlieu had been moved from the spot where he fell, fracturing his back and skull. However, they could not discover what he had been doing during that fatal evening in Cannes.

Bonlieu was found covered with blood in the gardens of the Port Friday and died Saturday at a Nice hospital.

The on-time second baseman for four major league baseball teams has been free on $150,000 bail since his arrest on June 5.

Priddy was accused of telephoning warnings to the Princess lines that four timed explosives were aboard the liner Island Princess off the coast of Mexico. He was arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in his offices in suburban Burbank where a "drop" of $250,000 was to be left in a trash can behind the building.

A search of the cruise ship turned up "suspicious packages." They were thrown overboard.

LOS ANGELES — A trial date of Dec. 4 was set yesterday for Jerry Priddy, former major league baseball player accused of attempting to extort a quarter of a million dollars on threat of setting off bombs on a luxury cruise liner.

Priddy, 53, pleaded innocent Monday when he appeared before U.S. Magistrate Ralph J. Geffen. The trial date was set by U.S. District Judge Irving Hill.

Hockey

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League yesterday filed a $1 million law suit against the Quebec Nordiques of the rival World Hockey Association in a dispute over a player, Serge Bernier.

In the Superior Court suit, the Kings' corporate owner, California Sports Inc., asserted Bernier agreed to play with the Kings for the 1973-74 season but now refuses, and has decided to play with Quebec.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Defending champion Ilie Nastase of Romania topped Herb Fitzgibbon of New York 6-3, 6-7, 6-3 in the first round of the Eastern Tennis Open yesterday.

Court Sees King Victory Over Riggs

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Margaret Court, beaten by Bobby Riggs early this summer in their heralded "battle of the sexes," predicted Wednesday arch rival Billie Jean King will easily defeat Riggs in their $100,000 winner-take-all match next month at Houston.

"Billie Jean will beat him," Mrs. Court said during play at the Virginia Slims Women's Grass Court Championships, where she is the defending champion.

"I would have beaten him myself if we'd played the next day," she said. "I would like another go at him myself."

Asked why she lost to the 55-year-old Riggs the first time, the 30-year-old Australian star said "It started out as a gag. I didn't realize Riggs was taking it serously. Then on the day of the match, it became really weird. He wandered into my room about an hour before the match and said he was sorry—he had the wrong room. Then he gave me the roses on the court. Mentally I wasn't ready for him."

Mrs. King's doubles partner, Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, also felt Mrs. King would defeat Riggs—and in three straight sets.

"He psyched Margaret, but there's no way to psyche Billie Jean. She's just as shrewd as him and has better reflexes than him. After all, he's 55 and she's 29."

Turning angry, Miss Casals added: "He shouldn't have said what he did about women's tennis. He deserves to be beaten."

Golf Open Begins; Big Names Waiting

CARY, N. C. (UPI) —With Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and six other big name golfers waiting in the wings, the overshadowed $100,000 L&M Open gets underway today with a field eager to leave the tournament.

Defending L&M champion Lou Graham says he doesn't even want to repeat as winner of the $20,000 purse.

Instead, Graham and the other 146 golfers in the L&M want a shot at head-to-head competition with Nicklaus, Weiskopf and the others who prequalified for the $150,000 U. S. Professional Match Play championship, which starts Saturday.

Specifically, they want a chance to meet Nicklaus, the man whose awesome talents have led to almost wholesale domination of the game and who won the match play last year, defeating Frank Beard for the title and the $40,000 winner's share.

If Nicklaus should win it again, the prize would put his career winnings within striking distance of an unprecedented $2 million, at $1,989,129.

Nicklaus rolled into this Raleigh suburb Wednesday and gave the McGregor Downs Country Club course his nod of approval.

"It's a good golf course, it's got a lot of good shots on it," Nicklaus said. "I hit the ball pretty good when I got loosened up. I just had a little bit of trouble on the first nine ... It's been a few days since I played."

Nicklaus already has amassed $245,424 in winnings this season with victories in the Professional Golfers Association Tournament of Champions, Atlanta Classic, Crosby National and Greater New Orleans Open.

For anyone else, that would be heaven. But big Jack says it's not good enough.

"This summer my game really hasn't been all it could be," he said. "I just couldn't get myself really charged up to go. Not that I didn't want to, I just couldn't."

Nicklaus says he doesn't see match play as such as being any more a challenge to him and his prestige, than medal play.

"Any time I play it's a direct challenge. I don't ever like to lose."

At the end of the L&M's second round, the top eight golfers in the tourney leave the field for match play. The ninth man takes the lead going into the third round of the L&M, played simultaneously over the 6,786-yard, par 71 course.

"The L&N is sort of a reward in reverse," says Graham, who won it last year in a four-way playoff. "I've won it and I've loved it, but now I'm ready to move on —to the match play."

Besides Nicklaus and Weiskopf, the British Open champ, the exempt players for match play are U. S. Open champion Johnny Miller, Masters champion Tommy Aaron and Lee Trevino, George Archer, Grier Jones and Jerry Heard, Nos. 2-5 respectively on the PGA's Tournament Players Division exemption list.

Brash young tour sophomore Lanny Wadkins, $40,000 richer after winning the USI Classic last week, is in the L&M field. He jumped from the tournament into match play last year, only to fall victim to Nicklaus in the second round.

"It wouldn't be the end of my life or anything like that," said Wadkins, who has won more money than any second-year man in the game's history. "But I came down here to get into the match play and that will be my top priority when we start the medal play tournament.

"I'd like to win either one of them but if I had my 'rathers', it's pretty obvious which is more important."

Villanova's Ingelsby Signs With Hawks

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tom Ingelsby, fifth-leading scorer in Villanova basketball history, signed a contract yesterday with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Ingelsby, a 6-foot-3, 180-pound guard who averaged 25.5 points per game last season, was the Hawks' No. 2 draft choice.

Suburban Auto Against Feigner

Suburban Auto Pistons of San Rafael will meet the King and his Court, a four-man team featuring pitcher Eddie Feigner, in a benefit softball game Sunday, Sept. 23 at 2 p.m. at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

The contest matches San Francisco's fast pitch tourney champion a nine-man team, against Feigner's pitching skills. Feigner has struck out over 85,000 batters while pitching about 1,500 shutouts in more than 25 years of barnstorming.

Proceeds go to the United Jewish Community Centers. Tickets costs are: $5 reserved and $3 unreserved for adults and $2.50 reserved and $1.50 unreserved for children, students, and senior citizens. Tickets can be obtained from the Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Rough Going

By LEE TREVINO

What makes golf such a rough game is . . . would you believe the roughs? Playing from the high grass is about as much fun as swimming in quicksand.

To smack a ball cleanly out of the rough, I suggest you grip your club twice as firm as for a regular shot. This helps keep the clubface square and prevents the tall grass from turning the club over in your hands.

Too many hombres use a flat swing in the rough. It cuts their chances of getting out from slim to none. The flat angle lets the grass grab the clubhead, and the result is a shot that squirts off to the left.

My stance is open on any shot. But shooting out of a briar patch, I pull back my left foot a little more. This keeps the clubface from closing.

Pick up your club sharply when you're tangled in the trash. Hit down strongly on the ball. Some pros adjust for the slight "pull" tendency by aiming slightly to the right of their target.

Derby Aides To Talk With Ousted Champ

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)— Soapbox derby officials say they have decided to talk with 14-year-old James H. Gronen, who was stripped of his national derby title for cheating, before demanding repayment of $100 in prize money he won in local competition.

"Our decision was a very good decision," Derby Chairman Jack Tracy said Wednesday. "It's my opinion that a man is innocent until he is proven guilty. I don't think it would be fair to take any action without his being there."

Gronen was disqualified as winner of the national derby and forfeited a $7,500 scholarship when X-rays of his racer showed an electromagnetic device in the body of the car.

Derby officials said the youth manufactured the electromagnetic device to activate when he pushed his helmet against the cockpit headrest. The system pulled the car from the starting position instead of allowing gravity to run its course, as required by derby rules.

Tracy also said Boulder officials were certain the sleek green racer by the youth this year was not the same car used by his cousin to win the crown in 1972.

"It wasn't the same car," he said. "I've seen them side by side. They're not the same. They have completely different measurements."

In Akron, derby officials said they had no reason to suspect Gronen's cousin, Robert Lange Jr., of cheating in his win last year.

Tracy said the racer used by Gronen had been returned to Boulder and was being kept by the boy's uncle, Robert Lange Sr. Gronen, his uncle and his cousin were vacationing and were not expected back until the weekend.

Gronen's racer was inspected in June after the boy won the local race but the machine was not x-rayed.

"You can't ask every little town in the United States to check the boys out," Tracy said. "You have to assume some honesty. There are a lot of good kids in derby racing. This is just one bad incident."

CONTROVERSIAL TENNIS STAR

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

Occasionally he fools tennis fans and even some officials. Seldom any of his fellow players though.

"They say he's crazy, but I like him," volunteered Jimmy Connors, the U.S. professional singles' champ who has partnered with Nastase in doubles competition.

"Why do they say he's crazy?" someone wanted to know.

Connors laughed.

"If he's playing you, he'll come up and hit you on the back of the head sometimes," said Connors, still smiling. "Nobody really gets mad at him. They'll say 'Nastase, get outta here!' I don't know if he does something like that to upset his opponent or not. It's him. He likes to enjoy himself. He's a kid at times and a business man other times. A lotta people think they can put things over on him. They can't. He's not dumb."

Ilie Nastase isn't crazy either.

He appreciates all the usual things like money, prestige and girls, whom he doesn't talk about so much anymore since marrying dazzling Dominique Garzias of Brussels. Belgian girls have tempers, too.

Along with all this appreciation, Nastase or "Nasty" as he's called, is probably the most talented player in tennis today.

He has the quickest hands of anyone, probably the quickest legs also, and he isn't at all slow upstairs either.

This being the case, it has occurred to him that it doesn't hurt to have people talking about him all the time. They don't necessarily have to be talking about his ability either. They can be talking about his behavior or misbehavior on the court.

Graebner leaped over the net, grabbed Nastase and said, "you do that again to me and I'll crease your head with this racquet."

A couple of weeks ago during a match in Cincinnati he got into such a hassle with a referee that his $9,000 purse was held up after he won the match and he still faces a possible fine by the USLTA.

Nastase was talking about the episode Wednesday after being presented the Dewar's Merit Award for the excitement he has generated in tennis.

"This time I am right," he said, referring to the incident in question. "It was 100 degree humidity in Cincinnati, so hot you couldn't see the ball. I know the man (official) couldn't see the ball, but he made the call anyway. I called him over and I say to him, 'Dummy, you go up and watch on television.'"

Nastase has won both the French and Italian championships this year. He also was the winner of the 1972 U.S. Open championship at Forest Hills and begins defense of that title next week. He and Stan Smith are co-seeded No. 1 in this one.

Some old guard Romanian-Americans have expressed their displeasure at Nastase's court conduct, claiming it gives them all a poor image, but Ilie counters, "I'm prouder of being Romanian than they are."

Nastase has his defenders among the Romanians.

"They have given him the nickname 'Nasty,' but he is anything but that," said Vladimir Cohn, one of his friends present at Wednesday's luncheon. "He has helped many people without ever talking about it. I am one of these people."

Nastase says he's burdened unfairly by his reputation on the court.

"Now even if I don't do anything, it is the same as before," he says. "My reputation remains. I don't know how to get out of it."

Ski Champ Was Attacked—Probe

Combined AP & UPI

NICE — A police investigation concluded today that former French Olympic ski champion Francois Bonlieu, 36, died after he was attacked by an unknown aggressor near the beach at Cannes.

Bonlieu was buried Wednesday at Chamonix. Young men wearing ski outfits served as pallbearders at a mountainside ceremony attended by many ski celebrities including former Olympic champion Jean-Claude Killy.

Investigators decided that somebody pushed Bonlieu against a fence at Port Canto, near the Cannes Beach, causing the seven-time French ski champion to fall down a stairway leading to a lower hillside area.

The investigators also established that the seriously injured Bonlieu had been moved from the spot where he fell, fracturing his back and skull. However, they could not discover what he had been doing during that fatal evening in Cannes.

Bonlieu was found covered with blood in the gardens of the Port Friday and died Saturday at a Nice hospital.

Baseball

LOS ANGELES — A trial date of Dec. 4 was set yesterday for Jerry Priddy, former major league baseball player accused of attempting to extort a quarter of a million dollars on threat of setting off bombs on a luxury cruise liner.

Priddy, 53, pleaded innocent Monday when he appeared before U.S. Magistrate Ralph J. Geffen. The trial date was set by U.S. District Judge Irving Hill.

The on-time second baseman for four major league baseball teams has been free on $150,000 bail since his arrest on June 5.

Priddy was accused of telephoning warnings to the Princess lines that four timed explosives were aboard the liner Island Princess off the coast of Mexico. He was arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in his offices in suburban Burbank where a "drop" of $250,000 was to be left in a trash can behind the building.

A search of the cruise ship turned up "suspicious packages." They were thrown overboard.

Hockey

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League yesterday filed a $1 million law suit against the Quebec Nordiques of the rival World Hockey Association in a dispute over a player, Serge Bernier.

In the Superior Court suit, the Kings' corporate owner, California Sports Inc., asserted Bernier agreed to play with the Kings for the 1973-74 season but now refuses, and has decided to play with Quebec.

Tennis

TORONTO — Second-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami yesterday defeated Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 in the second round of the $100,000 Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Defending champion Ilie Nastase of Romania topped Herb Fitzgibbon of New York 6-3, 6-7, 6-3 in the first round of the Eastern Tennis Open yesterday.

INDY CRASH VICTIM

Walther Ready To Race

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Less than three months after a flaming, 160-mile-per-hour crash at the Indianapolis 500 nearly took his life, "Salt" Walther is anxious to get back to "Indy."

Although just released from a 10-week stay in the hospital, Walter doesn't talk like a man who has lost all the fingertips on his left hand and is deeply scarred from severe burns.

"If everything goes right, it's possible I'll race again next year in the 500," the determined 24-year-old Walther said Wednesday in his first news conference since leaving the hospital. "When I go back to Indianapolis, it won't be as a spectator, it'll be as a driver."

Saying he was "100 per cent conscious throughout the accident," Walther insisted his car was struck from behind by another car, which touched off the accident.

"I got hit and hit pretty good," he said. "At 160 miles an hour it doesn't take much to throw you out of control. I went up in the air, my car turned over and I knew I was in trouble. I was thrown against the steering wheel and I had the imprint of the steering wheel on my chest for a month."

Walther said he did not want to publicly name the driver he believes hit him.

"I'm 99 per cent sure I know who the driver was," he said. "But I'm not going to point the finger at him. No one forced me to get in that car and there won't be anyone forcing me to get back in it again. But it just makes me so damn mad to have gone through all I did and know that I wasn't the one that made the mistake."

Walther says he still must have three operations on his left hand that has stubs for fingers. His legs still must be bandaged twice a day because of burns and his right wrist is badly scarred. His face is dotted with burn marks.

"My face mask melted," he explained. "There was one point I thought I was going to die in the hospital. I had gone unconscious and when I came to, I heard the doctors say, 'his kidneys stopped.'

As for safety changes at the 500, Walther suggested that the "engines be changed a little bit and the cars slowed down." He also agreed with some other drivers that the start of the 500 was bad.

"This year's start was kind of crummy," he said. "I did the best I could and I'm sure Harlan Fengler (the starter) did the best he could. Harlan just came out a little better than I did."

Asked if the present practice of starting cars three abreast in the 500 should be changed, Walther said it would be nice if they could enforce that rule.

"I think there were four or five cars in my row," he said. "If they could hold it to three that would be great, and if they changed it to two, that would be even better."

This was the second year for Walther in the 500 and the second time he went out on the first lap. His car had engine trouble in 1972.

Foreman, Roman Meet At Reception

Foreman and Roman surprised a gathering of some 500 at the Tokyo Prince Hotel when they refused to speak to each other and shake hands.

Roman, accompanied by manager Bill Daly, trainer Al Braverman and Gino Roman, the challenger's father, entered the reception room along with Arredondo, Kashiwaba and their managers.

Asked how he was going to make out against Foreman, Roman said "we are going to box and I am going to be the winner. I intend to stop him in the seventh or eighth rounds."

Foreman then entered the reception room, accompanied by trainer Willy Carpenter, and was given a big hand. He sat on the last chair next to the podium. His trainer-manager Dick Sadler entered a few minutes later and sat to his left.

Foreman, asked about his condition, said "I feel real good and I'll fight to keep my title." The Houston battler, however, refused to forecast any round in which he would knock out Roman. "I don't know," he said tersely.

"Roman says he will knock you out in the seventh or eighth rounds," the moderator told Foreman.

Foreman nodded and said, "okay."

"He didn't scare me," Roman said.

Sadler accompanied Foreman to his room and then returned to the reception room where he played the piano, did some tap dancing and sang to the delight of the gathering.

Moorhead Lifts British Columbia Past Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (UPI) — Quarterback Don Moorhead threw two touchdown passes in the final five minutes last night to lift the British Columbia Lions to a 23-19 win over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a Canadian Football League game.

Both offenses, which had sputtered in the first three quarters, came alive in the final quarter and scored 29 points.

Playoff, World Series Details Are Worked Out

NEW YORK (AP) — "What would happen if . . . " was the question of the day when representatives of those baseball clubs still hopeful of emerging atop their divisions yesterday met here to discuss procedures for the league championships and the World Series.

Ticket prices for the league championships, which will begin in the American League East and National League West cities, will be $7 for box seats, $5 for reserved seats and $3 for general admission. It was decided at yesterday's meeting.

Tickets for the World Series, which begins Oct. 13 in the American League city, will be $15 for boxes, $10 for reserved seats for teams given permission to begin planning for selling tickets.

Clubs involved in the preplayoff planning were Kansas City, Oakland and Minnesota in the AL West, Detroit, Baltimore, Boston, New York and Milwaukee in the AL East St. Louis, Montreal, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Philadelphia and New York in the NL East and Los Angeles, Cincinnati, San Francisco and Houston in the NL West.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said that baseball would work to have the option of night league playoffs in future years. He said this is impossible this year, although three night World Series contests are scheduled.

National League President Charles "Chub" Feeney said that in the event of a tie in a National League division, a playoff game would be held the Tuesday following the final game of the regular season.

A program was discussed which might alleviate the dollar drainage caused by unused World Series tickets. A California firm has offered to work up a test computer program which could be used for printing tickets at Yankee Stadium. The Yankees could use these tickets, on approval.

There was also discussion of preliminary plans for television coverage of both the league playoffs and of the World Series.

Kuhn noted that baseball has not resorted to the blackout poliry in telecasting its games.

"We have never felt that we needed to black out the games," said Kuhn. "However we agree with the National Football League that we should have the authority to determine if these games are going to be broadcast and I have so testified."

JOHN KLINE

Ex-Cager, Addict Runs For Office

DETROIT (UPI) — John Kline, whose storybook life has touched the heights of being a member of the Harlem Globetrotters to the struggle of escaping heroin addiction, has turned his sights toward attaining political office.

Kline, 42, a star basketball forward with Wayne State University, a finalist in the hop, step and jump event in the 1952 U.S. Olympic team, a Globetrotter from 1953 to 1959, an admitted heroin addict from 1961 to 1969, and now a drug counselor at Lafayette Clinic, is one of 115 candidates for Common Council in the Sept. 11 primary.

Kline, who became known as "Jumping Johnny Kline" with the Globetrotters, says he can help to solve Detroit's problems because "no problem is too great to overcome."

"I was a heroin addict for eight years," he said Wednesday. "The environment I grew under didn't allow me to achieve much else."

Kline, who was raised on the city's East Side, says he was short-changed as a black youth attending elementary and junior high schools.

"Basketball was like narcotics to me," he said. "It's an escape for many youths of poor background. It kept my mind off more important concerns."

An illness in 1952 prevented the 6-foot-4 Kline from participating in the Olympic games in Helsinki. He dropped out of WSU, joined the Globetrotters and completed a six-year stint in 1959. He then played basketball in the Eastern Pro League.

After an eight-year addiction, he kicked the habit, returned to Wayne, graduated with a degree in education and now feels he has special insight into the drug and poor living conditions and can cause change if in office.

"We are using most of our resources to treat drug problems, not prevent them," he said. "When you treat, you assume there is no cure for the problem. I believe in positive programs, not negative ones.

"Many citizens are alienated from government," he said. Kline says he'll help to renew the people's faith in government by keeping the community aware and involved.

"My son was becoming alienated from me because of my habit," he said. "Later, I began to worry that my son might later turn to drugs. My concern expanded to include all youths and all people."

Free Agent Cal Runner Joins 49ers

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers have added running back J.D. Smith to their squad following Smith's waiver out of the American Football Conference by the Denver Broncos.

Smith, a rookie out of California, worked out with the 49ers the first time yesterday. He gained 101 yards in 19 carries last year for Cal.

Kicker Tom Wittum, who booted three field goals for the 49ers last Sunday, says the much maligned winds at Candlestick Park don't bother him much.

"I learned to kick in the wind at Southern Illinois," said Wittum, 23, who was on the taxi squad last season. "The only difference is that the wind blows in different directions at the same time out here. I don't let it bother me."

Wittum has also proved a valuable punter, averaging 42.3 yards in 10 punts, compared with 39.8 regular punter Jim McCann has had in seven tries.

Hawaii Beats Puerto Rico In Colt Baseball

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Hawaii fought its way back into the finals of the Colt Baseball World Series Wednesday night with a 7-6 victory over Puerto Rico.

Hawaii tallied two unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh inning for their victory margin. The Hawaii starting and winning pitcher Steve Yoshihara raced home from first on a two-base error with the deciding run.

Puerto Rico bowed out of the tournament with a 2-2 record. Hawaii now is 3-1 and faces Texas with three straight wins.

FOR MARIN COUNTY BIG DEAL!!!
Actually it is kind of a big deal - cause we made a pretty good deal with this Italian producer of tires. Pirelli has always had a good name but the complete line has never been offered in Marin, let alone at Cain's prices. Now we have Michelin X the most famous steel radial in the world and a French product, Bridgestone a great Japanese steel radial, Continental a super German tire, and now we add Pirelli the most complete line of imported tires on the market.
French, Japanese, German, Italian, my grandfather imigrated from Ireland, and his son, my father 42 years with Goodyear would have a fit if they could see what the name bearer of the McAlonon Clan was doing with all these non-Irish, Non-USA built tires, God rest 'em. What with the radial market the way it is - the Europeans are up to 25 years ahead of American Radial ply tire technology and that's just the way it is.
Back to PIRELLI they make a complete line of tires . . .

HANDLING: Comparable to the best radial tires on European cars. Gives most drivers a firmer feel of the wheel and a greater sense of car control.
MILEAGE: Guaranteed for 40,000 miles without usual rotation requirements. Will wear evenly with proper car maintenance, inflation pressures and balancing.
STRENGTH: Highly resistant to punctures and most other common road hazards. Greater protection against troublesome flats and dangerous breaks and bruises.
DURABILITY: Cool running and less susceptible to blowouts and tread separations. Can be driven long distances at sustained maximum speed limits.
QUIET COMFORT: No harshness. No hum. No vibration to distrub the smooth ride of luxury cars. Actually improves riding characteristics of many cars.
ECONOMY: Dollar advantages resulting from extra tread mileage and lower gasoline consumption more than offset slightly higher initial cost. Greater overall value.

INDY CRASH VICTIM

Walther Ready To Race

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Less than three months after a flaming, 160-mile-per-hour crash at the Indianapolis 500 nearly took his life, "Salt" Walther is anxious to get back to "Indy."

Although just released from a 10-week stay in the hospital, Walter doesn't talk like a man who has lost all the fingertips on his left hand and is deeply scarred from severe burns.

"If everything goes right, it's possible I'll race again next year in the 500," the determined 24-year-old Walther said Wednesday in his first news conference since leaving the hospital. "When I go back to Indianapolis, it won't be as a spectator, it'll be as a driver."

Walther described the first-lap crash which spun his car and tossed it into the air in the 160-mile-per-hour flying start.

Saying he was "100 per cent conscious throughout the accident," Walther insisted his car was struck from behind by another car, which touched off the accident.

"I got hit and hit pretty good," he said. "At 160 miles an hour it doesn't take much to throw you out of control. I went up in the air, my car turned over and I knew I was in trouble. I was thrown against the steering wheel and I had the imprint of the steering wheel on my chest for a month."

Walther said he did not want to publicly name the driver he believes hit him.

"I'm 99 per cent sure I know who the driver was," he said. "But I'm not going to point the finger at him. No one forced me to get in that car and there won't be anyone forcing me to get back in it again. But it just makes me so damn mad to have gone through all I did and know that I wasn't the one that made the mistake."

Walther says he still must have three operations on his left hand that has stubs for fingers. His legs still must be bandaged twice a day because of burns and his right wrist is badly scarred. His face is dotted with burn marks.

"My face mask melted," he explained. "There was one point I thought I was going to die in the hospital. I had gone unconscious and when I came to, I heard the doctors say, 'his kidneys stopped.'

"Now I know when your kidneys stop, you don't last too long."

As for safety changes at the 500, Walther suggested that the "engines be changed a little bit and the cars slowed down." He also agreed with some other drivers that the start of the 500 was bad.

"This year's start was kind of crummy," he said. "I did the best I could and I'm sure Harlan Fengler (the starter) did the best he could. Harlan just came out a little better than I did."

Asked if the present practice of starting cars three abreast in the 500 should be changed, Walther said it would be nice if they could enforce that rule.

"I think there were four or five cars in my row," he said. "If they could hold it to three that would be great, and if they changed it to two, that would be even better."

This was the second year for Walther in the 500 and the second time he went out on the first lap. His car had engine trouble in 1972.

Actually it is kind of a big deal - cause we made a pretty good deal with this Italian producer of tires. Pirelli has always had a good name but the complete line has never been offered in Marin, let alone at Cain's prices. Now we have Michelin X the most famous steel radial in the world and a French product, Bridgestone a great Japanese steel radial, Continental a super German tire, and now we add Pirelli the most complete line of imported tires on the market.
French, Japanese, German, Italian, my grandfather imigrated from Ireland, and his son, my father 42 years with Goodyear would have a fit if they could see what the name bearer of the McAlonon Clan was doing with all these non-Irish, Non-USA built tires, God rest 'em. What with the radial market the way it is - the Europeans are up to 25 years ahead of American Radial ply tire technology and that's just the way it is.
Back to PIRELLI they make a complete line of tires . . .

CINTURATO CN 75 STEEL *BELTED RADIAL TIRE Performance superiority
HANDLING: Comparable to the best radial tires on European cars. Gives most drivers a firmer feel of the wheel and a greater sense of car control.
MILEAGE: Guaranteed for 40,000 miles without usual rotation requirements. Will wear evenly with proper car maintenance, inflation pressures and balancing.
STRENGTH: Highly resistant to punctures and most other common road hazards. Greater protection against troublesome flats and dangerous breaks and bruises.
DURABILITY: Cool running and less susceptible to blowouts and tread separations. Can be driven long distances at sustained maximum speed limits.
QUIET COMFORT: No harshness. No hum. No vibration to distrub the smooth ride of luxury cars. Actually improves riding characteristics of many cars.
ECONOMY: Dollar advantages resulting from extra tread mileage and lower gasoline consumption more than offset slightly higher initial cost. Greater overall value.
The Pirelli CN75 is made for and tuned for all American Cars.

'Hammer' Strikes Again

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The big "Hammer" struck again in Atlanta last night as Hank Aaron unloaded homer No. 705 and moved within 10 of surpassing Babe Ruth's magic mark of 714.

And in New York, the little "Hammer" continued his clutch hitting, too, as John Milner drove in the winning run for the second straight night to lead the New York Mets over the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

Aaron's homer came in a losing effort as the Atlanta Braves bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4.

Milner, who doesn't like sharing a nickname with a player of Aaron's stature and admits, "Hank Aaron is in a class by himself and I just want to be known as John Milner," delivered a two-out single to drive in Felix Millan from second base with the game-winner.

Tuesday night Milner came to bat in an almost identical situation and won the game with a two-out, ninth inning single. The victory, the Mets' fifth in their last seven games, went to Tug McGraw, the ace reliever who has struggled all season long.

"It's good to get the first one, even if it is at the end of August," said McGraw, who gained his first victory after six losses. "I've been throwing the ball much better lately. Tonight I was super relaxed and I really felt great."

In other National League games, Pittsburgh blanked Houston 4-0, Chicago edged Cincinnati 6-5, San Francisco downed Montreal 3-2 and San Diego beat Philadelphia 8-3.

Felix Millan, who had singled in the tying run in the ninth, scored the winner from second base on Milner's line single but had to flatten catcher Steve Yeager, who was blocking the plate, to get home safely. The Dodgers had taken the lead in the seventh on Willie Davis' sacrifice fly.

While Aaron, who has hit four home runs in the past six days, moved a step closer to the record, it was a two-run homer by pinch-hitter Jose Cruz in the ninth inning that lifted the Cardinals past the Braves. Baseballs were flying out of Atlanta Stadium all night long as Dave Johnson (34), Ted Sizemore (1), and Joe Torre (12) all homered earlier in the game.

Bob Moose hurled a six-hit shutout to lead the Pirates over the Astros. Moose didn't walk a batter as he raised his record to 8-12. The victory kept the Pirates within 1 ½ games of the first place Cardinals in the tight Eastern race.

Paul Popovich hit his first homer of the season, a three-run blast in the fourth inning, as the Cubs held off the Reds despite solo homers by Dan Driessen and Johnny Bench. Popovich's homer capped a five-run outburst set up by a costly error by shortstop Darrel Chaney.

Fred Kendall belted two triples, a double and a single and drove in three runs to lead the Padres past the Phillies. Steve Arlin pitched a seven-hitter in going the route for San Diego to raise his record to 9-11. Steve Carlton was tagged with his 15 defeat against 11 wins.

New Orleans Stadium Work Investigated

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Gov. Edwin Edwards said Wednesday possible fraud may have been involved in the deletion of essential items from the $129.5 million New Orleans Domed Stadium, now under construction.

The commission that supervises the controversial stadium, which is about half complete, told Edwards last week an additional $8 million would be needed to install items such as private box seats and other essentials in the arena.

The Louisiana Legislature set a $129.5 million ceiling on the sale of bonds for construction of the multi-purpose stadium in downtown New Orleans.

"If a group of people, or one person, looked at this thing and said 'Alright, the legislature has said we can't spend more than $129.5 million, therefore, to get around that we're going to leave off an elevator, and boxes and carpets and 10,000 seats in order to get the bids under the $129.5 million,' if that was a known, planned and advanced scheme, then it constitutes fraud," Edwards said.

He further explained it as "fraud in the sense that it was a deliberate attempt to circumvent the will of the legislature."

Edwards said he had no intention of approving the expenditure of the $8 million until he determined who was responsible for deletion of the items.

"I want to find out who is responsible," he said. "Somebody deliberately or mistakenly underestimated what we were going to need for the stadium."

The stadium, which sponsors say will be the world's largest indoor sports stadium, became a politically controversial item almost as soon as it was approved.

Original cost of the arena was estimated to be $35 million. But the costs kept rising and the whole project ws almost scrapped by the legislature.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Baltimore Seems Headed For Berth In Playoffs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As the Baltimore Orioles, riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak, widen the gap between themselves and the rest of the American League East and appear headed for a playoff berth, it doesn't seem too farfetched to consider them as being part of a dynasty.

No doubt the term "dynasty" is much abused and overused in sports but the Orioles hold strong credentials for the phrase once associated with the New York Yankees in baseball, the Green Bay Packers in football and the Boston Celtics in basketball.

Three-years straight, 1969-71, Baltimore played in the World Series. If they win the AL pennant this year, it will be their fourth in the last five years and fifth in the last eight.

But the Orioles today are aware that they have a stiff reputation to live up to in previous Oriole teams which featured the outstanding play of Frank Robinson.

"Those were powerful clubs, 1969-71, when we had Robinson and Powell literally running clubs out of the park with their home run bats," said Paul Blair who has been with the team since late in 1964, after a 4-3 victory over Minnesota last night. "This club today is one that depends on finesse. We have to win games with our defense, pitching and speed. With the younger players we have right now we are capable of doing this for years to come."

"Basically we are lacking the home run ball in frequency," said Mark Belanger, who was a rookie the year of the 1966 pennant. "But our attitude and pride as a team and as individuals remains remarkably the same as it did in our pennant string."

Brooks Robinson, for years the golden glove at third base, made another contribution with his bat to help Baltimore stretch its streak to 10 games with the victory over the Twins. Robinson, who rapped his 2,500th career hit earlier this week, hit a bases-loaded single in the first inning to help Mike Cuellar even his record at 12-12.

Minnesota moved out to a 3-0 lead in the first before Robinson's hit keyed a rally that tied the game and Baltimore scored the winning run in the fifth inning when Al Bumbry singled, went to third on a Rich Coggins' single and scored when Tommy Davis bounced into a double play.

In other American League games, Cleveland nipped Chicago 1-0 in 12 innings, Boston edged Texas 9-8, Kansas City beat New York 8-7 in 10 innings, Oakland tripped Detroit 7-3 and California nicked Milwaukee 5-4 in 10 innings.

Fred Patek's two-out runscoring single in the 10th inning lifted Kansas City over New York. Lou Piniella was safe on an error and took second on a sacrifice before Patek's hit.

Tommy Harper and Luis Aparicio combined to drive in five runs and spark Boston to a 9-0 lead but the Red Sox had to choke off a late Texas rally to preserve their victory. It was the sixth straight win for Boston and the 13th loss for Texas in its last 14 games.

Self Confidence Is Sought By Oilers Tonight Vs. Cowboys

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's billed as the Battle of Texas but it's more a battle for self-confidence as far as the Houston Oilers are concerned.

The Oilers play host to the Dallas Cowboys tonight for the "Governor's Cup" trophy in National Football League preseason action but more importantly, Oiler Coach Bill Peterson is looking to finally establish a winning attitude.

Winning is something unfamiliar to the Oilers.

Houston won only once last season and the Oilers have lost all three pre-season games this year.

Peterson and new General Manager Sid Gillman cleaned house after last season and it's been difficult getting all the new people to work together.

"Houston is playing under its potential at this point," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And I mean no criticism by that. But they must have 25 or 30 new players on that team and to try to make them jell all at once is very tough."

Roger Staubach will start at quarterback for Dallas (2-1) as Landry tries to make his annual quarterback decision between Staubach and Craig Morton. Dan Pastorini will quarterback the Oilers.

In other NFL action this weekend, Cincinnati is at Detroit and Los Angeles is at Miami on Friday night while on Saturday, Atlanta plays Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland meets Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis.

In news from the camps Wednesday, Miami traded third-string quarterback Jim DelGaizo to Green Bay for second round draft choices in 1974 and 1975. DelGaizo, a talented left-hander who was lost behind Bob Griese and Earl Morrall at Miami, had asked Coach Don Shula to be traded. He will battle Scott Hunter and Jerry Tagge at Green Bay.

Running back John Riggins, the Jets' Most Valuable Player last season, reported to camp Wednesday night, five weeks late. Riggins refused to report until his contract dispute was settled but relented and will work out while still negotiating.

Quarterback Joe Namath, who suffered an elbow injury last Sunday, threw well Wednesday and will start against the Cardinals Saturday night.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, announced that 10-year veteran defensive end Don Brumm has retired.

Archie Manning was listed as a doubtful starter at quarterback for New Orleans Saturday against the Patriots. Manning, who ran every offensive play for the Saints last season, has a hip injury.

Superior Court Judge David A. Thomas will decide today on Lance Rentzel's suit against the NFL. Judge Thomas took under submission Wednesday arguments in a suit filed by the Rams' wide receiver to nullify his suspension by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rentzel was suspended after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana. The case has been appealed. He is seeking a preliminary injunction against the suspension.

No doubt the term "dynasty" is much abused and overused in sports but the Orioles hold strong credentials for the phrase once associated with the New York Yankees in baseball, the Green Bay Packers in football and the Boston Celtics in basketball.

Three-years straight, 1969-71, Baltimore played in the World Series. If they win the AL pennant this year, it will be their fourth in the last five years and fifth in the last eight.

But the Orioles today are aware that they have a stiff reputation to live up to in previous Oriole teams which featured the outstanding play of Frank Robinson.

"Those were powerful clubs, 1969-71, when we had Robinson and Powell literally running clubs out of the park with their home run bats," said Paul Blair who has been with the team since late in 1964, after a 4-3 victory over Minnesota last night. "This club today is one that depends on finesse. We have to win games with our defense, pitching and speed. With the younger players we have right now we are capable of doing this for years to come."

"Basically we are lacking the home run ball in frequency," said Mark Belanger, who was a rookie the year of the 1966 pennant. "But our attitude and pride as a team and as individuals remains remarkably the same as it did in our pennant string."

Brooks Robinson, for years the golden glove at third base, made another contribution with his bat to help Baltimore stretch its streak to 10 games with the victory over the Twins. Robinson, who rapped his 2,500th career hit earlier this week, hit a bases-loaded single in the first inning to help Mike Cuellar even his record at 12-12.

Minnesota moved out to a 3-0 lead in the first before Robinson's hit keyed a rally that tied the game and Baltimore scored the winning run in the fifth inning when Al Bumbry singled, went to third on a Rich Coggins' single and scored when Tommy Davis bounced into a double play.

Baltimore now leads Boston by 4 games and Detroit by 4 ½ games.

In other American League games, Cleveland nipped Chicago 1-0 in 12 innings, Boston edged Texas 9-8, Kansas City beat New York 8-7 in 10 innings, Oakland tripped Detroit 7-3 and California nicked Milwaukee 5-4 in 10 innings.

Buddy Bell sprinted home from first base on Walt Williams' bunt single and Bill Melton's throwing error in the 12th inning as Cleveland defeated Chicago. Gaylord Perry went all 12 innings for his 14th win.

Fred Patek's two-out runscoring single in the 10th inning lifted Kansas City over New York. Lou Piniella was safe on an error and took second on a sacrifice before Patek's hit.

Tommy Harper and Luis Aparicio combined to drive in five runs and spark Boston to a 9-0 lead but the Red Sox had to choke off a late Texas rally to preserve their victory. It was the sixth straight win for Boston and the 13th loss for Texas in its last 14 games.

Self Confidence Is Sought By Oilers Tonight Vs. Cowboys

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's billed as the Battle of Texas but it's more a battle for self-confidence as far as the Houston Oilers are concerned.

The Oilers play host to the Dallas Cowboys tonight for the "Governor's Cup" trophy in National Football League preseason action but more importantly, Oiler Coach Bill Peterson is looking to finally establish a winning attitude.

Winning is something unfamiliar to the Oilers.

Houston won only once last season and the Oilers have lost all three pre-season games this year.

Peterson and new General Manager Sid Gillman cleaned house after last season and it's been difficult getting all the new people to work together.

"Houston is playing under its potential at this point," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And I mean no criticism by that. But they must have 25 or 30 new players on that team and to try to make them jell all at once is very tough."

Roger Staubach will start at quarterback for Dallas (2-1) as Landry tries to make his annual quarterback decision between Staubach and Craig Morton. Dan Pastorini will quarterback the Oilers.

In other NFL action this weekend, Cincinnati is at Detroit and Los Angeles is at Miami on Friday night while on Saturday, Atlanta plays Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland meets Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis.

In news from the camps Wednesday, Miami traded third-string quarterback Jim DelGaizo to Green Bay for second round draft choices in 1974 and 1975. DelGaizo, a talented left-hander who was lost behind Bob Griese and Earl Morrall at Miami, had asked Coach Don Shula to be traded. He will battle Scott Hunter and Jerry Tagge at Green Bay.

Running back John Riggins, the Jets' Most Valuable Player last season, reported to camp Wednesday night, five weeks late. Riggins refused to report until his contract dispute was settled but relented and will work out while still negotiating.

Quarterback Joe Namath, who suffered an elbow injury last Sunday, threw well Wednesday and will start against the Cardinals Saturday night.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, announced that 10-year veteran defensive end Don Brumm has retired.

Archie Manning was listed as a doubtful starter at quarterback for New Orleans Saturday against the Patriots. Manning, who ran every offensive play for the Saints last season, has a hip injury.

Superior Court Judge David A. Thomas will decide today on Lance Rentzel's suit against the NFL. Judge Thomas took under submission Wednesday arguments in a suit filed by the Rams' wide receiver to nullify his suspension by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rentzel was suspended after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana. The case has been appealed. He is seeking a preliminary injunction against the suspension.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Pollution Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing existing facilities up to present pollution-control standards could cost American business $22.3 billion, or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year, according to McGraw-Hill's 6th Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

NEW DODGE VAN

A new sliding door option is available on 1974 Dodge compact vans. Compacts also feature a redesigned grille, broader selection of exterior colors and interior trims. Marin dealers are Francisco Dodge Center in San Rafael and Nave Dodge in Novato.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Widow Told That Her Holding Investment Company Is Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 800 shares of Investment Company of America. I have been told this fund is among the best. Do you think I — a retired widow — should hold this investment? — E.R.

A. In spite of its size — about $1.5 billion in total assets — ICA has been an excellent performer. In bear markets, asset value declines have been kept below those of an average of all funds and in bull markets performance has been above average. Thus, in the 1968-72, 5-year period net asset value rose 45 per cent versus a 24 per cent gain in the fund average. The shares are currently yielding 3.1 per cent from indicated income dividends. Security profits of 47 cents a share were distributed in 1972.

The company's portfolio is concentrated in high-quality listed securities. The expense ratio is low, approximately 0.5 per cent of net assets. This fund is well suited to your needs and should be retained.

Q. I will be 80 in January and am selling out my small business. I would like to put this money to work for me in the right way. What would you suggest? — L.S.

A. Protection of principal and income are probably the most important considerations at your age. A balanced portfolio, including both bonds and high-yield common stocks, is thus the most suitable investment program under the circumstances.

Since I have no way of knowing how much capital is involved, I am unable to give specific dollar amounts. However, if you net $30,000, an even division of your funds between bonds and stocks is desirable. If you have $50,000, $30,000 in bonds and $20,000 in stocks is indicated. Diversification among three industrial groups seems advisable with issues such as Chemical New York Corp. (NYSE) a bank, Cleveland Electric Illuminating (NYSE) a utility, and Southern Pacific (NYSE) a railroad, entirely suitable for your portfolio.

Two excellent bonds, both rated A, are: Avco Financial Services 8⅞s of 1977 and Gen. Telephone Company Florida 9¾s of 2000. In each case, current yield is just below 9 per cent.

Stocks Rise As Bargain Hunt Begins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices rose sharply in light trading today on the New York Stock Exchange, with investors bargain hunting following several weeks of steady declines.

Much of the buying interest, analysts said, stemmed from selective bargain-hunting following the market's recent weakness.

Some buying, however, might have been encouraged by two weeks of steady advances by the dollar on overseas markets. The currency moved sharply higher today at Paris, Frankfurt, London and other exchanges.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange moved ahead broadly in slow trading. TWA warrants led the actives, up ⅛ to 5 on turnover of 16,200.

On the Big Board, Polaroid advanced 4, after sliding 11 ⅞ Wednesday.

DOW JONES AVERAGES

Dan Weiss Studio Opens To Provide Art For Wall Space

Dan Weiss Studio, a new firm that provides paintings and modular art for architectural wall spaces (both offices and homes), just opened in San Rafael at 26 Medway, No. 14, behind Bellach's Furniture. William Hoey Company arranged the lease of space for the studio.

Owner of the business is Daniel Weiss, 22, of 56 Dorian Way in San Rafael, who applies three-dimensional art of different colors and shapes to large wall spaces. Depending on the type of wall and the surrounding environment, Weiss uses canvass or construction material such as redwood, steel, copper or concrete. He also specializes in the ancient art of sandblasting glass in beautiful patterns for table tops and large windows.

Weiss also rents paintings with option to buy to customers who do not want to make an immediate purchase.

The young artist graduated from San Rafael High School in 1969 and attended the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, from which he graduated last year. He has been doing large wall paintings and murals for about four years.

His largest work thus far is a mural 94 feet long and 11 feet tall in an office building at Sunnyside and Blithedale Avenues in Mill Valley.

BON-SOL VINTNERS in San Francisco announced the appointment of MARK DOLIN of Fairfax to its staff and the promotion of DALE ANDERSON of San Rafael.

Anderson

Dolin

Dolin, formerly designer-production manager for a New York design company and art director for a San Francisco advertising company, was named art director for Bon-Sol.

Anderson, former assistant to the director of marketing for Bon-Sol, was promoted to assistant product manager.

PETER ROHRER of Novato, newly elected president of the Marin Association of Life Underwriters for 1973-74, will attend the national meeting of the Life Underwriters Association in Chicago next month.

The public service projects included a picnic for children from various social service centers in the county as well as $2,650 in "seed" money to start the Marin County Drunk Driving School in cooperation with the National Council on Alcoholism. The drunk driving school operates like a traffic school, in which the court requires attendance as part of the sentence. The project has become completely self-supporting, and the "seed" money has been repaid from the fines assessed.

Smedt

LEO C. SMEDT of Mill Valley was appointed controller of Bay View Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Smedt came to Bay View after 23 years of accounting experience including 11 years with Colonial Savings where he was controller. He is active in Mill Valley Little League.

CLOTHES FREAK, which offers "fashion clothes at discount," will open an office and a wholesale outlet next month at 19-N Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio.

Norman and Donna Kramer of Marinwood, who established Clothes Freak in San Francisco two years ago, now have three stores in operation — on Grant Avenue, at Fisherman's Wharf and at the Cliff House, all in San Francisco. Another one is scheduled to open Sept. 1 on Telegraph Avenue in Berkeley.

The Marin location at Hamilton Industrial Park will be the headquarters office and will open to the public about mid-September as a wholesale shop. Mrs. Kramer said the Marin shop will be open three or four days a week, selling chic clothing of junior and misses sizes.

RON MEEHAN of San Rafael was appointed reservations sales manager for P&O, the British Cruise Line, San Francisco. He has been with the company for 17 years.

Meehan will supervise new P&O procedures for booking passages which will facilitate the travel agent's function. Part of the program will include sending out tickets before collection of full fares, much more accurate accounting procedures, and an improved package of pre-embarkation information.

LEE C. OSTER of San Rafael, purchasing agent at American Forest Products Corporation in San Francisco, was promoted to manager of the newly created offices services department. PATRICIA A. YETTER of Fairfax, formerly assistant to Oster, will succeed him as purchasing agent.

WILLIAM R. KIMBALL of Kentfield has been elected to the board of directors of The Clorox Company, Oakland, President Robert B. Shetterly announced.

Kimball is president of the San Francisco firm of Kimball and Company, which specializes in corporate diversification, mergers and acquisitions.

JOAN ECKERT, secretary-treasurer of Eckert & Associates Inc. Realtors at Montecito Shopping Center in San Rafael, has just passed the real estate broker's examination.

Mrs. Eckert, the former Joan Brummel, and R. J. (Bud) Eckert were married on July 4 this year.

Suit Filed

HAYWARD (BW) — Shaklee Corp. has filed suit against EOPA Co. Inc. (formerly Boericke & Runyon), its sole supplier of food supplements, charging that the supplier's performance was deteriorated to an unacceptable point. The suit asks declaratory relief, recision and damages.

Pollution Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing existing facilities up to present pollution-control standards could cost American business $22.3 billion, or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year, according to McGraw-Hill's 6th Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

NEW DODGE VAN

A new sliding door option is available on 1974 Dodge compact vans. Compacts also feature a redesigned grille, broader selection of exterior colors and interior trims. Marin dealers are Francisco Dodge Center in San Rafael and Nave Dodge in Novato.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Widow Told That Her Holding Investment Company Is Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 800 shares of Investment Company of America. I have been told this fund is among the best. Do you think I — a retired widow — should hold this investment? — E.R.

A. In spite of its size — about $1.5 billion in total assets — ICA has been an excellent performer. In bear markets, asset value declines have been kept below those of an average of all funds and in bull markets performance has been above average. Thus, in the 1968-72, 5-year period net asset value rose 45 per cent versus a 24 per cent gain in the fund average. The shares are currently yielding 3.1 per cent from indicated income dividends. Security profits of 47 cents a share were distributed in 1972.

The company's portfolio is concentrated in high-quality listed securities. The expense ratio is low, approximately 0.5 per cent of net assets. This fund is well suited to your needs and should be retained.

Q. I will be 80 in January and am selling out my small business. I would like to put this money to work for me in the right way. What would you suggest? — L.S.

A. Protection of principal and income are probably the most important considerations at your age. A balanced portfolio, including both bonds and high-yield common stocks, is thus the most suitable investment program under the circumstances.

Since I have no way of knowing how much capital is involved, I am unable to give specific dollar amounts. However, if you net $30,000, an even division of your funds between bonds and stocks is desirable. If you have $50,000, $30,000 in bonds and $20,000 in stocks is indicated. Diversification among three industrial groups seems advisable with issues such as Chemical New York Corp. (NYSE) a bank, Cleveland Electric Illuminating (NYSE) a utility, and Southern Pacific (NYSE) a railroad, entirely suitable for your portfolio.

Two excellent bonds, both rated A, are: Avco Financial Services 8 7/8s of 1977 and Gen. Telephone Company Florida 9 3/4s of 2000. In each case, current yield is just below 9 per cent.

Stocks Rise As Bargain Hunt Begins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices rose sharply in light trading today on the New York Stock Exchange, with investors bargain hunting following several weeks of steady declines.

Much of the buying interest, analysts said, stemmed from selective bargain-hunting following the market's recent weakness.

Some buying, however, might have been encouraged by two weeks of steady advances by the dollar on overseas markets. The currency moved sharply higher today at Paris, Frankfurt, London and other exchanges.

Leading the actives, Southern Co. added 1/8 to 16 3/8 on 105,900 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange moved ahead broadly in slow trading. TWA warrants led the actives, up 1/8 to 5 on turnover of 16,200.

On the Big Board, Polaroid advanced 4, after sliding 11 7/8 Wednesday.

Dan Weiss Studio Opens To Provide Art For Wall Space

Dan Weiss Studio, a new firm that provides paintings and modular art for architectural wall spaces (both offices and homes), just opened in San Rafael at 26 Medway, No. 14, behind Bellach's Furniture. William Hoey Company arranged the lease of space for the studio.

Owner of the business is Daniel Weiss, 22, of 56 Dorian Way in San Rafael, who applies three-dimensional art of different colors and shapes to large wall spaces. Depending on the type of wall and the surrounding environment, Weiss uses canvass or construction material such as redwood, steel, copper or concrete. He also specializes in the ancient art of sandblasting glass in beautiful patterns for table tops and large windows.

Weiss also rents paintings with option to buy to customers who do not want to make an immediate purchase.

The young artist graduated from San Rafael High School in 1969 and attended the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, from which he graduated last year. He has been doing large wall paintings and murals for about four years.

His largest work thus far is a mural 94 feet long and 11 feet tall in an office building at Sunnyside and Blithedale Avenues in Mill Valley.

BON-SOL VINTNERS in San Francisco announced the appointment of MARK DOLIN of Fairfax to its staff and the promotion of DALE ANDERSON of San Rafael.

Anderson

Dolin

Dolin, formerly designer-production manager for a New York design company and art director for a San Francisco advertising company, was named art director for Bon-Sol.

Anderson, former assistant to the director of marketing for Bon-Sol, was promoted to assistant product manager.

Bon-Sol Vintners is a new Joseph E. Seagram wine marketing company that imports a variety of moderately priced wines.

PETER ROHRER of Novato, newly elected president of the Marin Association of Life Underwriters for 1973-74, will attend the national meeting of the Life Underwriters Association in Chicago next month.

At that meeting, the Marin Association will receive an award for outstanding public service projects during the past year.

The public service projects included a picnic for children from various social service centers in the county as well as $2,650 in "seed" money to start the Marin County Drunk Driving School in cooperation with the National Council on Alcoholism. The drunk driving school operates like a traffic school, in which the court requires attendance as part of the sentence. The project has become completely self-supporting, and the "seed" money has been repaid from the fines assessed.

Smedt

LEO C. SMEDT of Mill Valley was appointed controller of Bay View Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Smedt came to Bay View after 23 years of accounting experience including 11 years with Colonial Savings where he was controller. He is active in Mill Valley Little League.

CLOTHES FREAK, which offers "fashion clothes at discount," will open an office and a wholesale outlet next month at 19-N Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio.

Norman and Donna Kramer of Marinwood, who established Clothes Freak in San Francisco two years ago, now have three stores in operation — on Grant Avenue, at Fisherman's Wharf and at the Cliff House, all in San Francisco. Another one is scheduled to open Sept. 1 on Telegraph Avenue in Berkeley.

The Marin location at Hamilton Industrial Park will be the headquarters office and will open to the public about mid-September as a wholesale shop. Mrs. Kramer said the Marin shop will be open three or four days a week, selling chic clothing of junior and misses sizes.

RON MEEHAN of San Rafael was appointed reservations sales manager for P&O, the British Cruise Line, San Francisco. He has been with the company for 17 years.

Meehan will supervise new P&O procedures for booking passages which will facilitate the travel agent's function. Part of the program will include sending out tickets before collection of full fares, much more accurate accounting procedures, and an improved package of pre-embarkation information.

LEE C. OSTER of San Rafael, purchasing agent at American Forest Products Corporation in San Francisco, was promoted to manager of the newly created offices services department. PATRICIA A. YETTER of Fairfax, formerly assistant to Oster, will succeed him as purchasing agent.

WILLIAM R. KIMBALL of Kentfield has been elected to the board of directors of The Clorox Company, Oakland, President Robert B. Shetterly announced.

Kimball is president of the San Francisco firm of Kimball and Company, which specializes in corporate diversification, mergers and acquisitions.

JOAN ECKERT, secretary-treasurer of Eckert & Associates Inc. Realtors at Montecito Shopping Center in San Rafael, has just passed the real estate broker's examination.

Mrs. Eckert, the former Joan Brummel, and R. J. (Bud) Eckert were married on July 4 this year.

Suit Filed

HAYWARD (BW) — Shaklee Corp. has filed suit against EOPA Co. Inc. (formerly Boericke & Runyon), its sole supplier of food supplements, charging that the supplier's performance was deteriorated to an unacceptable point. The suit asks declaratory relief, recision and damages.

Auto Costs Will Keep Increasing

DETROIT (UPI) — The cost of buying, owning and operating a car—like just about everything else—is going up.

The operating costs have risen 14 per cent in the last four years and automakers are planning new price hikes on the 1974 models that go on sale in September.

Ford is seeking the highest boost—an average $106 per car and truck—with American Motors looking for the smallest hike, $55. Chrysler will charge an average $71 more for its 1974 models while General Motors will shift its 1974 prices up by $102.

And that's not the end of the price spiral this year. While the first set of price increases will be blamed on the addition of safety equipment, mainly the new seat belt-ignition interlock, the automakers will be back in Washington later this year to seek increases to cover the higher costs of paying their workers and suppliers.

With the trend toward small cars growing, the American Automobile Association recently put together some figures that show they really are more economical.

The report shows the total per-mile operating cost for an eight-cylinder, standard/size car equipped with automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes and radio came to 5.25 cents.

For an intermediate car similarly equipped the cost was 4.95 cents per mile, and for a compact equipped with radio and automatic transmission, the cost came to 4.2 cents per mile.

When you figure in the fixed costs (insurance, depreciation and license fees), the average motorist in a standard-sized car will shell out $1,647 in 1973 if he drives about 10,000 miles. That's a rise of approximately $200 in the last four years and comes to about 16.5 cents a mile, says AAA.

Total costs for an intermediate would be $218 lower than the standard model and $430 less for the compact.

While the costs of owning and operating all cars are going up, automakers contend that today's automobile still is a bargain. It takes a worker less time now to earn the money for a new car than for a comparable automobile 10 years ago, they say.

A 1963 Falcon two-door sedan with automatic transmission, radio and whitewall tires had a list price of $2,321.90. The average median family income that year was $6,249 and it took 37 per cent of that median yearly income to buy the Falcon—Ford's small car.

Since 1963, the Falcon has disappeared. It grew bigger and bigger and finally had no market. In its place, Ford put the Maverick. It's larger than the sub-compact Pinto and the most closely comparable to the Falcon.

The 1973 Maverick two-door sedan with automatic transmissions, radio and white wall tires lists at $2,538. That's $216.10 more than the Falcon cost 10 years ago. But there have been some changes.

Under government orders, the automakers have added seat and shoulder belts, backup lights, padded dash and visors, electric wipers, headrests, emission control devices, emergency flasher systems, outside rear view mirror and inside non-glare mirror as well as many unseen safety items.

The average family median income is now about $11,300. It took 23 per cent of that to purchase the 1973 Maverick rather than the 37 per cent to buy the Falcon 10 years ago.

"Value for the dollar is an important factor in the consumer's purchasing process," says John B. Naughton, Ford vice president for sales. "Today's automobile is actually quite a bargain."

He might get an argument, however, from many of the nation's motorists who find their gas tanks emptying at a fast rate because of the emissions control equipment ordered by the federal government.

There's been a significant reduction since 1970 when cars averaged 14 miles per gallon.

The current Chevrolet, for example, has grown seven inches in length and added 502 pounds since 1968.

But General Motors expects to reverse the trend of the last five years when it introduces its 1975-model cars in the fall of 1974. Tests have shown the fuel economy of one model has decreased during the last five years from 13.7 miles per gallon to 10.5 m.p.g. in city driving.

The addition of the catalytic converter, a muffler-like device with chemicals that convert harmful emissions into harmless gases and water, should bring mileage back up to 12.8 m.p.g. for that model.

"The great advantage of the catalytic converter for exhaust emission control is that the engine can be tuned to achieve better fuel economy while the converter keeps the system in compliance with emission standards," says Dr. Craig Marks, a technical assistant to the vice president of the GM Engineering Staff.

"Although all of our cars may not experience this gain," says Marks, "we hope, across our product line to approach the pre-control, 1968 fuel economy levels."

Quarantine Sign Will Be Removed

A controversial quarantine sign on Bolinas-Olema Road, the object of citizens' objections since it was erected last Thursday, will be taken down, the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board decided last night.

After hearing complaints from about 20 persons, the board voted 4-1 to remove the four by eight foot metal sign that warns of possible dangers from contact with polluted waters at Bolinas Beach and Lagoon. Director Paul Kayfetz cast the dissenting vote.

A second sign, strung over the road at the entrance to the village, had been removed Saturday after several residents claimed it discouraged visitors from entering the town.

Directors decided to sell both signs as "collector's items" to the highest bidders, according to board clerk Lymon Robinson. Each cost $115 to make. Bids will be opened Sept. 5.

Directors also referred annexation requests from nine property owners in the Mesa Road section near Bolinas to the county counsel for study and to initiate annexation procedures. The action does not bind the board to annex the area, however, Robinson said.

Directors announced that voters will be asked to approve the purchase of 95 acres on Bolinas Mesa for a sewage treatment plant in the November election. Purchase price of the land is $250,000.

The first major oil field in California was discovered near Santa Paula in 1866.

Auto Costs Will Keep Increasing

DETROIT (UPI) — The cost of buying, owning and operating a car—like just about everything else—is going up.

The operating costs have risen 14 per cent in the last four years and automakers are planning new price hikes on the 1974 models that go on sale in September.

Ford is seeking the highest boost—an average $106 per car and truck—with American Motors looking for the smallest hike, $55. Chrysler will charge an average $71 more for its 1974 models while General Motors will shift its 1974 prices up by $102.

And that's not the end of the price spiral this year. While the first set of price increases will be blamed on the addition of safety equipment, mainly the new seat belt-ignition interlock, the automakers will be back in Washington later this year to seek increases to cover the higher costs of paying their workers and suppliers.

With the trend toward small cars growing, the American Automobile Association recently put together some figures that show they really are more economical.

The report shows the total per-mile operating cost for an eight-cylinder, standard/size car equipped with automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes and radio came to 5.25 cents.

For an intermediate car similarly equipped the cost was 4.95 cents per mile, and for a compact equipped with radio and automatic transmission, the cost came to 4.2 cents per mile.

When you figure in the fixed costs (insurance, depreciation and license fees), the average motorist in a standard-sized car will shell out $1,647 in 1973 if he drives about 10,000 miles. That's a rise of approximately $200 in the last four years and comes to about 16.5 cents a mile, says AAA.

Total costs for an intermediate would be $218 lower than the standard model and $430 less for the compact.

While the costs of owning and operating all cars are going up, automakers contend that today's automobile still is a bargain. It takes a worker less time now to earn the money for a new car than for a comparable automobile 10 years ago, they say.

Ford provides some statistics on how prices have changed in 10 years.

A 1963 Falcon two-door sedan with automatic transmission, radio and whitewall tires had a list price of $2,321.90. The average median family income that year was $6,249 and it took 37 per cent of that median yearly income to buy the Falcon—Ford's small car.

Since 1963, the Falcon has disappeared. It grew bigger and bigger and finally had no market. In its place, Ford put the Maverick. It's larger than the sub-compact Pinto and the most closely comparable to the Falcon.

The 1973 Maverick two-door sedan with automatic transmissions, radio and white wall tires lists at $2,538. That's $216.10 more than the Falcon cost 10 years ago. But there have been some changes.

Under government orders, the automakers have added seat and shoulder belts, backup lights, padded dash and visors, electric wipers, headrests, emission control devices, emergency flasher systems, outside rear view mirror and inside non-glare mirror as well as many unseen safety items.

The average family median income is now about $11,300. It took 23 per cent of that to purchase the 1973 Maverick rather than the 37 per cent to buy the Falcon 10 years ago.

"Value for the dollar is an important factor in the consumer's purchasing process," says John B. Naughton, Ford vice president for sales. "Today's automobile is actually quite a bargain."

He might get an argument, however, from many of the nation's motorists who find their gas tanks emptying at a fast rate because of the emissions control equipment ordered by the federal government.

There's been a significant reduction since 1970 when cars averaged 14 miles per gallon.

The current Chevrolet, for example, has grown seven inches in length and added 502 pounds since 1968.

But General Motors expects to reverse the trend of the last five years when it introduces its 1975-model cars in the fall of 1974. Tests have shown the fuel economy of one model has decreased during the last five years from 13.7 miles per gallon to 10.5 m.p.g. in city driving.

The addition of the catalytic converter, a muffler-like device with chemicals that convert harmful emissions into harmless gases and water, should bring mileage back up to 12.8 m.p.g. for that model.

"The great advantage of the catalytic converter for exhaust emission control is that the engine can be tuned to achieve better fuel economy while the converter keeps the system in compliance with emission standards," says Dr. Craig Marks, a technical assistant to the vice president of the GM Engineering Staff.

"Although all of our cars may not experience this gain," says Marks, "we hope, across our product line to approach the pre-control, 1968 fuel economy levels."

Quarantine Sign Will Be Removed

A controversial quarantine sign on Bolinas-Olema Road, the object of citizens' objections since it was erected last Thursday, will be taken down, the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board decided last night.

After hearing complaints from about 20 persons, the board voted 4-1 to remove the four by eight foot metal sign that warns of possible dangers from contact with polluted waters at Bolinas Beach and Lagoon. Director Paul Kayfetz cast the dissenting vote.

A second sign, strung over the road at the entrance to the village, had been removed Saturday after several residents claimed it discouraged visitors from entering the town.

Directors decided to sell both signs as "collector's items" to the highest bidders, according to board clerk Lymon Robinson. Each cost $115 to make. Bids will be opened Sept. 5.

Directors also referred annexation requests fron nine property owners in the Mesa Road section near Bolinas to the county counsel for study and to initiate annexation procedures. The action does not bind the board to annex the area, however, Robinson said.

Directors announced that voters will be asked to approve the purchase of 95 acres on Bolinas Mesa for a sewage treatment plant in the November election. Purchase price of the land is $250,000.

The first major oil field in California was discovered near Santa Paula in 1866.

Strawberry Resident Poll Plan Is Opposed

A proposal to survey Strawberry residents about what they think the area's planning goals should be has run into opposition from the Strawberry Area Community Council.

According to Sandra A. Dorsaneo, council secretary, the council received the survey proposal Tuesday from Steven Chaum, a planner who has a contract with the county to refine the Strawberry master plan.

Chaum suggested that one out of 10 residents should be surveyed about whether open space acquisition, solving traffic problems or controlling building design should be tackled first in Strawberry.

According to Mrs. Dorsaneo, and in particular, J. Martin Rosse, who drew up the first draft of the Strawberry master plan, said that enough studies had been done9about residents' ideas.

"We felt that this would be a repeat of what we've done and not as good as working on precise zoning and establishing the density we want for different areas," she said.

She and Edward J. Sotelo of the council were appointed to work with Chaum in deciding if the survey was necessary.

The council also agreed to support Supervisor Michael Wornum, who attended the meeting, in his objections to the architectural design of an Ethan Allen furniture store proposed for the Alto Frontage Road along Highway 101. According to Mrs. Dorsaneo, the building has a tower to which Wornum is opposed.

Garbage Is Turned Into Fuel By Los Gatos Firm

LOS GATOS, Calif. (UPI) — A California company says it has developed a process to turn the nation's garbage and solid wastes into a clean, pellet-sized fuel.

Ian Allison, president of Sira International, Inc., of Sunnyvale and Los Gatos, Calif., said the new fuel source could reduce the strain on the nation's dwindling coal reserves and help solve the problem of what to do with the daily production of garbage.

"Less than two pounds of Sira pelletized fuel will be required to produce a comparable level of BTU's from one pound of coal, but the production cost will be as much as 25 per cent less," said Allison.

"I know our fuel will not replace coal but the use of it can surely extend the availability of existing reserves. This clean fuel source will mean the end to the solid waste disposal problems, elimination of old, smelly, unsightly garbage dumps and the many environmental problems they create.

"The use of the new Sira fuel will mean 69 million tons of coal per year can be conserved for the future. Plus more than $3 billion worth of raw materials can be reclaimed in a usable fashion ... "

"It normally costs between $13 and $18 a ton to produce coal in the United States while the Sira pelletized fuel has an estimated cost of merely $3 to $5 a ton," Allison said.

The company has a plant in operation at Los Gatos and is constructing another in the Tokyo suburb of Matsudo to handle a capacity of 500 tons a day.

Raw garbage and waste materials are delivered by collection trucks and dumped into the enclosed metal building. The garbage is moved to a conveyor belt by a skip loader and the belt feeds the load into a giant hammermill where it is reduced to four-inch particles.

"Everything goes," said Allison, "refrigerators, rubber tires, old Christmas trees and tons of household trash and garbage." Magnetic belts and hammermills "mine" out the ferrous metal and reduce the mixture to a two-inch size before it goes to a chopping process and then to the final air classifier.

Allison said development of an air classifier resulted in creation of the new pelletized fuel which has a capability of producing 7,058-7,533 BTU's per pound. Coal produces 10,000 to 15,000 BTU's per pound.

The air classifier aerates the refuse mixture and removes considerable moisture while separating about 90 per cent of the heavy fractions of aluminum, cooper, brass, glass, rubber, plastics, wood and other dense materials.

The lighter fractions of paper and organic matter are carried into a screen drum which removes the glass, lint, dirt and dust.
